What—does—Depreciation—mean?

YOU can buy a "light" Car for a couple of hundred, drive it for two years, and perhaps get £80 for it on re-sale. If you keep it longer, at any rate on Irish roads, you will become a haunter of garages and repair shops, and forget you were once a happy Motorist! A sturdy BEAN 12 will cost you £355, delivered, and for five or six years you will continue to be the happy Motorist. The BEAN stands up to the roughest work. It is not a dear Car, and it is far less costly, in depreciation, than the cheap "light" Cars now being rushed on the market. The BEAN is sponsored and Sold by

MESSRS. GANLY'S AUTUMN SHEEP SALES.

The second auction of sheep for the present season was successfully conducted by Messrs. Ganly Sons and Co. yesterday at the Dublin Cattle Market, this being one of the series of their 67th annual autumn sales. Upwards of 2,800 sheep and lambs were offered. There was again a good attendance of buyers, and, although bidding appeared to be rather slow at the start, the few lots which were passed under the hammer were placed at satisfactory prices afterwards, and a good clearance was effected, except for a few lots of middling and inferior classes. H. D'E. WOMAN AND HER HOME.

THE DRAMATIC POWER OF THE TRAM.

THE tram is almost full. One goes inside, and the first looks of curiosity are now mixed with looks of stinging indifference as one lurches backwards and forwards looking in vain for one's penny.

"Seat for another down there!" says the conductor. (Indeed, there is a legend affixed that reads, "To seat twenty-five.") Though one disagrees profoundly with the conductor on what constitutes a seat, still one is obliged to assume a sitting posture in the place indicated. One's neighbour gets out at the next stop and one sits back in comparative comfort. Now a large lady looms in the door: "Seat for another down there," says the conductor. One's next emotion is related to a realisation that the world has come to an end, and that someone in the tram has called on the mountains to fall upon us and cover us. That is all right for them. Personally, one does not feel either sufficiently glorified in the spirit or dead in the flesh, so one fights against it, and at first it would seem in vain. The mountain has gravity and a number of other natural forces on its side. But one has faith, and in the end faith conquers the mountain.

One emerges, breathless, flattened, but still alive. With a sigh of relief one reaches out for the lost strap, and one is once again jolted backwards and forwards. One catches sight of a sheepish face looking at one reproachfully. It is saying with its dull eyes: "What is wrong? Am I not good enough for you as a neighbour?" One realises that one is now looking down on the mountain that had threatened to crush one.

There is a little more room on the opposite side. This time one's neighbour is a thin gentleman. He has not got his ticket yet, and three of his children have gone on top. The conductor comes down the steps. "Tickets, please!" One now feels a vaguely uncomfortable sensation in the shoulder, followed by a definite blow on the chin. The gentleman is rooting in his pocket for his money, and as he dives again and again to bring up the right amount his elbow flies upwards to one's chin.

Everyone knows the man who sits sideways in the tram and him who shakes out his umbrella. One remembers, too, occasions when the twenty-five are seated and two recognise each other. Thanking and apologising, they change seats. A conversation begins. How annoying it is if one of the ladies replies what she is going to do this summer in too low a voice to be heard! One gloats over that conversation as much as one does over any conversation on the stage; for the tram has that curious power of dramatising the people in it.

A poet told me once that he hated the tram because it made everyone the same—he did not like the uniformity of it. He cannot have been in the Dalkey tram when a lady had to call a gentleman's attention three times to the fact that his umbrella was on fire before he condescended to listen to her. At last he cast his eyes into the folds, where he saw the match he had thrown away some seconds before still burning.

The tram may not please the poet—it is the harvest of the realist. M. LYSTER.

COLOURS OF CLOTHES IN THE MIDDLE AGES.

WE know from the portraits and pictures in illuminated missals that have come down to us from mediæval times that our ancestors, men as well as women, revelled in bright colours. Yet their clothes were never gaudy, for the colours, though bright, were not pure—e.g., the scarlet had a touch of yellow, the pink of blue or salmon, while the yellow was either reddish or greenish or had a tinge of grey or brown.

Chaucer and his contemporaries describe the clothes of their characters minutely, nearly always giving us their colour, material and pattern, and frequently the motto on the border. People in those days evidently regarded a man's dress as a sign of his character, and were in the habit of scrutinising it; otherwise the fashion of embroidering mottoes on borders would never have come in, for a motto would have been useless if it were never read. But we find it hard to identify the colours so minutely described. "Russet," "murrey" and "vair" are very frequently mentioned. "Russet," which was the usual colour of the leather jerkins, was almost certainly reddish; for we know that russet apples were then called "leather-coats."

"Murrey" is derived from the French murier (mulberry tree), and seems to have been sometimes lilac, sometimes red, and sometimes dark purple; probably there were as many shades of this colour as the mulberry passes through on the tree.

"Eyes of vair" are very often praised in mediæval poetry, and puzzled many. We know now that "vair" was the name of the fur of the grey squirrel; so "eyes of vair" were the soft grey eyes so common in England, and possibly the lashes may have been considered to give a furry softness to the glance. Chaucer says that the prioress's eyes were "as grey as glass" (glass was really almost grey then), and Mr. Ralston believes that, owing to a confusion between "vair" (fur) and "verre" (glass), both pronounced in the same way, the story of Cinderella's glass slipper has arisen. Those of our ancestors who could afford it dressed well, the men at least as gaily as the women. What would they have thought of the sombre attire of the former nowadays?

We have a far greater variety of materials and colours than they had, yet it is very doubtful whether any of us dress so picturesquely. H. D. CROFTON.

ALUMINIUM WARE.

THE increased popularity of aluminium ware is due, no doubt, to its many superior advantages in the home. This metal is made from Bauxite, a clay found at Les Baux, near Arles. It somewhat resembles silver, and is exceedingly light.

The housewife of to-day is glad to dispense with iron pots, pans, and other necessary articles used in the kitchen, and to put in their place those made of aluminium.

Aluminium does not chip or rust and it is not stained by fruit or acids. If properly cared for this metal will retain its bright appearance for a great length of time.

It is most important that soda should never be used in the water to wash aluminium, as soda causes it to blacken. Warm water and soap will usually leave it quite clean, or, if necessary, silver sand may be employed for cleansing articles both inside and out.

Though aluminium ware may be found more expensive to purchase than the old-fashioned iron, it is really more economical in the finish, as aluminium will remain sound for a much longer period. Again, aluminium is a great conductor of heat, therefore, quicker cooking can be carried on and less fuel is required to cook food.

All utensils used in the kitchen are now obtainable in aluminium. Teapots are specially popular; they can be bought in various sizes, fitted with Elo handle and knob. These handles are non-conductors of heat, and never lose their nice appearance.

A graduated measure, made in quart and pint sizes, is invaluable to the cook, as is a funnel, made from stout aluminium, grooved and fitted with hanging loop. It is needed for various jobs in the house.

The life of aluminium utensils will be found to be lengthened considerably if they are thoroughly dried before putting away. P.P.

BOY STRUCK BY FLYWHEEL

ACCIDENT AT BELFAST ROPE-WORKS.

William McKeown, aged 15, of Vicarage street, Belfast, received a fracture of the skull while working in the Belfast Ropeworks yesterday.

A fly-wheel flew off while working at a rapid rate, and hit the boy on the head.

The serious nature of his injury was not known until he arrived at the Royal Victoria Hospital, and he was able to walk unaided into the ambulance. His condition is critical.

corns
No matter how long you may have suffered from corns, or how deeply embedded they may have become, Radox Bath Salts will remove them without trouble and without pain. To cut a corn is but to prune it, and for the temporary relief you suffer increased agony a little later. A Radox foot-bath is the certain way to be rid of a corn. Read what this Radox user says:—
"As an agricultural labourer, I have suffered agonies, and have tried all sorts of so-called cures. . . . We got a packet of Radox, and the result was marvellous. The first soaking fetched out two large corns that nothing else would touch. One was about half an inch round, and stood out from the foot a good quarter inch, like a button." A. L.
When you put your feet into a foot-bath containing Radox, the salts soften the hard outer layer of the corn, and the oxygen which Radox liberates enters the pores, opens them, and penetrates further and further, carrying the corn-softening salts right to the root of the corn, which is thus loosened so that it can be lifted out bodily. The life-giving oxygen leaves the feet clean and healthy. Since it is the oxygen which carries the corn solvent right to the root of the corn, and since Radox liberates, by test, more oxygen than any other salts on the market, it is obvious that Radox is more efficient in removing corns than any other salts. More Radox Salts are sold than any other kind, a further proof of their efficacy.

EXCELLENT HINT TO STOMACH SUFFERERS
To those who suffer from acid-caused stomach disorders, such as indigestion, wind, heartburn, gastritis or other similar ailment, here's an excellent way—in fact, the only way—to get rid of the trouble quickly, easily, and at a very little cost. Go to your nearest chemist and get a package of "Bisurated" Magnesia, either powder or tablets; one is as effective as the other; it's a matter of which you prefer. This amazing remedy removes the cause of your stomach trouble by neutralising acidity and preventing food fermentation, which are the chief sources of all digestive ills. Nothing could be more logical than this, and because "Bisurated" Magnesia is the common-sense remedy for acid conditions of the stomach, doctors recommend it and many hospitals use it. The blue wrapper which encloses "Bisurated" Magnesia encloses the one remedy which stomach sufferers can rely upon to give quick and speedy relief, no matter how severe the trouble or how long it has lasted.

DUBLIN DULL.

TOBACCOS STRONG.

Despite the improved prospect of an early settlement in the coal dispute, Securities, likely to be most benefited by such an outcome, were dealt in with diffidence in most cases, and occasionally at a fresh decline in prices, while in other cases quotations advanced. The Funds, British and Local, were rather firmer markets. Sale pressure was shown for Bank of Ireland Stock, otherwise the Bank market was hard, with some signs of gathering firmness. Among Breweries, Guinness Ord. were again freely offered, and, in the absence of support, except at a concession, the price gave way further. Distillers were harder, and Dublin Distillers were dealt in. The annual meeting of the latter company will be held to-day, when an interesting statement on the difficulties of the trade may be expected. Among Rails, Great Southern Ord. eased, but Pre-Ord. issues finally closed firm. Dublin United Tram Pref. were harder. Parent Trust Pref. were lower on sale of a small lot, but Dunlop Rubber Ord. were again absorbed for the other side. Courtaulds were a good spot in the Textile group, as the shares moved up 1s. 3d. Bleachers were also wanted for the other side, and added to the recent improved price. Coats varied a few pence. Tobaccos were scarce at higher prices, but American "Fractions," owing to scarcity, rose further to 28s. 6d., the highest point yet reached, and equal to 114s. for the share against the current improved price of about 96s. 6d. for the full share, which rose 2s. 9d. J. G. Mooney and Co. Ord. further advanced to a fresh record figure on the maintenance of the interim dividend at rate of 15 p.c. per annum. Imperial Tobaccos were good in sympathy with B.A.T.

LONDON FIRMER.

RISE IN BRITISH RAILS.

A distinctly firmer tone prevailed in the London Stock markets, as a whole, yesterday, the decision of the miners' delegates to reopen negotiations having a good effect. Home Rails and Industrials were among those principally influenced, the former more particularly, and in these substantial improvements were registered in many directions. The volume of business transacted in markets generally, however, remained on a rather small scale, principal attention being centred on the Test match at the Oval. A quietly steady tone ruled in the gilt-edged section, and with the exception of Indias, which eased the turn, closing values were the same as on Tuesday evening. The principal feature among Foreign Government stocks was the sharp rally in French Loans on the improvement in the exchange. At the close the Fives showed an increase of ⅝, while the Fours finished ½ better. The development in the coal situation resulted in a further appreciation in Home Railway stocks. The traffic returns showed the following decreases:—Midland, £360,000; North-Eastern, £310,000; Great Western, £137,000, and Southern, £62,000. A generally quiet and steady tone ruled in Colonial and Foreign Rails, and, apart from a further appreciation in Cordoba Centrals, closing values were practically unaltered from Tuesday's levels.

A cheerful tone prevailed in Industrial sections under the influence of the more hopeful labour outlook. Textiles displayed a strong front, while Iron and Steels continued firm in tone. Tobaccos also hardened in certain directions, and Dunlops also went better. A quiet and steady tone ruled in Rubbers, while business in Oils remained on a small scale.

LEVER DRAWING 7 PER CENT. DEBENTURE STOCK.

Under the terms of the trust deed two per cent. of 7 per cent. Stock issued by the company is to be redeemed by drawings not later than the 28th August, and arrangements have been made for the drawing to take place on the 25th inst. Holders of Debenture Stock drawn are to receive one calendar month's notice, and such notice will be given on the 31st August, expiring on the 30th September.

INCOME TAX IN THE FREE STATE.

Mr. Charles H. Tolley has issued, as a supplement to his Income Tax Chart, a section dealing with income tax and super-tax in the Free State, and provisions for relief from double taxation when the same income is also taxed in Great Britain or Northern Ireland. Everything relating to all phases of income tax is dealt with in the eight sections into which the guide is divided (8d. net, from all booksellers).

OIL IN SWEDEN.

Several members of the Swedish Government have visited the new oilfields near Skelleftea, in Norrland. Interviewed, the Minister of Commerce declared that there are much greater possibilities than the members of the Government ever expected. Nobody who had seriously studied the question could doubt any longer that the resources would fulfil all expectations.

CONSTANTINOPLE'S MISTAKE.

The British Foreign Office has received an intimation from the Embassy at Constantinople that the recent police action against Chambers of Commerce was an administrative mistake, contrary to the orders of the Angora Government, and will not be repeated. The foreign Chambers of Commerce in Constantinople will, therefore, be free to function as hitherto.

A PROMISING SHARE.

Some activity has lately been noticeable in the shares of the Province of Buenos Ayres Waterworks, the Ordinary being now about 15s. 6d., at which they appear to offer reasonable prospects of capital appreciation over a moderate period. The company recently underwent a scheme of capital reorganisation which got rid of the arrears of Preference dividend and converted the "A" Shares into shares of £1 each. The evidence of the working of the company in the new form goes to show that a dividend may be anticipated on the Ordinary Shares on account of the current year.

BELFAST.

Business was very idle yesterday, and transactions were few and far between. In Home Government stocks the 5 per cent. War Loan was unchanged, being dealt in at 101⅛ and 101⅛. In Bank shares, Northern Bank "A" repeated previous price, 5⅞. Other Bank shares were unaltered. In Industrials, Coats Ord. changed hands at 61s. 6d., British-American Tobacco New Ord. at 75s. 6d. and 74s. 9d., and Fractions at 26s. 6d. Dunlop Rubbers brought 28s. 6d., and Swedish Match "B" 14⅞.

WALFORD LINES.—Profit £4,797. After adding balance brought forward of £840 there remains a balance of £5,637, which directors propose be carried forward.

LONDON MOVEMENTS.

A quiet and steady tone ruled in the gilt-edged section, but, with the exception of Indias, which went back the turn, closing values were practically without alteration. Among Indias, the Threes at 59¾ were ⅛ easier, while the 3½ p.c. dropped a similar amount to 69¼. Among Colonial Government stocks Nigeria 6 p.c. at 113 were a point to the good.

In the Foreign Government stock market French Loans enjoyed a sharp rally, owing to the improvement in the franc, and at the close of business the Fives showed a gain of ⅝ to 9⅛ x.d., while the Fours at 7⅛ were ⅛ better. Reconstruction Loans were firmer, Greek Sevens going ½ harder to 92¼. Peruvian Corporation Pref. were again on the up-grade, and at the close a further improvement of ¼ was registered to 49¼, while the Ord., although without material change, was firm in tone.

RAILS BUOYANT.

The more hopeful outlook regarding the coal situation was reflected in Home Rail stocks, and quotations went forward quite smartly in many directions. Great Westerns at 88¼ were ½ better, and Midland Ord. at 73½ also closed ½ higher, while the 4 p.c. Pref. at 73 x.d. were a full point to the good. North-Eastern 5 p.c. Pref.-Ord. at 54½ were a point to the good, and the 4 p.c. 1st and 2nd Prefs. at 67½ x.d. and 59½ x.d. were a point and two points higher respectively. Metropolitan Consols at 64 showed an improvement of a point, and Districts at 52 were ½ firmer. Southern Def.-Ord. at 45½ also gained ½ on the day's business, while Underground Ord. at 3⅞ were ⅛ to the good.

Colonial and Foreign Rails, with the exception of Cordoba Centrals, were quiet, and for the most part unaltered, while business remained on a small scale. Cordoba Central Ord., however, finished a further ½ higher at 83½, while the 2nd Pref. at 55½ were a full point to the good. Canadian Pacifics and Grand Trunks were quiet and without change as were Mexicans and Argentines.

RUBBER SHARES QUIET.

The volume of business transacted in the Rubber Share market yesterday remained on a small scale, while a quiet and generally steady tone prevailed. A quiet tone ruled in the commodity market, but quotations as a rule weakened a trifle towards the close of business. Spot opened at 1s. 7⅝d., hardened to 1s. 7¾d., and later eased to 1s. 7½d. per pound, which represents a decline of ⅛d. per pound on the day. September dropped from 1s. 7⅞d. to 1s. 7⅝d. per pound, while October kept steady at 1s. 8d. per pound. January to March eased from 1s. 8⅜d. to 1s. 8¼d. per pound. In the share market, Bukit Kajang hardened to 66s. 3d., or 1s. 3d. firmer on the day. Sendayan spurted to 53s. 9d. ex div., or 2s. 6d. firmer. Sungei Buaya were another firm spot, the final level of 57s. 6d. being 2s. 6d. higher, while Sumatra Consols at 46s. 10½d. c.d. were 1s. 10½d. above the overnight level. Allagar dropped 3d. to 4s., while Gadjah weakened a trifle to 10s. 7½d. Kamuning also fell back the turn, as did New Hayoep.

TEA SHARES BETTER.

Although the volume of dealings put through in the Tea Share market yesterday continued on a rather quiet scale, the firmer tendency evident on the earlier days of the week was again manifest, and closing quotations were appreciably higher in many instances. Amalgamated Estates went 1/16 harder at 42⅛, and Brahmapootra at 38 were ½ better. Budla Beta put on 1/16 to 6⅞, and Ceylon Plant at 6⅞ were also 1/16 firmer. Consolidated Tea and Lands closed ⅛ firmer at 33⅛. Darjeeling Consols. were a firm market the final quotation of 62s. 6d. being 3s. 4½d. higher.

OIL SHARES IRREGULAR.

While it cannot be said that there was much, if any, improvement in the volume of transactions yesterday, the leading Oil shares displayed a firmer tendency. On the other hand, Venezuelans were dull, and, taking the list as a whole, the price movements resulting from the day's business were of an irregular character. Despite the easier tendency in New York on the preceding day, Shells were a firm market, and after touching 4⅞, left off rather buyers at 4⅞, the Bearer shares also closing unchanged at 4⅞, while a moderate demand existed for the 7 per cent. Prefs., which strengthened to 25s. 3d. Royal Dutch also displayed firmness, rising ⅛ to 31⅞, while Anglo-Americans closed steady at 3⅞. A good start was made by Anglo-Persians, which were bid for in the early hours at 4⅞, but they came on offer later, and fell to 4⅞ offered, closing either side of the latter price, the result of the day's business being a loss of 1/16. Burmahs were supported, and improved 1/16 to 5⅛. Dealings in Mexican Eagles were on a small scale, Paris again being hardly a factor in the day's business. At the close the Ord. and 8 per cent. Participating Prefs. were easier at 18s. 4½d. and 17s. 3d., respectively; but the 7 per cent. Prefs. responded to a moderate demand and strengthened to 16s. 6d. Among Venezuelans, British Controlled were again a dull market, disappointment being occasioned by the latest production and shipment figures, and resulting in some offering of the shares. The Common shares weakened to 8s. 9d., and the Pref. to 10s. 9d. V.O.C. Holdings fell 1/16, the Ord. to 3⅞, and the Prefs. to 3⅞. Despite the improvement in New York overnight, Lagos receded 1/16 to 4⅞.

ADVANCING TEXTILE PRICES.

The decision of the coal miners' delegates to reopen negotiations with the miners was regarded as a good omen in the Industrial market yesterday, and as a result prices were marked up to a moderate extent in several instances. Renewed activity was witnessed in the Coal, Steel, and Engineering groups, but the best showing was made by Textiles. Buying orders from the North left their impression on the Textile section. Bleachers at 44s., and Bradford Dyers at 52s., each gained 1s., with Fine Spinners at 45s. 9d., Joshua Hoyles at 27s. 6d., both 9d. to the good. Advances of 6d. were recorded by Calico Printers at 30s. 3d., Sewing Cottons at 52s., Linen Threads at 32s. 6d., and Listers at 23s. 3d. Wardle and Davenport put on 1/16 at 3⅛. Dyestuffs touched 12s. 3d. at one time, but reacted later to 11s. 7½d. Of the Art Silks, Courtaulds fluctuated between 5⅞ and 5⅞, finally closing at the latter figure, 1/16 higher on balance. Snias held their advance at 1⅞. Apex Artsilk Pref. improved to 13s. 3d., and Bulmer Rayon Pref. to 8s. 3d.

Hopes of peace in the coal world induced further support for Coal, Steel, and Engineering descriptions. Quite a number of shares changed hands. Armstrongs advanced to 6s., Baldwins to 7s., John Brown partly-paid shares to 8s. South Durham Steels to 2⅞ and Vickers to 9s. 3d. Hadfields at 16s. 3d. and United Steels at 5s. 3d. were also in demand. An investment demand for Electrical Equipment issues was again noted, and both General Electrics at 30s. 6d. and Johnson and Phillips at 64s. 6d. gained 6d. There was quite a large turnover in "Bats," which changed hands up to 96s. 9d., and finished a further 1s. 6d. up at 96s. "Imps" also changed hands freely up to 114s., and closed with a net gain of 9d. at 113s. 3d. Elsewhere in the Tobacco group, United Souths were a good market 1/16 up at 4⅛, but the rest had a dull appearance. Carreras weakened to the extent of ⅝ at 14½, with Godfrey Phillips 1/16 down at 5⅛, and Copes and R. J. Hill unchanged. There was very little doing among breweries, where the tone was described as steady. Watney Def. were dealt in up to 264, and Style and Winch had buyers around 40s. South African Breweries changed hands at 51s. Nitrates moved within narrow limits, but the undertone was firmer, with Alianzas favoured ½ better at 9⅞. Banks remained quietly firm, apart from Union of Australia, which shed ⅛ at 14⅞.

Motor shares failed to attract much attention, but Morris Motor Prefs. hardened to 1s. discount. Shipping issues were uncertain. Royal Mail Prefs. put on 1 to 84½, and an inquiry for Oceanic Steam Debs. saw a similar advance to 93½, but both Houlder Line Pref. at 3⅞ and Lamport and Holt Pref. at ⅞ were fractionally easier. Among Insurance shares North British and Mercantile rose ½ to 23, and the tone generally of this section was firm. Among Newspapers, Allied further advanced to 44s. 6d. A feature in the Traction group was the demand for Sidros, which changed hands up to 12⅞ and closed ½ higher at 12½. Barcelona Common held at 37½, but Brazilian Tractions fell back a point to 114, and Mexico Trams a similar amount to 15. In the Miscellaneous department there were few features of interest. Many Sugar issues continued to meet with inquiry, the Ordinary at 2⅞ and the Deferred at 12⅞. Dunlops remained an uncertain market, and eventually closed 3d. harder at 28s. 6d. Cement descriptions were harder. Swedish Match "B" gained the turn at 14⅞, but Bryant and Mays were slightly easier at 48s. Gramophones stiffened to 64s. 6d., and Columbia Graphophones were slightly harder at 51s. 3d.

LONDON MINING MARKET

RATHER IDLE.

In the Mining Market yesterday there was not a great deal doing, and few changes were recorded in Kaffirs. After the selling orders received from the Cape a change of policy from this centre was welcome, although the inquiries sent were not numerous, and mainly for specialities. Central Mining were easier, the previous day's rise bringing in a few sellers, but the other finance shares were quiet and steady. Sub Nigels were unchanged throughout the day, a harder tendency being reported from South Africa, where the shares were 57s. 6d. bid ex-dividend. On this side the price is still full of the dividend. Renewed attention was given to Rose Deep on behalf of Cape operators, and another rise took place, while Village Deep were also in favour and hardened. Crown Mines lost ground, but the recent decline in Springs Mines has encouraged a little buying, and these shares were quietly picked up throughout the day. The reaction in West Springs does not yet appear to have ended, and a further loss was shown. T.C.L. were offered and declined, and S.A. Townships were also easier. Rhodesians presented a more animated appearance. A large turnover was reported in Southern Rhodesia Base Metals, for which the Cape was sending buying orders. On the report Rhodesia and General Asbestos hardened, and Congo Borders were also better. Bwana Mkubwas weakened the turn. Cam and Motor eased, but as these shares will soon be quoted x.d., it is considered likely that they will be regarded as cheap, and a recovery may set in. Diamonds were steady, De Beers Defd. losing a small fraction and West Africans easing on profit-taking. Tin is slowly climbing back after last week's setback, and gained £1 at £292 2s. 6d. per ton. The Share market, however, was particularly quiet. The buying of Tronohs mentioned in yesterday's issue was again in progress, and the price hardened; while Ipohs gained the turn. Nigerians were very idle, and a little early end of account selling was reflected in a few small losses. In Coppers, Rio Tinto advanced with the help of Paris, and the buying of Mount Lyells continued on the strength of the metal price. Lena Goldfields were again a centre of activity, and a further small rise was shown. It is privately reported that arrangements for the increase of the Vipond Consolidated capital are well advanced, it being intended to acquire several important adjoining properties with the new capital. In other directions there was a good recovery in Santa Gertrudis shares. Recent selling, it is stated, has been caused by fears that the new Mexican mining regulations would be harmful, but these do not affect the existing companies. A better, though belated appreciation of this fact led to yesterday's recovery in Santa Gertrudis.

Owing to a telegraphic breakdown, we have had to go to press this morning without a number of our financial features.

HOW LAND RATES MOUNT.

THE UNWELCOME VALUATION REVISER.

Protesting against the visit of a revising valuer to the Oulart (Co. Wexford) district, a resolution, passed by the Oulart branch of the Farmers' Union, pointed out that, under legislation, such as the Dairy and Cowsheds Order and the Dairy Produce Act, farmers were expected to improve the housing accommodation for stock, but the valuation revisor then penalised them for their thrift and enterprise by increasing their valuation. The result was that the industrious farmer had to pay more rates than his more indolent neighbour.

THE MONEY MARKET.

LOANS STILL STRINGENT.

FRENCH FRANCS DEARER.

The repayment of a fairly large sum to the Bank of England yesterday further taxed market resources, and it was found necessary to renew a small portion of this amount. Calls on new issues absorbed £2,400,000, against which disbursements amounted to about £2,000,000. Short loans were in good demand, with borrowers again paying up to 5 per cent., although 4½ to 4¾ per cent. appeared to be the more general charge. Fixtures went on at 4 per cent. The discount market remained very firm the tendency being for bills of all dates to gravitate towards 4½ per cent. This rate was generally quoted for fine three months' maturities, while six months' bills, for which there was a little foreign inquiry, were not better than 4⅞ per cent. The new Treasuries remained on offer at 4½ per cent. sellers.

America sold bar silver, but the China banks bought, and prices were higher. The spot quotation rose 1/16d. to 28⅝d., while the forward quotation was ⅛d. higher at 28⅞d. per ounce. The price of gold remained at 84s. 9½d. per fine ounce. The Bank of England announced the purchase of gold bars to the value of £17,000; also that £10,000 in sovereigns had been taken for export to Spain. The net gold influx for the week amounts to £179,000.

A fairly substantial appreciation took place in French and Belgian Francs. At one time the Paris quotation was close to 174, but finally the rate was nearly 7½ francs lower at 169¼. Business in Belgian francs was recorded at 178⅜, from which there was a recovery to 175⅜, showing a movement in favour of Brussels of over 4½ francs. Lire were also better at 147½, and the currencies of Norway and Rumania improved, but Dutch florins were chaper at 12.11½, and Spanish pesetas reacted in our favour to 31.36½. Sterling, as quoted in American dollars, rallied to 4.86, which was the best rate touched during the day. South American exchanges were steady.

AVOIDANCE OF TRADE DISPUTES.

SHIPYARD WORKERS' STEP.

At a meeting of the Federation of Shipbuilding Trade Unions, held at York yesterday, several questions respecting the industry were discussed. Chief among them was an agreement for the avoidance of disputes, which had been negotiated between the employers' and the workers' federations, and instructions were given that it should be signed at an early date.

A lengthened controversy between the Federation and other organisations on the membership of railway workshop employés was again brought up, and the opinion was expressed that the settlement of all outstanding problems would be reached by the acceptance of the membership agreement and the proposed agreement for national machinery for dealing with disputes within the industry.

The mining dispute and its reference to industry in shipbuilding and engineering centres was discussed, and it was resolved to express the admiration of the Federation of the miners' resistance to a reduction of the standard of living, "realising that any increase in hours or reduction in already low wages would reflect itself in every other industry."

COMPANY MEETING.

JOHN POWER & SON, LTD.

THE CRUSHING SPIRITS DUTY.

The sixth annual general meeting of this company was held yesterday at the offices of Messrs. Stokes Bros. and Pim, 36 College Green, Dublin.

The Chairman, Sir Thomas Talbot Power, Bart., D.L., presided. The other directors present were:—The Right Hon. Sir Stanley Harrington, P.C.; Mr. Joseph X. Murphy, Mr. B. T. O'Reilly, Mr. William Ryan, Mr. Lewis Farrell, and Mr. Henry J. O'Reilly.

The Secretary read the notice convening the meeting and auditors' report.

The Chairman said:—As the directors' report and accounts for the year ending 30th June, 1926, have been in your hands for some weeks, it is unnecessary for me to review the figures, except to say that, although the net profits for this year show an increase as compared with 1925, this, unfortunately, is not caused by increased sales, but is mainly due to curtailment of general and manufacturing expenses.

At our last meeting, you will recollect, I called your attention to the difficulties under which the pot still distilleries were working, owing to continuation of duty at the extraordinarily high rate of 72s. 6d. per gallon.

This high duty was imposed as a war measure, and, while it is true that for some years after the war, when money was circulating in a fictitiously free manner, it was possible to maintain the average sale of whiskey, yet now, when in other respects we are coming back to pre-war levels, it is absolutely impossible to maintain sales with a retail price of 1s. 8d. per glass, no less than 10d. of which is represented by duty.

When the Finance Bill was before the Senate on the 7th July last, an eminent authority stated "that, if the spirits duty be not reduced, it would be only a question of time until the consumption would be so small that it would not support any of the distilleries now existing." With reasonable treatment by the Government, the distilling industry could be kept alive, with undoubted advantage to the farmers, workers and investing public.

The Government, those engaged in the distilling trade, the farmers and barley growers in Ireland are equally interested in the business, and the Government must see that with the rapidly falling revenue, caused by the excessively high taxation of 72s. 6d. per gallon on Irish pot still whiskey, immediate relief is necessary in order to restore that revenue, aid agricultural interests, and maintain the distilling industry.

DISTILLING RESUMED THIS WINTER.

Our stocks of old whiskey are ample, and, this being so, it was not considered prudent, when the fall in consumption generally was taken into consideration, to manufacture during last season; but, as you are, of course, aware, it is necessary to preserve continuity, so that distilling on a moderate scale will be resumed during the coming winter.

Every possible economy has been practised, and your Board continue to give this their special attention.

The efficiency of your distillery is in the highest possible state, and I hope that before we meet again the Government will have reviewed the position and given the distilling industry the relief to which it is justly entitled.

May I impress upon you the importance of favouring our home production, distilled from malt and corn grown solely in Ireland, thereby helping your own interests and those so closely allied with them?

I now have pleasure in moving the adoption of the directors' report and accounts for the year ended 30th June, 1926.

Sir Stanley Harrington seconded the motion.

Mr. J. X. Murphy proposed, and Mr. W. J. Walsh seconded, that a final dividend be paid on the Preference Shares at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum for half-year ended 30th June, 1926 (less income tax).

The retiring directors and auditors were re-elected.

Mr. Richard Eustace proposed, and Mr. Edward White seconded, a vote of thanks to the Chairman, directors and staff, which the Chairman acknowledged.

LARGE REVERSION TO CHARITIES.

WEALTHY MAN'S BEQUESTS TO SERVANTS.

Major James Joicey, J.P., of Poulton Priory, Fairford, Gloucestershire, formerly of Tanfield, Durham, and lately a director of the Midland and South-Western Junction Railway Co., who died on last July 6th, aged 65 years, son of the late Mr. James Joicey, of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and of Tanfield, Durham, left unsettled property of the gross value of £188,123 1s. 8d., with net personalty £65,097 11s. 2d. Probate of his will, dated last October 30th, with two codicils, has been granted to Mr. Thomas Kirkland Rylands, land agent, of The Down House, Torkington, and Mr. Allan Aylmer Luxmoore, solicitor, of 5 North Bailey, Durham.

The testator left an annuity of £65 to his stud groom, Albert Feltham, and his wife, or the survivor of them; an annuity of £65 similarly to his former butler, William J. Booth, and his wife; an annuity of £50 to his groom, Thomas Cook; an annuity of £26 to E. J. Tolley, formerly housekeeper to the Rev. Richard Arnold; £200 to his farm manager, James Thomson, if still in his service; £100 similarly to his chauffeur, Percy Cook; £50 similarly to his cook, Isabel Cook; £25 similarly to his wife's maid, Dorothy Banks. He directed that his remains should be cremated, and the ashes distributed in Ready Token Cover (a part of the Poulton Priory estate); that no hearse, coaches, or black horses, or any sign of mourning whatsoever, should be used or employed in connection with the removal of his remains, or in consideration of regard or respect for him or his memory, and that the Ready Token Cover should not be sold.

To his wife, Mrs. Mariska Christobel Joicey, he left £10,000 and his consumable stores absolutely; £500 each, in addition to professional charges, to Thomas Kirkland Rylands and Allan Aylmer Luxmoore, as executors; and an annuity during spinsterhood of £400, clear of tax, to his stepdaughter, Magda Grace Joicey, or, in the event of her marriage with the consent of his trustees, he left £6,000 upon trust for her benefit. All other his property he left to his wife for life (with certain powers of appropriation of capital), and, subject thereto, £250 to the Fairford Cottage Hospital; £1,500 each to his brother-in-law, Robert Squarey Fulton; his nephew, Robin Joicey Fulton, and each of his nieces, Muriel Rickman and Eveline Dodgson; £8,500 upon trust for his nephew, Robin Joicey Fulton, and his issue, and the ultimate residue upon trust for his sister, Emily Jane Fulton, for life, with remainder to such charities or charitable objects as his wife may appoint, and, failing appointment, then as his trustees, in their absolute discretion, shall decide, having regard to his own known previous wishes.

THE "DEAD MAN'S HAND."

ELECTRIC TRAIN MOTORMAN'S FATE.

At an inquest at Newcastle last night on William Skinner, electric train motorman, found dead on the London and North-Western Railway at Heaton, two miles from the scene of a collision between his run-away train and a stationary goods train, it was stated that the controlling gear known as the "dead man's hand" had been found fastened with handkerchiefs, a very unusual occurrence.

The jury found that the deceased man died from a fractured skull, caused by his head having come into contact with a bridge while looking out of the window.

STOCKS CLOSED FIRM.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, Wednesday.

Stocks at the opening ruled irregular. Railroads were consistently strong, Union Pacifics touching 159¼, the highest price for twelve years, and Chesapeake and Ohio 153⅜, Chicago Rock Island 63¼ and Pere Marquette 104⅛, all "records"; but Industrials were subjected to intermittent selling until in the final dealings, when the buoyancy of Radio Corporation and Motor shares caused a general rebound. U.S. Steel Common early touched 152¼. Bears utilising the intimations that there will be no stock dividends this year as lessening the hopes of rumoured special payments by other companies. The "cut" in the Cuban American Sugar Company's quarterly dividend, the maintenance of firm money rates and failure of the strength of railroads to sustain other issues caused some early losses of 3 to 4 points, and National Tea fell 12 points. In the last few minutes Mack Trucks advanced 5 and Pierce Arrow Preferred 7½, and the market closed firm. Government Bonds irregular; Railroad Bonds irregular. The day's sales totalled 1,740,000 shares.

Money on call closed steady at 4½ p.c. bid and 4¾ p.c. asked. All business was transacted at 4½ p.c. Prime Mercantile Paper was quoted at 4½ p.c. Sterling exchange steady. Silver ⅛c. higher at 62.

WHEAT opened steady, ⅛c. to ⅛c. down. After early steadiness the market eased under selling by North-West operators and local professionals, owing to the increasing stocks; but later reports that excessive rains were hampering the harvesting in the North-West and fears of further rains brought active covering and commission house buying. MARKETING IRISH BUTTER.

On the assumption that the production of the creameries is standardised, improvements in the marketing of butter could be effected by the centralisation of manufacture in the case of new creameries: the establishment of a central organisation of creameries whose butter will carry a Government guarantee of quality.

It is also proposed by Mr. D. Hegarty, secretary of the Irish Creamery Managers' Association, that such central organisation would fix quotations, regulate supplies, check underselling, and arrange special terms for cold storage, etc.

The advisability of establishing a trading association for the sale of rolls under a common trade mark might be considered.

Among the advantages of such a system, writes Mr. Hegarty, would be the following:

Creameries would to some extent become independent of the large importers or purchasers of their bulk product whose inclinations will always be to handle, not so much the product which is of the best quality, but, provided it is reasonably uniform, the butter that yields them the most profit.

The possibility of foreign or inferior butters being substituted by retailers or sold as Irish creamery would be entirely eliminated.

It would be the only way in which the identity of the butter could, with absolute certainty, be preserved until it reached the consumer, who, if satisfied with the article, would insist on being supplied with it.

The tendency of the better off classes to buy packet goods is continually increasing, and, therefore, with a reasonable amount of pushing such a trade would develop gradually and eventually absorb a very large proportion of our make.

The roll trade would give greater employment at the creameries. It would eventually absorb all the make of the smaller creameries, and help to keep many such struggling concerns going, and in a position to pay satisfactory prices for milk.

None of the plans herein proposed need disturb, to any great extent, the freedom of sale which at present exists, or the valuable connections which the creameries have acquired by long years of good salesmanship. To throw these connections into the melting pot of any organisation would be as impracticable as it would be unnecessary and uneconomic.

MORE LIVE STOCK IN ENGLAND.

For the fifth year in succession the number of cattle in England and Wales shows an increase, and this year's number is the largest on record. Since 1921 the herds of the country have been increased by 736,000. Cows and heifers in milk or in calf number 35,800 more than the previous record number of 1925. There are more young stock under a year old on the farms than in any pre-war year.

A further good increase is recorded in the flocks, and the total number of sheep and lambs is now only 400,000, or less than 2½ per cent., smaller than in 1914. Increases are general throughout the country, very few counties showing reductions. The number of pigs on agricultural holdings shows a further decline this year, but the reduction is relatively smaller in the case of breeding sows than in other pigs, an evidence that farmers had begun to keep on more gilts for breeding than was the case a few months before the date of the census.

The number of horses on agricultural holdings is again reduced, but the decline in breeding has not been so rapid as in the past few years. The number of foals does, however, show an appreciable decrease, but the decline of 3,900 compares with reductions of 10,000, 11,500 and 17,500 in the three previous years.

PROFITABLE DAIRY HEIFERS.

With a view to improving the breed of dairy cattle, the Co. Cork Committee of Agriculture have offered prizes for heifers in their first lactation period, and that calved at three years or under. The yields of milk and butter-fat for a period not exceeding 45 weeks were taken into account. It was a condition that heifers should not only qualify for registration in yield of milk and butter-fat, but that they should be of a size, symmetry and general appearance with well-formed udders to permit of their acceptance for registration in the spring of 1926.

The results show that twenty-four heifers qualified for the competition. Four yielded between 9,000 and 10,000lb. each; four between 800 and 1,000 gallons, four between 800 and 900 gallons each, six between 700 and 800 gallons, and ten between 600 and 700 gallons.

Irish Farming Review

Group of Registered Dairy Cows at Kanturk Show.

RESEARCH.

THE FARM AND THE UNIVERSITIES.

The result of Ireland's (probably, indeed, it is Europe's) greatest Horse Show has been to produce amongst us a commendable return to self-confidence, following on an inevitable phase of self-distrust; but it will be foolish if we allow this new, necessary and, indeed, creative mood to degenerate into a tendency towards self-satisfaction, such as that we fault so often in our British neighbours. There are many reasons why a comparison between what is done for the industry of farming in the sister island—greatly as it falls behind the efforts of our Continental rivals—should stir us rather towards self-examination, and even a little healthy self-reproach, than towards a heady spirit of self-congratulation. It may be true in the main that, so far as Governmental action is concerned, Saorstat Eireann is in some respects in the van of the State policy of these islands.

Irish Eggs and Milk.

In the West of England, for instance, where, we hear, the Irish egg is broken at the breakfast table to better advantage than the native product, an Egg and Poultry Merchants' Association at Taunton last month urged on the British Ministry of Agriculture the adoption of methods foreshadowed, indeed, by the British Government, but actually practised by both Governments in Ireland. British County Councils, again, in interesting themselves in a pure milk supply, are taking some pages out of an Irish book. But if Britain is—to her disadvantage—behind the Continental nations in these matters, and even, perhaps, a little in our own wake, there seems reason to think that in those departments of organised effort which she has made specifically her own, England, and Wales, too, are well ahead of this country. We refer especially to those aspects of the application of the agricultural sciences to farm practice in which non-governmental agencies are at work, individual cultural initiative and organised effort working hand in hand.

Advancement of Science.

This is seen more spectacularly in the annual demonstrations of the British Association for the Advancement of Science than elsewhere, and the discussion on Sir Daniel Hall's address to the Association last week—already dealt with in an Irish Times editorial—is only one of many evidences that the men in the front rank of agricultural research in England are alive to the exigencies of the farmer and the public in their relations to each other—a subject of more fundamental interest, not only to these islands, but of the world, than the fate of the franc, and scarcely less important than the cause of world peace. But we do not need to consider the work of the annual parliament of British science to realise that English workers in the fields of applied science are leaving their countrymen and ours under almost daily debt of admiring gratitude for effective work done on farming. It is not mere chance that Cambridge should be the location of the Institute of Animal Nutrition, where Professor Wood and Dr. Marshall work on principles of feeding and breeding, which are of far-reaching interest to farm students to-day, and will be the methods adopted—slightly modified perhaps—by farm workers to-morrow; or that Sir Rowland Biffen, of whose work we wrote a fortnight ago, should in another Cambridge institution be working towards an improvement in our cereal crops.

Electricity and Agriculture.

It is from Cambridge, too, that the knowledge comes which guides Professor Dampier Whetham, F.R.S., in an excellent, if brief, résumé in the current Journal of the Ministry of Agriculture (London) of the present position of the relation of electricity to agriculture. And it is a like recognition of the natural relations between cultivation and culture, the treatment of the farm, and the more delicate processes of manuring the soil with one's brains, that places the Institute of Agricultural Economics in Oxford, and gives its director, Mr. C. S. Orwin, a right to speak with authority, and with a measured but genuine optimism on the improving prospects of the British small holder. These universities have recognised the inter-dependence of soil culture and mind culture.

From these centres of practical learning it is only the remove of a degree to the practical work done by the colleges of rural towns, such as Bangor and Aberystwith, where we have been assured valuable results attend upon research. Even a casual consideration of this must show that the over-industrialisation of Britain, if it is not free of danger to civilisation through its "lop-sided tendency to neglect farming," is a disease which develops a natural anti-toxin. Our own educational backwardness in matters of agricultural research—originally, perhaps, a result of the failure of legislators and others to distinguish a nation of farmers from a nation of shopkeepers, between whom reciprocal interests were confused with identical interests—has been intensified during the past decade, in which much good work has been done in England, by our absorption first in political and now in directly practical issues.

Research Necessary.

We believe, however, that the time has come when the minds of Irish researchers and the brains of those who apply research to practical life should be intensively directed towards our own farm problems. We understand that the National University, especially the Cork College, is interesting itself in dairying research. Nothing could be of a more immediate utility. There is a wide field in dairy bacteriology awaiting mental tillage, and which would, we are convinced, yield the country fruitful and remunerative harvests. It is to the good that the Government should realise this, and encourage the National University to pursue this path of investigation. Ours is not a country in which there are anything like equal opportunities with Great Britain for the intervention in culture or research of munificent private donors to endow chairs or reward inquiry. There is the more need, therefore, of Government patronage, though it must not be forgotten that such patronage—inevitably hedged round with conditions—involves the danger of checking initiative and narrowing the range of inquiry.

Cultivated Leadership.

To meet this danger, we think Irishmen of culture and goodwill who understand the Irish farmers' troubles, and realise that his power to help himself has rather severe limits in the modern world, should come to his aid. There are various ways in which this could be done, and they are mainly educational. Why should not some of the friends of Dublin University help it to maintain a friendly rivalry with the National in work upon the industry on which both of them and all of us ultimately depend? Why should not friends of the National vie with these (if they can be found) in a common national effort? Why, again, should not cultivated leadership be extended towards all the farming agencies? Could not the Farmers' Union benefit greatly from new infusion of young but trained and experienced minds? The Irish Agricultural Organisation Society has a clientele of individual supporters. It could with advantage be broadened and increased. The munificent example of its name-founder has given to the Horace Plunkett Foundation an Irish habitation. It, too, requires the help of those who can associate themselves with what is both a national need and an international agency to supply that need.

Marketing Methods.

There is the Royal Dublin Society, whose fine work furnished the starting point for this article, and there are its valuable, if less formidable, colleagues, the various show societies, whose excellent work we report from day to day, and more particularly the efficiently new Royal Ulster Agricultural Society. Even in naming these we do not exhaust the varying voluntary agencies at work in the interests of Irish farming. But we believe, having regard to the peculiar needs of a nation of small holders, that research with us may most fruitfully be directed towards economic fields. It will be vain to hope that Irish farming will do its part towards making two grains of wheat or oats grow where one grew before, if the farmer who markets them receives for two bushels the previous monetary equivalent of but one. That or something very like it is happening to-day, and, greatly as we need to pursue our studies of the natural sciences into directions calculated to increase our crops and multiply our live-stock, we need still more such a study of marketing methods and economic devices as will insure to the farmer the full reward of his labour.

A CLEAN MILK SUPPLY.

Milk producers in Britain on 1st October next will be subject to an Order for the purpose of ensuring a clean milk supply. With the exception of the regulations dealing with cattle disease, which are to be administered by the County Council or County Borough Council, the new Milk and Dairies Order, 1926, will be enforced and executed by the santitary authority.

All cowkeepers (i.e., persons who keep one or more cows for the purpose of the supply of milk) and dairymen are required to be registered by the sanitary authority for their district, together with the premises, including cowsheds, milk stores, etc., which are used for the purpose of the sale or manufacture of milk. If at any time it is proposed to use buildings not hitherto used for the purpose, one month's notice in writing must be given to the sanitary authority

Ventilation of Cowsheds

Certain clauses of the Order specify requirements for the lighting and ventilation of cowsheds and dairies, the provision of a water supply, and the flooring and drainage of cowsheds. In the case of lighting, ventilation and water supply, eighteen months' "grace" is allowed after the service of a notice relating to buildings in use as cowsheds and dairies on 1st October, 1926; and in the case of cowshed flooring and drainage, this notice may not be given until 1st April, 1928, so that in effect over three years' "grace" is allowed

Cleanliness

As from the date of operation of the Order, milk producers will be required to carry out certain measures intended to secure cleanliness in the production and handling of milk on the farm, and its prevention from disease contamination. Milking must be carried out in "a good and proper light," the milking quarters of the cow and the hands of the milker must be cleaned, and milking must be dryhanded as far as practicable. Dung must be removed from milking sheds at least once a day, and cowsheds must be kept always "reasonably clean and sweet," and the walls and ceilings lime-washed or lime-sprayed or otherwise disinfected at least twice a year, in April or May and September or October. Milk vessels and appliances must be kept thoroughly clean, and for this purpose oxidising and preservative agents (e.g., chlorine) are prohibited, except for mechanical milkers and similar appliances. Precautions have to be taken against subsequent contamination or infection of the milk; for example, it must not be kept in a kitchen or living room (except in the case of milk intended for use in the manufacture of butter, cream or cheese), and the vessels containing it must be properly covered. If a person engaged in milking or handling milk acquires an infectious disease, or has been in contact with an infectious "case," the medical officer of health may require him to keep away from his work until the risk of infecting the milk has passed. Further, if the medical officer has evidence that infectious disease is being conveyed by the milk, he is empowered—subject to certain limitations—to stop the supply for a period or periods of twenty-four hours; but should the notice be proved to be unjustified compensation may be claimed in respect of loss.

Milk Cooling

Another clause in the Order requires cowkeepers to cool milk without delay to a temperature not exceeding five degrees Fahrenheit higher than the temperature of the water supply available for cooling. Exceptions are allowed, however, (1) where the milk is sent forthwith to a collecting station and there cooled; (2) where the milk is used or sold for the manufacture of butter, cream, cheese, or other milk products; (3) where the milk is delivered to the consumer at least twice daily on the day of production; (4) where the milk is sold for retail delivery immediately after milking. Moreover, this "cooling" regulation does not come into operation until 1st April, 1927.

As regards cattle diseases, the Order makes it an offence to sell milk from cows suffering from (1) any comatose condition, (2) any septic condition of the uterus, (3) any infection of the udder or teats which is likely to convey disease. A local authority may serve a notice prohibiting the sale of such milk for a period or periods not exceeding five days.

FEEDING MILCH COWS ON GRASS.

Mr. W. D. Pounden, Ballywalter, Gorey, writes asking on what grounds "Brood Buchee" in his article, "Feeding Milch Cows on Pasture," asserts that barley has an adverse effect on the milk flow. This, he writes, is of importance to those who are doing all that is possible to use home grown foodstuffs. It is a set-back to farmers to see a mixture given which contains nothing but foreign grain. He adds:—

"It may interest some to know that "Hoard's Dairyman" recommends the use of a mixture of 7 parts barley, 2 parts oats, and 1 part bran, for feeding on pasture until early in July; and from that on the addition of some high protein containing meal. Some of us, at any rate, have had excellent results from following this advice."

BLACK SCAB IN POTATOES.

Mr. P. Ambrose Duffy, Dublin, writes that black scab is the most serious disease that has threatened the Irish potato industry. It can, he says, be given to the crop as it grows, and stopped or prevented at any given space. If, he adds, the seed was planted with the rose end up the disease could not be spread.

CANADIAN WHEAT POOL.

AN EXAMPLE FOR IRELAND.

In view of the fact that Irish farmers are being urged to adopt the principle of organised marketing, it is of interest to note that the farmers of Western Canada in less than three years have established the largest co-operative organisation of its kind in the world. The Canadian Wheat Pool, with its three units in the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, now has a total membership of 125,000 farmers, who control 13,230,000 of the 21,000,000 acres sown to wheat last year in the three prairie provinces. It is handling the sale of the greater part of the wheat production of Canada, and Canada already exports more wheat than any other country in the world.

The first of the three wheat pools commenced business in the Province of Alberta in October, 1923, and at the close of the first pool year on July 15, 1924, had handled 34,500,000 bushels of wheat shipped by its members. The price realised by the pool was 1.01 2-3 dollars per bushel, basis "One Northern" in store Fort William. A comparison of this price with the outside market values shows that the pool was instrumental in securing to its members at least two million dollars more than would have been the case had the pool not been in operation.

A Grand Organisation

Meanwhile, Manitoba and Saskatchewan were organising pools. In the autumn of 1924 they had perfected provincial organisations, and the three provinces then merged their selling strength into one giant marketing organisation, known as "The Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers, Limited," with headquarters in Winnipeg. This agency is incorporated under a Federal Charter, with very wide powers. Its function is to take delivery of the wheat from each of the respective provincial pools, and to place it on the markets of the world in such a manner as to secure a price commensurate with the natural law of supply and demand. Each of the three provincial pools is responsible for gathering the wheat of its own members, and placing it at the disposal of the Central Selling Agency, which is controlled by a board of nine directors, composed of the president, vice-president, and one director of each provincial pool.

The largest proportion of the wheat is sold by the Selling Agency to importers and buyers in different countries of the world, for the agency has direct selling connections with every wheat importing country and its own representatives in 51 ports of the world. The funds which accrue from the sales are disbursed to the members of the three Pools. This method of handling wheat provides a large volume through one agency and reduces the cost of operation to a minimum. In 1923 the Alberta Pool's operating costs amounted to approximately 2-5 of 1c. per bushel. In 1924 the cost to the Alberta members was slightly higher, but that the results were satisfactory in the main is evinced by the fact that over 3,000 new members have joined the Alberta Pool since the final payment for the 1924-1925 Pool went out.

A Big Transfer

Payment for wheat is made by the Pool to its members at an initial price at the time of delivery, and a final price at the close of the crop year, which is August 1st, or as soon after as possible. But if it is practicable and desirable the directors may make interim payments. Where the Pool does not own its own elevators arrangements have been made with elevator companies to take pool grain. Recently the Saskatchewan Pool bought the elevators of the Saskatchewan Elevator Company, another farmers' co-operative organisation. It was a big business venture, involving the transfer of 451 country elevators, 27 annexes, headquarters office building, two terminal elevators at Port Arthur, one at Buffalo, N.Y., lease of the Canadian National Railway terminal elevator at Port Arthur, and about thirty elevator agents' houses.

In Manitoba the pool is building 100 new elevators this year, and in Alberta elevators are being bought and built by the pool.

Long Term Contracts

The pool is able to acquire these properties, borrow money from the banks, and extend its plans over the future, because the members join under long term contracts, averaging five years. The membership fee in only 3 dollars, one dollar of which is for a capital share, and 2 dollars for organisation purposes.

AGRICULTURAL SCHOLARSHIPS.

The British Ministry of Agriculture has awarded ten scholarships and maintenance grants, tenable for three or four years at University Departments of Agriculture; ten tenable for two years at Agricultural Colleges and University Departments of Agriculture; and 113 scholarships for short courses at farm institutes. These are intended for the sons and daughters of agricultural workmen and others, and the occupations of the parents of the successful candidates are:—Agricultural workmen, 42; working bailiffs, 6; small-holders 39; other rural occupations (e.g., harness-maker, gardener, roadman), 22. The remaining 25 candidates qualified on their own account as bona fide wage-earners in the agricultural industry. The total number of applications received was 526.

ANGUS AND STORE CATTLE BREEDING.

Amongst pedigree stock breeders in Co. Meath one of the most progressive is Mr. Alex. Thom, Cullen House, Slane. This property has been in the Thom family for generations, and the name is also associated with a well-known Dublin Directory. During his father's lifetime the present owner travelled a lot, and spent twenty years in South Africa, where he farmed successfully and won many prizes with pedigree stock. In 1920 he sold out in South Africa and returned to one of the few properties in County Meath which have not changed hands during the past 50 years. It covers an area of 390 acres, and is managed in a way that necessitates the employment of eight men. Sixty acres of hay have been saved in good condition this season, and there is a large area under roots, but no grain is grown. It is more economical to grow it than to buy it, in the opinion of Mr. Thom.

Good Cross-Breds.

In addition to the pure-bred Angus there are over 30 half-bred heifers coming to the bull this year. The progeny of these will be retained until fit for the market. There are also here a number of cross-bred cows with calves by an Angus bull, experience having shown that it is better to breed stores than to bring them in from outside. One result of this policy is to ensure a uniform type that enhances the value of the stock. A good return on a heavy initial outlay is thus secured.

To-Day's Herd.

The present herd of Aberdeen Angus cattle, though established only three years, succeeds one that found a home here and was then dispersed. It comprises 20 females of good type, with bulls of the right stamp at their head. At present the demand for well-bred Angus stock in this country is enormous, but it is considered advisable to cultivate a foreign clientèle also, and with this object members of the Irish Aberdeen Angus Association are organising an advertising campaign.

A bull that should give a good account of himself later is the flat-topped, deep-ribbed, year-and-a-half-old Trojan Erica, Earl Benson of Cullen, by Prince Benson of Ballindalloch—Equity of Ballindalloch. Another good bull is the good-quartered Blackbird, Black Band of Coolcower, by Ermelo—Buenavista 2nd. He was reserve champion at Dublin in March, 1924, and cost 200 guineas. He has also other honours to his credit. Next to come under notice on the occasion of a recent visit was the Navan champion heifer, Fairy Maid of Cullen, by Justice Castlecrag—Fairy Maid of Darnaway 5th. She was first in her class and the Meath Farmers' Union special for best beast under 2 years 3 months, and also the cup for the best feeding beast having none of its permanent incisors cut. The cow, Proserpine of Auchterarder, by Black Idol, a champion of the Highland Show, and her heifer calf, is good to look at.

Among the pure-bred bull calves a particularly useful lot are Phil, Equality, Prince and Euchre, while the cross-breds already mentioned are very promising.

Store Cattle Industry.

Regarding the store cattle industry, Mr. Thom remarked that we should aim at getting as good a reputation for our cattle as we have for our horses. If we do that, and maintain it, we need not fear Canadian or any other cattle. Apropos of this he stated that when a certain railway in South Africa is completed, bringing that country fourteen days' still nearer to Britain, an effort will doubtless be made to secure a new market for Rhodesian cattle. This new source of competition is one that should be forestalled.

ANGUS AND STORE CATTLE BREEDING.

Amongst pedigree stock breeders in Co. Meath one of the most progressive is Mr. Alex. Thom, Cullen House, Slane. This property has been in the Thom family for generations, and the name is also associated with a well-known Dublin Directory. During his father's lifetime the present owner travelled a lot, and spent twenty years in South Africa, where he farmed successfully and won many prizes with pedigree stock. In 1920 he sold out in South Africa and returned to one of the few properties in County Meath which have not changed hands during the past 50 years. It covers an area of 390 acres, and is managed in a way that necessitates the employment of eight men. Sixty acres of hay have been saved in good condition this season, and there is a large area under roots, but no grain is grown. It is more economical to grow it than to buy it, in the opinion of Mr. Thom.

Good Cross-Breds.

In addition to the pure-bred Angus there are over 30 half-bred heifers coming to the bull this year. The progeny of these will be retained until fit for the market. There are also here a number of cross-bred cows with calves by an Angus bull, experience having shown that it is better to breed stores than to bring them in from outside. One result of this policy is to ensure a uniform type that enhances the value of the stock. A good return on a heavy initial outlay is thus secured.

VACATION LAW SITTINGS.

NURSING HOME ACTION.

CHARGES DISPUTED.

In the High Court, Dublin, yesterday, before Mr. Justice O'Byrne, Vacation Judge, in the case of Margaret Gaffney, widow, of 17 Earlsfort terrace, Dublin, against Thomas Sheridan, clerk of works, and Lily Sheridan, his wife, of 27 Coulson avenue, Rathgar,

Mr. John Bartley (instructed by Mr. T. Osborne Davis) applied on behalf of the plaintiff for an order for final judgment for £34 2s. 6d., the amount endorsed on the writ of summons in the action, which was brought to recover that sum, balance alleged to be due by the defendants to the plaintiff for work done and professional services rendered and money expended by the plaintiff for the use of the defendants at their request while the defendant, Mrs. Sheridan, was a patient in the plaintiff's nursing home, "Stella Maris House," 17 Earlsfort terrace, Dublin, from 20th April to 18th June, 1926.

In an affidavit Mrs. Gaffney, owner of the nursing home, stated that the amount mentioned was due and owing to her; that she believed that the defendants had no defence to the action, and that the appearance had been entered by them for the purpose of delay.

It was further stated in the affidavit, with reference to the different items in the account, including special nurses and laundry, etc., that three guineas a week was the usual fee for special nurses, and that there was a special nurse employed for three weeks during the time that Mrs. Sheridan was a patient along with the other nurses.

The defendants, in an affidavit which Mr. Bartley read, stated that they had a good defence to the action. As to the items set out in the claim endorsed on the writ, they, or either of them, never at any time agreed to pay the plaintiff the amount claimed or requested her to employ or expend any money for the payment of the special nurses named. As to the charge of six guineas per week, when Mrs. Sheridan first went to the home in September, 1921, the plaintiff agreed to let her a room at 5½ guineas per week, including all nursing and other attendance, and the plaintiff also agreed with the defendants that if at any future time Mrs. Sheridan should be a maternity patient in the plaintiff's home the same charge of 5½ guineas would be made.

Mr. Bartley also referred to a letter dated 25th June, in which the defendant, Mr. Thomas Sheridan, offered the plaintiff £50 in full settlement, which was not accepted.

Mr. M. J. Ryan (instructed by Mr. Henry B. O'Hanlon), who appeared for the defendants, said that his lordship would find that referred to in the affidavit.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne said that he had read all the affidavits, and without calling upon Mr. Ryan, refused the application for final judgment, and made an order transferring the action for trial to the Dublin Circuit Court, the costs of both parties to be costs in the cause.

HOUSE REPAIRS.

FINAL JUDGMENT MOTION.

Mr. Connor Maguire (instructed by Messrs. Little, O hUadhaigh and Proud), applied on behalf of Messrs. H. M. and T. Martin, builders, Dalkey, for final judgment in a claim for £200 15s. 10d. against Mrs. M. F. Ryan, who resides in London, for work done and material supplied in connection with the repair of a house, the property of the defendant, at Kingstown.

Mr. Nolan-Whelan (instructed by Messrs. C. J. Reddy and Sons), for the defendant, read an affidavit alleging that the amount claimed was in excess of the amount legally and justly due. He asked to have the motion dismissed with costs.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne said that the plaintiffs were builders and contractors, and admittedly they did a certain amount of repairs to the defendant's house at Dun Laoghaire. The defendant stated that certain items, to which she pointed, were not supplied, and that in respect of certain items the plaintiffs had overcharged. She had the premises inspected by Mr. G. L. O'Connor, a well-known architect, and he pointed to certain items which, he said, were overcharged. The total was £38 11s. 10d. So far as overcharging was concerned, that was the only evidence that he had before him. In addition to that the defendant said that certain items were not supplied. On the evidence before him, the only sum in respect of which the defendant could claim any relief was £42 16s. 11d. He deducted that amount from the £200 15s. 10d., and gave final judgment for £157 18s. 11d., without costs.

THE SALE OF A FARM.

ATTACHMENT ORDER ISSUED.

Mr. Rice, K.C., with whom was Mr. Gerald Burke (instructed by Messrs. James L. Burke and Co.), applied on behalf of Mr. Martin McDonald, of 39 Lower Dorset street, Dublin, for a writ of attachment against John Martin, of Shingle House, Leixlip, County Kildare, or, in the alternative, that an order be made attaching John Martin for his contempt in interfering with the sale of part of the lands of Easton, County Kildare, on Thursday, July 22nd, 1926.

Counsel said that the plaintiff had advanced £1,600 to Julia Martin, as personal representative of Thomas Martin, deceased, and as a charge against the estate of the deceased. In 1922 Mrs. Martin endeavoured to sell the lands in question, but the defendant, who is her son, interfered with the sale. An order was made by the Master of the Rolls restraining the defendant from interfering with the sale of the lands. Several attempts were since made to sell the lands, but the defendant attended on each occasion, and by his actions and conduct, interfered with the sale, and counsel submitted that unless the defendant was put out of the way it would be impossible to effect a sale.

Mr. Hector Hughes (instructed by Mr. M. L. Hearn, solicitor), for the defendant, said that he was handicapped by not having an affidavit from the defendant. According to the auctioneer, John Martin attended the sale and asked the simple question: Was his mother a life tenant? It was not suggested that he behaved in a truculent manner. John Martin was in the country, and could be got to swear an affidavit if the case had been adjourned.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne said that if the motion depended upon the affidavit of Mr. Green, he would be prepared to attach John Martin; but in addition to the affidavit of Mr. Green he had other evidence before him. In 1922 an injunction was made against the defendant in an action brought against him by his mother. In 1924, when his mother attempted to sell the land, John Martin attended and said that he was the oldest son and his mother had no right to sell, and the sale fell through. A further attempt was made in 1925, and John Martin attended and took a certain line of conduct, and the sale fell through. Then an order for the sale of the land was made, and the auctioneer appointed by the Court proceeded to sell the land. John Martin went there and asked was his mother only a life tenant. The auctioneer did not reply, and the defendant bid £300, saying that he was entitled to buy his own father's farm. He had no doubt that the defendant's conduct did interfere with the sale ordered by the Court, and for such interference the defendant was liable for the consequences for contempt of Court. He, therefore, made an order issuing a writ of attachment against the defendant.

PAYABLE TO FIRM.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER'S LAPSE.

At Roscommon District Court yesterday William Nix, traveller for Messrs. T. and C. Martin, timber merchants, Dublin, was charged with cashing a cheque for £30, made payable to the firm. It was stated that he had the cheque cashed by Mr. Rafferty, of the Royal Hotel, Roscommon, where he stopped. The bank refused to pass the cheque, and the accused man was arrested. Over £20 was found on him.

Mr. Oldham, head accountant of the firm, said that the accused man had been fairly satisfactory since he came to them at the beginning of the year. The witness could not account for his lapse.

Mr. McSherry, solicitor, who appeared for the accused man, said that the back of the cheque spoke for itself.

The Justice (Mr. Kenny)—It looks as if something crawled over it.

The amount having been reduced to £10, the Justice adjourned the case for a month to see what Nix would do to refund the amount, and admitted him to bail.

The Coroner (Dr. Louis Byrne) stated that charges against the driver were being proceeded with in Howth that day, and it might be some time before the witnesses could be present. He suggested that the jury should hear evidence of identification and the medical evidence and then adjourn the inquest until to-day. Mrs. Corr, mother of the deceased, stated that her son left home at 6 o'clock on last Sunday to cycle to the camps at Howth. He was an expert and careful cyclist and of perfectly sober habits. The foreman of the jury said that they were prepared to resume the inquiry at 1 p.m. to-day.

It was stated that the deceased man was out of employment, and that morning (Tuesday) had gone in quest of work. The driver of the lorry was exonerated from all blame.

Cruelty to A Horse.—At Kilrush District Court, John Bugler was summoned for working a horse which was suffering from a large wound on its back. Defendant stated that it was the first time that he had the horse out. The animal must have been cut by the shaking of the car. He was treating the horse since. District Justice Flood imposed a fine of 3s., and costs.

CONNAUGHT.

Unemployment Benefit Fraud. — Joseph McKeown, of Knockcroghery, was, at Roscommon District Court, charged with making false statements, with a view to obtaining benefit under the Unemployment Act. Evidence was given that the accused man produced his father's book to an official at Athlone, represented himself to be Patrick McKeown, and entitled to benefit. Justice Kenny said that there appeared to be a speciality for this class of fraud in Athlone. He sentenced the accused man to 28 days' imprisonment, but on appeal from Mr. McSherry, solicitor, altered the sentence to a fine of £5, or a month in jail.

NORTHERN IRELAND.

Head Constable's Death.—The death of Head Constable J. Goold, R.U.C., has occurred at his residence, Bachelor's Walk, Lisburn. The late Mr. Goold was a native of Cavan. When the R.I.C. was disbanded in 1922 he joined the R.U.C. A short time prior to this he passed his examination for district inspector. In recognition of his valued services, the King conferred on him the Meritorious Service Medal. Mr. Goold was a P.M. of St. George Masonic Lodge 267. He is survived by Mrs. Goold and four sons.

Better Quality Eggs.—It is reported by the Inspector that during the past month 282 eggs were tested in the shops in Derry. In this connection the Inspector's report states that "the eggs are improving in quality and freshness."

The Missing Salmon Trout.—At a Special Court, held at Stewartstown, an ex-soldier, Albert Bell, Stewartstown, was charged with the larceny of two salmon trout, the property of Mr. John Coleman, fish merchant, Stewartstown. The accused man was remanded to Stewartstown Petty Sessions.

Kindly Woman Has to Pay.—When Mrs. Mary McCullough, of Grosvenor road, Belfast, was charged in the Belfast Summons Court with having an unlicensed dog, the defendant said that the little dog had been run over by a motor car, and she picked it up and brought it home. Major Hardy said that it was very kind of the defendant to look after the dog. The woman was ordered to pay costs and take out a licence.

Girl Cyclist Killed.—When Miss Jane Kane, of Turmoyra, near Lurgan, was cycling to her home on last Tuesday evening, her bicycle skidded on the slippery road, and she was thrown heavily to the ground, her spine being injured. She died yesterday morning.

Knocked Down Two Girls.—At the Belfast Summons Court yesterday, James Maguire, Ballydonaghy, was fined 40s. and costs, and 20s. and costs, and his licence endorsed, for having, on August 3rd last, recklessly driven a motor cycle, and for failing to stop when signalled by the pointsman. Constable Sterritt said that the accused man knocked down two girls, Edna Lemon, Pakenham street, and Eileen Vaughan, Posnett street.

Payments to Ex-Service Men.—Mr. John Malcolm, who has been dealing with the question of the claims of the ex-Service men employed by the Belfast Corporation—which matter has been before that body for some months—has sent a communication to the Town Clerk (Sir Robert Meyer), stating that, inasmuch as the chartered accountants have now completed their examination of the ex-Service men's claim forms, the Corporation are requested to make arrangements for immediate payments to be made.

Magistrate and the "Cat."—At Saintfield Petty Sessions, Constable Kerrin charged Bella Lecky, Downpatrick street, Saintfield, with being drunk, disorderly, and using bad language on the street. The Chairman said that the Court would, he expected, be empowered by next Court day to administer doses of the "cat" in the case of obscene peace-breakers. Defendant would be fined 1s. and costs, or seven days' imprisonment, and bound over in two sureties of £5 each to keep the peace for twelve months, or, in default, jail for a month.

Overcrowded 'Bus.—At Saintfield (County Down) Petty Sessions, W. J. McCurdy, Downpatrick, was prosecuted for carrying passengers in excess of the number for which his 'bus was licensed. The constable's evidence was that there were eight persons on top of the 'bus, who jumped off when he came up. The Chairman said that, as the full duty had since been paid on the maximum seating capacity, the defendant would be fined £20, with a recommendation to the County Council to reduce it to £2.

Aged Border Farmer Attacked. — The house of an octogenarian farmer, Joseph Brown, who lives alone in a mountainous district on the Monaghan border at Ashban, near Clogher, was attacked by a party of blackguards about one o'clock on last Tuesday morning. While one section threw stones at the windows of the old man's bedroom, the others removed a number of articles from the ground floor, including a watch, cutlery and clothing. A few months ago Brown was the victim of a similar attack, when £30 was stolen.

Army Pensioner's Loss.—In the Belfast Custody Court yesterday, Annie Burns, who gave an address in Gardiner street, was sent to the Recorder's Court for trial on a charge of the larceny of a pocket-book containing fifteen pound notes, a blank cheque-book, and a cigar case, the property of John McEntee, an Army pensioner. Head Constable Smylie stated that at 11 o'clock on Tuesday night he saw the accused woman emerge from Exchange Court into Donegall street, followed by McEntee, who was shouting "Police." He accused prisoner of stealing from him the articles mentioned in the charge. Accused, who denied the charge, was granted bail.

Education Act in Derry.—The Finance Committee of Derry Corporation have adjourned the question of the introduction of medical inspection and the treatment of school children, to enable the Mayor and Chairman of the Finance and Education Committees, with the Town Clerk and City Accountant, to have an interview with the Minister of Education and the Minister of Home Affairs, and to explain to them the position of affairs in the city, which was the principal reason for the delay in putting into operation this part of the Act. The Council approved of the report.

Cyclist Run Down by Motor Car.—Summoned at Belfast yesterday for having, on June 5th last, driven a motor car in a manner dangerous to the public, James Hamilton, 8 Stranmillis Gardens, was convicted and fined £5 and costs. The evidence went to show that the defendant was driving the car along the Dublin road, behind a lorry. He pulled out to pass the lorry, and ran into a boy, Wilfred Nicholson, who was riding a bicycle in the opposite direction. Defendant's car dragged the boy twenty-eight yards before it stopped. The boy was seven weeks in hospital. The evidence for the defence was that the boy had a parcel containing a concertina with him, and he got into difficulties with it, with the result that he swerved into the defendant's car.

Overworked Guardians.—The increasingly heavy work devolving on the Outdoor Relief Committee of the Belfast Guardians and the relieving officers was commented on at the meeting of the Board. The report of the Committee revealed that it had to sit five hours on Monday and four hours last Tuesday, and suggested that, owing to the heaviness of the work which the relieving officers had to carry out, forms of application should be prepared to be filled in by applicants for relief. Mr. John Wilson, Chairman of the Committee, moved accordingly. Miss Blackwood seconded. Mr. J. Beattie, M.P., objected to the "flashlight decision" of the Committee, which, he said, was being sprung on the Board. He said that he was not prepared to accept the dictation of the relieving officers that they were overworked. He objected to cases of destitution being held over from week to week owing to the Committee not being able to deal with them. He moved that a Committee be appointed to consider fully the whole matter. Mr. Phillip Wilson seconded the proposal. Three voted for Mr. Beattie's motion, and 18 against, and Mr. John Wilson's proposal was accordingly adopted.

DUBLIN UNION FINANCE.

DECISION ON QUESTION OF WORKING OVERTIME.

At a meeting of the Dublin Union Commissioners yesterday, the Clerk stated that the City Treasurer had lodged £11,000 to the credit of the Union. Sums due by contributory bodies were as follow:—Dublin County Council, £10,000; Dublin Corporation, £13,393 15s. The balance to credit in the bank was £8,173 8s. 9d.

On its being mentioned by Dr. Dwyer that overtime was being worked in the institution, and that Mr. Commissioner MacLysaght had given an instruction that overtime was not to be worked in future,

The Clerk stated that overtime was necessary from time to time, especially when his principal assistants were on vacation, when overtime was absolutely essential to keep the books up-to-date, as no substitutes were appointed to replace those on vacation. The Commissioners might rest assured that no overtime would be ordered to be performed unless there was absolute necessity for it.

The Commissioners approved of overtime in special circumstances, and ordered that a report should be furnished to them when the work was completed.

DUBLIN UNION ACCOUNTS.

COMMISSIONERS COME IN FOR CRITICISM.

Consideration of an application made by the Dublin Commissioners for payment of £47 6s., due to an error made in the valuation of clothing by the stocktaker of the Dublin Union, was deferred for inquiry by the Rathdown Guardians at their meeting yesterday.

Mr. Rollins criticised the administration of the Union, and said that the Commissioners were now beginning to make mistakes, and if this were allowed to continue they would not know where these errors would end or what cost it might entail to the Guardians.

THE AGRICULTURAL OUTLOOK.

CONDITIONS IN COUNTY KILKENNY.

Our Thomastown (Co. Kilkenny) Correspondent writes that the corn is being cut in the Thomastown and South Kilkenny districts. Many fields are lodged and cannot be cut by machinery, so that the older methods are being adopted. The weather is most unfavourable for harvesting, and unless there is a marked improvement the outlook for the farmer will be gloomy.

The present prices of agricultural produce are the lowest on record. Fresh butter is being sold in the local market at a shilling per lb., while the best quality of salted butter is realising only 1s. 3d. per lb. The highest price for eggs is 1s. 3d. per dozen. Potatoes are very plentiful and the quality is good, notwithstanding the almost continual wet weather. Prices are low, and are expected to drop to 5s. per barrel as the season advances.

Hay is far more plentiful than was anticipated, but the demand is poor owing to the market being overstocked. This is attributed to the fact that many farmers have been unable to stock their pastures, and have been obliged to let them run into meadow.

COUNCIL STRIKES RATE

THEN CALLS FOR SWORN INQUIRY INTO ITS AFFAIRS.

Listowel Urban Council has struck a rate of 23s. 11d. in the £, after several unsuccessful attempts, on all previous occasions only one or two members having attended.

A resolution was passed calling for a sworn inquiry into the affairs of the Council.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE GOOD PEOPLE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—How have the dwellers in Ross-shire become so benighted as not to know that it was the Good People that carried away their hay? In the days before machinery made the world hideous and put poetry to flight women raked the hay with long, wooden handrakes. One day a girl was caught up, but a nimble-witted man flung up a lock of hay and called out, "Take the hay and l'ave the girl!" It was taken and she was dropped. A farmer's wife died when their son was born. In a year the husband wedded again, and soon after the first wife appeared to him. She was not dead; the Good People had taken her to nurse their children. On such a night they would ride through such a gap; she would be on a white horse, and, if he did this and that, he would get her back; but he made answer, "What would I be doin' with the two o' ye!"

Beware of living in a house that is built on a fairy path. People that did so saw their eldest child pine away. She was six or seven years old. Doctors could do nothing for her, and her mother's heart was torn when the child would say, "You know what would cure me, and you won't do it." And so she died.

In "Sesame and Lilies" Ruskin gives a beautiful bit from De Quincey about the forests of Domrémy, where the parish priest had to read Mass once a year to keep the fairies within decent bounds.—Yours, etc.,

"K."

Queen's County, August 17th, 1926.

LAMBAY ISLAND.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—In your interesting article, Lambay Island is referred to as a mystery island to the people of Dublin. That is a pity, as it used not to be so. In the 'seventies a small steamer from Kingstown brought many parties, of whom I was one on several occasions, to the island, and we all looked on it as a delightful outing.

My last trip there was in 1873, and, as to the buildings on it, I can remember only a schoolhouse, which we visited and got the scholars a half-day. Many Dublin people used then to enjoy the charming scenery, as well as the trip on the sea. This reminds me that on my last visit to Glengariff, in 1914, I rowed out in Bantry Bay to an island, off which I and many others had enjoyed many dips. When I reached it a notice was on the landing-place that no one was allowed to land. My boatman explained that the island had been sold to an Englishman.—Yours, etc.,

R. BURKE.

LOCAL RECORDS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Increased interest in the scheme to establish local record offices has been aroused by the announcement of the London County Council that it is prepared to undertake the storing of local parish and historical records. As the English Public Record Office deals almost exclusively with national records, the action of the Council is valuable in a hitherto scattered field of research, and may be found worthy of following by like bodies in this land in connection with records linked in their boundaries.—Yours, etc.,

WILLIAM MACARTHUR.

WAGE RATES DISPUTE.

RATHDOWN CONTRACTOR'S ACTION.

Labour trouble over a contract had the consideration of the Rathdown Rural Council at Loughlinstown yesterday, when Mr. David Clarke, Ranelagh, contractor for the Tillystown sewerage extension, came before the meeting, and reported that the men had refused to work when he wanted to start the contract on Monday.

He had offered the labourers a shilling an hour, which, he considered, was the standard rate, but an official of the Transport Union would not allow the men to start work unless they were paid at the rate of 1s. 4d. an hour. In the circumstances, he could not go on with the contract, and refused to sign his bond.

A deputation (Messrs. Dunne and Robbins) from the men appeared before the Council, and stated that Mr. Clarke was trying to make the men work for a rate which applied only in the case of a Government grant, whereas this particular contract was being carried out with moneys provided by the ratepayers. They said that other builders and contractors in the district were paying labourers 1s 4d. an hour. To accept Mr. Clarke's offer would be to permit him to take advantage of the impoverished condition of the people in this district.

Mr. Clarke repudiated the allegation that he wanted to take advantage of the people of the district. He gave instances of treatment meted out to him by the union.

Mr. A. W. Cullen, Chairman of the Council, said that, no matter whether the provision for this contract came from a grant or a loan, it was the ratepayers all the time who had to foot the bill. He said that the Council would take no action in the matter. He advised the two parties to come to some agreement among themselves.

TOOK "SPIRIT PHOTOS" IN CEMETERY.

BELFAST MEDIUM SUMMONED FOR FORTUNE-TELLING.

A summons against the President of the Belfast Christian Spiritualist Association for alleged fortune-telling was adjourned for a week, at Belfast Summons Court yesterday, on the application of Mr. John Graham, the defendant's solicitor. The defendant is the person who claims to have succeeded in taking photographs of his mother and other relatives hovering in spirit form over a grave in Belfast City Cemetery.

The summons, which is at the suit of Detective-Constable W. J. Elliott, cites "that you on the 5th August did pretend to tell fortunes to deceive and impose on His Majesty's subjects." The defendant's address was given as 2 Ava street, Belfast.

Mr. Graham, applying for the adjournment, said that it was not a case of ordinary fortune-telling by means of cards, crystal, tea leaves, or any nonsense of that sort. His client was President of the Belfast Christian Spiritualist Association, and claimed to be a spiritualistic medium, a clairvoyant, and psychometist. He also claimed—and certainly had firm belief in his power in that way—to be able to communicate with the dead, to take photographs of them, and to communicate their messages to the living.

The present prosecution was one of considerable importance, and when it came to be heard would occupy a considerable time. It was only that morning that he had had an opportunity of going through the case with his client and some of the persons connected with the Association of which the defendant was president. Certain documents would have to be produced, and as he had just got possession of them, he felt that he was not quite ready to go on with the case.

He had seen in the Press an article describing an interview with the defendant, in which he claimed to have taken spirit photographs. The defendant said that some of the greatest people of the day were firm believers in his faith—notably Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Sir Oliver Lodge, and many other well-known men and also women. He (Mr. Graham) did not think that the police would object to the adjournment.

The complainant had no objection, and Major Hardy, R.M., granted the adjournment.

Mr. Graham—It will be a most interesting case.

Major Hardy agreed.

LOUGHLINSTOWN HOSPITAL COST.

In response to a proposal of the Ministry of Local Government, the Guardians of the Rathdown Union had under consideration yesterday reports received from their medical officer, Dr. J. Pim; their architect and a committee in connection with a contemplated reduction of staff because of the small number of patients in Loughlinstown Hospital. It was regarded that the hospital buildings were too large for the accommodation of the patients, and that there could be substantial retrenchment in respect to the institution.

The Chairman (Mr. Cullen) said that the cost of running the hospital meant over £8,000, and they were of opinion that it could be run on much cheaper lines and with greater efficiency.

Mr. Farrell, Assistant Clerk, said that the Department had been notified that it would be desirable for its medical officer and architect to meet the Guardians' medical officer and architect.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT

CHASE OF A "SUSPECT."

SOUND THAT AROUSED GUARD'S SUSPICIONS.

(BEFORE MR. CUSSEN.)

Stephen O'Hagan, messenger, Dolphin's Barn street, and Philip Kane, no business, Dame street, were remanded until Saturday, charged with loitering and with being in possession of a revolver for an unlawful purpose.

Guard Thomas Terrence stated that at about 11 o'clock on Tuesday night, when on duty at Wellington quay, in company with Guard Joseph Hughes, he went towards two men who were standing near East Essex street. As he approached he heard a noise like the "cocking" of a revolver. The men moved off as he came near, and he called on them to halt. Kane did so and was arrested by the witness, and the other man ran away, with Guard Hughes in pursuit. When the chase had continued through several side streets he met Guard Hughes, who took charge of Kane, while the witness went after the other man, whom he overtook and arrested at the corner of Wellington quay and Eustace street. He found a revolver in that man's possession.

When asked if he wished to question the witness, O'Hagan said: "I refuse to recognise the Court," and turned his back to the justice.

A SUSPICIOUS POCKETFUL.

Patrick Mulvey, Golden lane, was remanded until Saturday on a charge of loitering in South Great George's street for the purpose of committing a felony. He was also charged with the illegal possession of a quantity of spelter and a bunch of keys, one a skeleton key.

Sergeant Lynch stated that he saw the prisoner in George's street between 10 and 11 on Tuesday morning, and, noticing that one of his coat pockets was bulging, arrested him. In the pocket he found the keys and a quantity of spelter, which could be used for the manufacture of counterfeit coins.

£380 JEWELLERY THEFT.

Christopher McClure (16), Edward O'Connor (17), Thomas O'Neill (17) and Gerald McKay (17), all living in Lower Gardiner street, and Thomas Duggan (18), of Summerhill, were charged with having, on the night of June 27 last, broken into the Liffey street premises of Messrs. Samuels and Sons and stolen jewellery to the value of about £383.

Detective Quinn stated that he arrested O'Connor that morning. On the way to the station O'Connor said, "I was there all right."

Detective Madden stated that McClure told him that he got four of the watches and sold them for 2s. each to men in the street.

The prisoners were remanded till to-day.

QUARRY "DEATH-TRAP."

HOW TWO TYRONE FARMERS LOST THEIR LIVES.

"A regular death-trap" was how the Coroner at an inquest on Henry Thompson, farmer, of Coyah, Fintona, Co. Tyrone, on Tuesday evening, described a quarry in the district, in which Mr. Thompson was killed by a fall of earth and stones.

On the 28th July, 1923, the Coroner (Mr. A. C. Leitch) mentioned, a farmer named Keown and his son were killed at the same spot under similar circumstances. A remarkable coincidence was that Mr. Thompson, like the Keowns, had almost finished work for the day when the quarry crashed upon him.

John Breen, Drumderg, gave evidence that he was working in the quarry with the deceased man when he heard a shout, and, on looking round, saw portion of the quarry falling on Mr. Thompson, the earth and stones completely covering him. The witness rushed over and endeavoured to extricate the unfortunate man, but when he got his head cleared of the débris Mr. Thompson expired.

The deceased man was raising stones with a crowbar, and did not use explosives. The face of the quarry was about twenty feet high, and at this point the quarry was undermined by about six feet. It was a dangerous quarry.

Edward Slevin, Tattycor, who was beside the deceased man when the accident occurred, and had a miraculous escape, gave similar evidence.

The Coroner commented that he had previously mentioned the danger of undermining at this quarry.

The jury returned a verdict that the deceased man was killed through clay and stones accidentally falling on him, and expressed the opinion that the authorities should close the quarry.

IRISH INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT.

THE IRISH TRADE MARK.

Senator Colonel Sir Nugent T. Everard, Bart., presided over a recent Council meeting of the Irish Industrial Development Association (Incorporated). The other members present were:—Miss Purser, Dublin; Mr. D. Baird, Dublin; Mr. W. E. Shackleton, Lucan; Mr. J. P. O'Shea, Dublin; Mr. R. Goodbody, Clara; Messrs. J. L. Fawsitt, inspector, and C. Towers, secretary.

The following members sent apologies for non-attendance, viz.:—Senator the Countess Dowager of Desart, Kilkenny; Mr. J. O'Neill, Dublin; Mr. J. H. Cooper, Dublin, and Sir John Irwin, Dublin.

Messrs. R. Day and Son, Ltd., Patrick street, Cork, were granted permission to use the Irish trade mark on leggings, suitcases, trunks and harness of their manufacture, subject to the customary regulations, and Messrs. Preston and Hadfields, Ltd., Rathfarnham, Co. Dublin, to use it on varnishes of their manufacture. The Educational Book Company of Ireland, Ltd., were granted authority to use the Irish trade mark on prayer books printed and bound by them in Dublin, subject to the customary regulations.

A report was read from a sub-committee which was formed at a previous meeting to draft a specification for the varnish-making industry. The draft specification submitted was adopted unanimously, and in future only those firms manufacturing varnish up to the specification will be granted permission to apply the Irish trade mark to their varnish products.

A report was submitted by the inspector dealing with his recent visit to Belfast users of the Irish trade mark. The terms of the report were noted. Arrangements were completed for a visit in the near future by the inspector to the factories of users of the Irish trade mark in the Derry-Donegal area.

Instances of the use of the words "Irish" and "Shamrock" on imported toilet articles by certain Belfast traders were considered by the Council, who instructed the secretary to bring the trade practices to the attention of Northern manufacturers producing like commodities.

MERCHANDISE MARKS ACT.

The following correspondence exchanged with the Department of Industry and Commerce was noted by the Council, viz.:—

"12th May, 1926.

"To Secretary, Department of Industry and Commerce, Dublin.

"I am directed by my Council to inquire (a) whether the Department of Industry and Commerce is empowered to exercise in respect of An Saorstat the statutory powers formerly exercised or exercisable by the British Board of Trade with regard to the prosecution of offences under the Merchandise Marks Act, 1887, other than cases which appear to relate to Irish agricultural or horticultural produce of the rural industries mentioned in Sub-section 1 of Section 30 of the Agricultural and Technical Instruction (Ireland) Act, 1890; (b) if the Department is so empowered, whether the regulations made by the British Board of Trade with regard to prosecutions under the Act are now legally effective in this country; and (c) whether any forms have been prescribed by the Department for the purpose of carrying the said regulations into effect?"

"17th June, 1926.

"To Secretary, Irish Industrial Development Association, from Department of Industry and Commerce, Dublin.

"With reference to your letter of the 12th ultimo on the question of offences under the Merchandise Marks Act, 1887, I am directed by the Minister for Industry and Commerce to state that the functions of the Board of Trade have devolved on this Department, and the Department is advised that the regulations dated 21st May, 1892, made under the M.M. Act, 1891, are legally effective in Saorstat Eireann. The Department will communicate with you later regarding the forms contemplated in paragraph 6 of these regulations."

"19th July, 1926.

NEW NATIONAL PARTY.

FORTHCOMING WEXFORD DEMONSTRATION.

At a largely attended meeting of Constitutional Nationalists, which included several local merchants and county farmers, held in the Mechanics' Institute, South Main street, Wexford, on last Tuesday night, Captain J. J. O'Leary, T.C., in the unavoidable absence of Mr. J. Galvin, presiding, a local National Organising Committee was formed to arrange for a public demonstration in Wexford in support of the new National Party.

The Waterford demonstration on the 12th of September, at which the movement will be officially launched, was discussed, and it was decided to arrange for a special train from Wexford on that date, and to send a strong contingent with bands and banners.

A sub-committee was appointed to arrange for the Wexford demonstration, which it was decided should take place on the 13th of October. The names of speakers will be announced later.

Mr. B. C. Hackett, General Secretary, Dublin Central Organising Committee, attended, and having explained the new Party's constitution, which was adopted after some discussion, paid a warm tribute to the work which had been performed by the Committee's secretary, Mr. Thomas White, in the organisation of this and other local national meetings.

The Tasmanian State Carbide Works have been purchased by an English syndicate for £140,000.

1. The sum of £200 for the celebration of Masses by the Franciscan Fathers of Church street, Dublin to be said in a church or churches open to public worship in Ireland, for the repose of the soul of deceased, and of her deceased father, mother, brothers, sister and husband.

5. To the Carriglea Industrial School, Monkstown, the sum of £1,000, to be applied towards the reduction of the debts due by it. But the Testatrix declared that this legacy should be conditional upon the said school having discharged within two years from the date of her death (independently of the said amount bequeathed by her) at least one-third of the debts due by it at the date of her death. And in the event of its failure to do so, the Testatrix directed that the said legacy should be revoked, and that the said sum of £1,000 should fall into and form part of her residuary estate.
6. To the National Maternity Hospital, Holles street, for the purposes of the said Hospital, the sum of £100.
7. To the Asylum for the Blind, Drumcondra, the sum of £100.
8. To the Night Shelter for Men conducted by the St. Vincent de Paul Society the sum of £100.

14. To the Parish Priest of Dun Laoghaire at the date of Testatrix's death the sum of £10 towards the erection of the proposed Public Statue to the Sacred Heart in Dun Laoghaire, provided it has not been erected at the date of the Testatrix's death or that the cost thereof had not been defrayed.
15. To the Parish Priest of Dun Laoghaire the sum of £100 towards the erection of the proposed new church at Sallynoggin, but the Testatrix declared that the said bequest should be reduced by the amount of any subscription given by her in her lifetime for the said church.

Subject to the foregoing gifts and bequests the Testatrix directed that the residue of her property should be held in trust for the Catholic Archbishop of Dublin for the time being at the date of her death, and to be used by him as a contribution towards the erection of the proposed Catholic National Cathedral or Basilica of the Sacred Heart in Dublin.

And Notice is hereby further given that the said deceased died on or about the 21st June, 1926, and Probate of her said Will was on the 10th day of August, 1926, granted forth of the Principal Probate Registry of the High Court of Justice in Saorstat Eireann to Patrick Joseph Moran, of the Ship Hotel, Weybridge, in the County of Surrey, retired Civil Servant; Sarah Brennan, of The Rosary, Adelaide street, Dun Laoghaire, spinster, and Arthur Cox, of 42 Stephen's Green, Dublin, solicitor, the three Executors therein named.

Dublin Market was somewhat irregular. Tobacco Shares were strong and Bank Stock and Guinness lower.—(Page 3.)

The Middle East.

When Riza Khan ascended the Imperial Throne of Persia as successor to an effete line of Shahs students of Middle Eastern affairs rejoiced at the prospect of a new era in Persian politics. The new ruler was a strong man, thoroughly modern in his ideas. He seemed to have the fullest confidence of the people, who were galvanised into national enthusiasm by his example. His administration had the good-will of all the Powers which have interests in Persia, and for the first time in many years a really stable Government was in sight. Recent reports from the Middle East, however, indicate that all is not well in Persia. The notorious Pretender, the Salaru'd-Dawla, brother of the deposed Muhammad Ali, has re-appeared, and seems to be in league with Sheikh Mahmoud, the thorn in the side of the Iraq Government, who is holding two British airmen to ransom. The Salaru'd-Dawla has been on the warpath in the Middle East since 1907, when he tried to seize the Persian Throne. He is popular among the discontented Kurds, whom he is rallying now to his standard in defence of the interests of the Qajar dynasty. From the British point of view this development is important in view of the alliance between the Persian and the Iraq rebels. The Bagdad Government has proposed common action against them to Riza Shah.

The economic importance of the area which is threatened by these filibusters is enormous. Now that the Anglo-Turkish dispute about Mosul has been settled, the way is clear for the development of the rich oilfields which have been the source of so much international intrigue during the last twenty years. The Germans were the first to realise the importance of the Turkish oilfields, when Arthur von Gwinner, the head of the Deutsche Bank, evolved his ambitious scheme for the Berlin-Bagdad Railway in 1904. Two years afterwards the Anglo-Persian Oil Company tried to secure development rights; but it was not until Sir Ernest Cassel entered the lists with his Turkish Petroleum Company, in 1912, that international interest in the oilfields really began to grow. The new company acquired the holdings of the German and British pioneers, and in 1914 it was reformed. The Anglo-Persian Company got 50 per cent. of the shares, while the Royal Dutch Shell and the Deutsche Bank each got 25 per cent. An Armenian named Gulbenkian, who had been financial adviser to Abdul Hamid, had a sort of over-riding interest of 5 per cent.—a concession which has made him fabulously wealthy—and this "mystery" millionaire is probably the most powerful individual in the Middle East to-day. After the war Germany's share in the Turkish Petroleum Company was allotted to France, who undertook to lay a pipe-line across the desert through Syria to the sea. Unsettled political conditions have interfered with the work of development.

After the San Remo Conference, in 1920, the Anglo-Persian Oil Company transferred half of its shares in the Turkish company to an American group, led by the Standard Oil interests. Britain, France, Holland and the United States, therefore, have equal holdings, and consequently are concerned equally in the maintenance of peaceful conditions throughout the Middle East. England has spent millions in Iraq and has sacrificed large numbers of lives to secure peace. If she had wished to hand over Mosul to the Turks, they would have given her the fullest concessions for the working of the oilfields. The American taunt, therefore, that Britain's mandatory interest in the land between the rivers is purely commercial has no basis in fact. Undoubtedly, Britain has large business commitments in the Middle East. Her trade with Persia is extensive, and the Anglo-Persian oilfields are an essential part of her imperial economy. There is no doubt at all, however, that her work in the Middle East has brought immense benefits to the native populations. Iraq, formerly a wilderness, now is well on the way to independent nationhood; and, if the United States had accepted the mandate for Armenia, co-operating with England in her heavy task, a lasting peace probably would have been established to-day from the Gulf to the Caspian and from the Mediterranean to the Arabian Sea.

The "Ashes" Come Home.

Throughout England to-day all public troubles and nuisances, including Mr. A. J. Cook, will be submerged by the national pæan for the recovery of the "Ashes." They have sojourned in Australia since 1912, and England's three failures to recapture them after the end of the Great War have provoked much pessimism about the state of English cricket. To-day we know how foolish were the prophets of evil. The last five days have proved that the genius of cricket is still young and vigorous in its ancient home, that Grace and Shrewsbury have found worthy successors, and that maintenance of the grand tradition is assured. The recovery of the "Ashes" after fourteen years is doubly gratifying: not merely the fact, but the manner of it, have written a splendid chapter in the history of the game. As the result, in one case of bad weather, and in the others of an inexorable time-limit, the first four matches of this year's Test series determined nothing. Thus the issue depended on the fifth match that began last Saturday at the Oval—a match in which, since it would be fought to a finish, the victory of one or other side was certain. No man dared to predict where victory would lie; for, on the showing of the three previous matches, there was little to choose between the batting and bowling strengths of the rival teams. Since most of our readers have devoured the daily reports of this match—one of the most thrilling in the whole record of Test matches—we shall not "shoulder our crutch and show how fields were won." The great period of the game began on Tuesday, when Hobbs and Sutcliffe opened England's second innings against a small handicap of 22 runs. Hobbs played the finest innings of his career; Sutcliffe batted with masterly patience and judgment, and their total score was 261 runs. For the seventh time the pair made more than 100 runs in the opening partnership in a Test match between England and Australia.

England's second innings produced 436 runs, and the Australians were faced with a deficit which was truly formidable, but, since there was no time-limit, not altogether desperate. Fifty minutes after the opening of their second innings, however, their plight was desperate, indeed. Their four best batsmen had been dismissed for 35 runs, and 415 runs were the price of victory. In the end the Australians, thanks to Larwood's pace and Rhodes's skill, were dismissed for 125 runs, and England, winning the decisive match by 289 runs, regained the "Ashes." Even first-class cricket has its languors—its occasions of tedium from which first-class Rugby football is wholly free; but it has greater altitudes than any other game can provide, and therein is the spell which has captivated nations and has created literature. In what other game than cricket could we enjoy the triumph of mind over matter, the magnificent use of the psychological moment, which produced the Thermopylæan stand at the beginning of England's second innings? Then Hobbs and Sutcliffe knew that no wicket must fall until the pitch had a chance to dry. No wicket fell and the most critical hours of the game were outstayed. Next to these two the veteran Rhodes was an architect of victory: he played in his first Test match before Mr. Chapman, his gallant and fortunate captain of yesterday, was born. While these men keep the field, while a brilliant band of younger players emulates their standards, and while the game continues to be nourished in the public schools, we need have only one fear for the future of English cricket. That fear resides in the noisy patronage of a section of the Press which alternates between exultations and "defeatism," vulgarises ideals and traditions which it cannot understand, advertises the pettiest of disagreements, and—if it is suffered to have its way—will blight the spirit of sport in England.

Milk and Honey.

If the food value of honey were recognised by the public, that wholesome product would create an extremely large demand. France (says a correspondent of The Irish Bee Journal) is far ahead of these countries in pains taken to educate popular opinion. Mr. Victor Dumas, a well-known editor, has diffused apicultural lore throughout the Midi. He tells how experiments in a children's sanatorium in the Swiss canton of Saint-Gall have proved that milk sweetened with honey "should have a place of primordial importance in the alimentary régimes of infants." Milk and honey form an admirable combination. In butter and milk the precious constituents known as "Vitamines A" abound. During the first year of the Great War, when Denmark was exporting butter and feeding her people on margarine, a four-fold increase of inflammation of the eyes and a 20 per cent. increase in the tuberculosis death-rate were observed; and these sinister symptoms vanished as soon as submarine warfare obliged the Danes to consume their own butter. The constituents known as "Vitamines B," found plentifully in honey, are promoters of growth, and are considered indispensable to children. Sugar is sought instinctively by the young people, and the demand for sweetmeats is an expression of this desire. Fruit and honey supply the necessary sugar in a natural form, which passes into the blood without the unpleasant chemistry that is necessary for the adaptation of industrial sugar. A larger appreciation of the merits of honey would have pleasant results in the heather-clad Irish countryside, where every humble family could add a few pounds to its annual income by caring for one or two hives. In ancient Ireland honey was valued so highly that it accompanied almost every dish and was served with roasted meat. To-day it is a luxury of the few, and commonly is purchased in bottles instead of in the wholesome comb.

Rural England.

For long past many societies in England have striven to preserve rural beauties. One body has sought to check the marring of lovely landscapes by advertisement hoardings; another to resist the erection of buildings on beautiful commons, and yet another to prevent the destruction of fine old buildings. A central body—to be called the Society for the Preservation of Rural England—shortly will be formed in London to co-ordinate the endeavours of existing groups, to prevent overlapping and to organise a united appeal to the public for support. Action is not being taken too soon. The revolution in transport caused by the motor car, whereby the population has swarmed from the cities into every sequestered corner of the land, has threatened the obliteration of old landmarks and the inconsiderate flooding of every pleasant scene with bricks, mortar and concrete. National action has been necessary to preserve the vast sweep of the Downs from the exploitation of the speculative builder. State action may become necessary in Ireland, too, in the near future. Already the bungalow-builder has begun to break the calm sweep of the Wicklow hills with his incongruous pavilions, perched in high places. Already, too, environs of Dublin which were sylvan but a few years ago are being desecrated by terraces that might have been transported by Aladdin's genius from Belfast. There is, near Dublin, one suburb that shows how rural amenities may be respected even when a colony of wage-earners is given happy homes. To walk among the tall trees around Killester and see the lights appearing in the well-spaced little houses, bowered in gardens, is to gain a vision of that reconciliation of town and country which so easily might be achieved.

THE KING AND A PET RABBIT.

A PURCHASE AT BOLTON ABBEY.

There has been a delightful sequel to a visit that Miss Kathleen Tomlinson, the daughter of the Rector of Bolton Abbey (the Rev. C. E. Tomlinson) paid to the King the other day. As the result of some bargaining by one of his Equerries, His Majesty has purchased a half-share in "Wilfred," a pet rabbit, owned by Bob Tomlinson, brother of Kathleen. Miss Tomlinson has had a long illness, and is now convalescent and able to be taken about the grounds on a wheeled chair.

The King heard of her illness through the Duchess of Devonshire, and most mornings as he was driven through the Abbey grounds he waved his hand to Kathleen. On Monday His Majesty expressed a desire to see the little invalid, and she was taken to the hall.

She had with her "Wilfred," and the King and Sir Charles Cust were greatly interested in hearing all about her furry pet. Kathleen was a trifle shy, but her bashfulness disappeared when the King talked of "Wilfred." She informed His Majesty that "Wilfred" was a great favourite, and that he was going to be sold, as Bob, her brother, had practically promised the rabbit to someone in the village.

His Majesty and Sir Charles Cust fed the rabbit, and the King remarked that it was rather a shame to sell such an extraordinarily tame rabbit. This, coming to Bob's ears, placed him in a quandary, and he was sorely worried about the problem until yesterday morning. Then one of the King's Equerries visited the rectory, "to come," as he said, "to an understanding about this rabbit." "Is it for sale," he asked Bob, and Bob did not know what to say. He started to explain his position, but the Equerry wanted a definite answer.

"Will you sell it to the King?" he asked. Bob promptly said that he would. "How much is 'Wilfred' worth?" was the Equerry's next question. Bob said that he thought about five shillings, and the Equerry at once produced a ten-shilling note and held it out to the Rector's little son. Bob did not take the note for a time. There were one or two other matters to be cleared up first, he said. For instance, he only had a half-share in the rabbit; the other half belonged to his sister, Kathleen, and then he had half promised to sell the rabbit.

"Well," said the Equerry, still holding the ten-shilling note. "This is what we can do—the King will buy your half-share with this note, and he will present the half of the rabbit that he has bought to Kathleen. Kathleen will then have all the rabbit, and you will have the ten-shilling note."

This seemed a perfectly satisfactory solution to the problem, and Bob took the Treasury note. He held it for a moment or two, and then said—"I will give you five shillings change. This is too much for my share of the rabbit." "No," said the Equerry. "I do not think that I should give the King five shillings change. Your sister has the rabbit—all of it—and, perhaps, you will give her some of the change, too." "That is right," said Bob

SOME OF THE RESULTS OF INDIANISATION.

UNEMPLOYMENT AND WANT.

The immediate result of Indianisation has been acute unemployment and increased poverty among the Anglo-Indians and domiciled Europeans, states the annual report of the European Schools in India Improvement Association, which was issued yesterday.

It goes on to say that it is almost impossible for these people to strike out on new lines. Unskilled labour provides no openings in India for them, and the doors of emigration to the Colonies are largely closed to them on account of the colour prejudice. The Anglo-Indian and domiciled European community in India, which is mainly descended from British administrators, traders and soldiers, number something like 200,000. For their children they ask for a definite "Christian system and a British tone of education" in their schools.

In India there are nearly 450 special European schools, with roughly 42,000 pupils.

FIVE ALPINE CLIMBERS KILLED

THREE CAUGHT IN A SNOWSTORM

VIENNA, Wednesday.

A number of further fatalities on the Alps are reported to-day. A Berlin tourist, Richard Heubach, was killed last Wednesday while ascending the Chalmspitz in Carinthia. Heubach started on the climb in spite of warnings of an approaching storm and inadequately equipped. His body was found two days later covered with snow. In his pocket book were notes giving the time of the accident, stating that his left leg was broken, and that he had pain in a breast, and that he shouted continually for help, realising that unless it came speedily he would be frozen to death.

A Bavarian tourist was killed while gathering Edelweiss on the Sonwendjoch, North Tyrol.

At Ahrntal, in the Tauern Mountains, two men and a girl, who were on their way to attend church at Prettau, were caught in a snowstorm, and afterwards found frozen to death.

A railway official has also been killed while climbing the Pettnauer Riffler, near Innsbruck.—(Reuter)

COURT AND PERSONAL.

Yesterday afternoon the King concluded his visit to the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire at Bolton Abbey, where he has had a week's excellent sport on the well-known grouse moors near Skipton. His Majesty drove from Bolton Abbey to Over Wyresdale, in Lancashire, and is the guest of the Earl and Countess of Sefton at Abbeystead, where the moors promise to afford good sport, not having been shot over this season in anticipation of His Majesty's visit.

Princess Marie José, daughter of the King and Queen of the Belgians, has arrived in England, and is staying at the Ursuline Convent at Brentwood, where she was a pupil during the Great War. During the past four or five years the Princess has paid an annual visit to the convent.

Lady Maud Carnegie motored to Elgin yesterday, and opened the local horticultural show, which, despite the recently unfavourable weather, was very successful, and attracted a large attendance of visitors.

The Earl and Countess of Harewood are in residence at Harewood House, near Leeds. They have their little grandsons, the Hon. George and the Hon. Gerald Lascelles, staying with them, while Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles are paying a round of visits.

The wedding of Miss Helen Mary (Molly) Leycester, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leycester, of Ennismore, Cork, and Lieutenant-Commander Henry William Urquhart McCall, R.N., of H.M.S. Britannia, took place on Wednesday, August 4th, at the Church of St. John the Baptist, Bishopsteignton, Devonshire. The service was conducted by the Bishop of Cork, Cloyne and Ross, and the Rev. W. E. Cox, according to the Irish rite. A large and beautifully trained choir sang the hymns, "Lead us, Heavenly Father, lead us, o'er the world's tempestuous sea" and "O perfect Love! all human thought transcending." The bride carried a large bouquet of Madonna lilies, and was given away by her father. The bridesmaids were Miss McCall and the Misses Helen and Ruth Watson. Lieutenant Trevylyan Napier, R.N., acted as best man. As the bridal party left the church they were met by a guard of honour of Girl Guides and "Brownies" (of both of which the bride had been captain), under the command of Lady Cable, their County Commissioner. The guests then proceeded to The Moors, Mr. Leycester's Devonshire house, where a large marquee had been erected, in which the toast "The Bride and Bridegroom" was duly honoured. Tea was then served, after which Mr. and Mrs. McCall left by motor car for their honeymoon among the Pyrenees.

LONDON LETTER.

THE COAL SITUATION.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

The Miners' Executive lost no time in taking preliminary steps to carry out the mandate of the Delegate Conference. It is to be hoped that sagacity in later stages of their task will be as conspicuous as the promptitude displayed at the outset. A meeting with the owners is fixed for to-morrow, and it came as a surprise that arrangements were cut and dried without reference to the Premier, who had come specially to town to lend a hand, if his services could be of use. It must not be accepted that developments of the last day or two mean that the strike is over, or even that the end is in view. The leaders who have misled, or badly led, those confiding in them must save their faces, even at the cost of unnecessarily protracting the forthcoming negotiations. The owners will give the men the best terms consistent with the economic working of the mines, but conditions may be less favourable than were those of April, especially as the offer of a supplementary subsidy has been definitely withdrawn. The miners well may ask what it has profited them to follow the discredited banner of the humble disciples of Lenin.

A League of Peace.

If justification were needed for the new Industrial Peace League which has come into being, it would be amply found in the unprecedented unrest that has pervaded British industry during the last few years. Necessity for such an organisation never was more apparent than at the present moment, when we are entering on the one hundred and tenth day of the mining dispute. Up to the end of last month the miners had sacrificed no fewer than sixty million days' pay as a direct result of the strike, to which must be added the losses inflicted on workers in other industries. There also must be added to the bill the damage and mischief to the country's trade generally, much of which has been lost irretrievably. The object of the new League is to inspire a better feeling of good-will and fellowship between Capital and Labour. That object will be achieved only if the organisation is steered clear of political influence, and handled by men whose primary consideration is not grinding their own axes.

Trade Union Finance.

The official returns on trade union funds and finance provide the rank and file of those organisations with ample food for reflection. A cursory glance at the figures reveals too great a disproportion between sums disbursed in benefits and those which go in salaries and innumerable expenses. Compared with the working and administrative costs of the great industrial benefit societies, the finances of the unions present a sorry picture, which working men might ponder to advantage. A series of questions was asked in the House just before the end of the session with a view to elucidating some of the information now published, and the strong resentment displayed by the Labour Party made apparent its dislike of such publicity.

Labour Law.

Sufficient progress has been made by the Committee of Ministers appointed to examine the law relating to trade unions to warrant the belief that the Government will deal with the matter by legislation during the autumn session. A rough draft of proposed amendmens to the law has been prepared for the Cabinet, and in due course will be submitted to all the Ministers whose departments are concerned in trade union matters. Their comments will be discussed by the full Cabinet at the first opportunity. One of the principal objects of the measure will be to ensure that contributions to the political funds of the unions shall be placed on a strictly voluntary basis, and that no strike action shall be taken until certain definite formalities have been fulfilled.

The League of Nations.

It is by no means certain that the allocation of seats on the Council of the League of Nations will be settled by the time the Assembly meets next month. Since the question was last considered Brazil has withdrawn from the League, and the attitude of Spain is indefinite, in which altered conditions the Special Committee must consider whether it will proceed with their proposal for increasing the temporary seats on the Council to nine. The difficulties which arose last March concerning representation of Poland, still have to be overcome, and Spain has yet to agree to accept a non-permanent seat before the internal affairs of the League can be placed on a satisfactory basis.

The Test Match.

Australia's collapse was another illustration of the glorious uncertainties of cricket. No doubt, the heavy shower about lunch time and a worn pitch contributed towards the rapid fall of the visitors' wickets, but, after all, the play was continued only one day beyond the time allotted for county matches. It was only when the last wicket fell that England felt safe; for the Australian "tail," as a rule, is an unknown quantity, quite capable of wagging the body. No one would have been surprised if the last four or five wickets had stone-walled through another day and, perhaps, put another complexion on the result. Hobbs and Sutcliffe were again the subjects of much hero-worship, and in their leisure from the field were mobbed by autograph hunters.

King Feisul.

King Feisul of Iraq will remain in London for about ten days, most of which time will be spent with his son and heir, Prince Ghazi, and his nephew, the son of the Emir Abdullah, both of whom are at Harrow. There is no prospect of his seeing King George during his brief stay, which will be of a private nature; nor will he discuss the affairs of his country with official representatives of the Government, though it is not unlikely that his views on the future of Iraq may be communicated unofficially to the Colonial Office. King Feisul, as on his former visit, is wearing European dress, except that his head-gear is a somewhat curiously-shaped black cap, similar in style to a Glengarry, but without the tail ribbons.

The Cost of Living.

For some time civil servants have been expecting a drop in their cost of living bonus, and that expectation is about to be realised. The reduction will operate automatically at the beginning of next month, and the Exchequer will benefit to the amount of about £2,000,000. It takes place under the agreement of 1920, which provides that every fall of five points in the cost of living over a period of six months involves a reduction of one-twenty-sixth of the original bonus.

Bonus Reduction.

The Ministry of Labour cost of living figure for this month has been fixed at 70, bringing the average for the six months below that figure. The current bonus was reckoned on a basic figure of 80, which means a reduction of two-twenty-sixths on the original bonus. The bonus operating from September 1 last year was fixed on the basis ot a cost of living figure of 75.

Overbalancing, while looking out of a fourth-storey window at Greenock yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Margaret Glasgow, of Leadhills, Lanarkshire, fell to the street, a distance of fifty feet, and was killed instantly. She was 25.

ALL OCCUPANTS BUT TWO SERIOUSLY INJURED.

TWO passengers, one believed to be an American and the other an Italian, were killed and eleven other persons critically injured when a French cross-Channel air mail crashed near Dymchurch (Kent) yesterday afternoon on a journey from Paris to London.

The official report of the County Police is as follows:—

At about 2.30 p.m. a large aeroplane, marked F.A.I.E.B., owned by the French Air Union, was proceeding to Croydon from Paris, and when near Hurst, which is close to Aldington and Lympne, the pilot was obliged to make a forced landing. When landing the machine struck the roof of a barn and some stacks, the machine being completely smashed.

Thirteen passengers were on board. Two persons were killed and eleven seriously injured, including the pilot, de Liste, and his mechanic. The injured have been removed to Folkestone Hospital.

The pilot who flew the machine, a Bleriot, last Sunday stated that it was then in perfect order. He attributed the accident to the mist, cloud and rainstorm. One of the passengers who escaped stated that, when crossing the Channel, one of the engines started spluttering, and apparently the pilot intended to make a forced landing when he crossed the coast.

ROMNEY (KENT), Wednesday.

A serious aeroplane accident occurred at College Farm, in the Parish of Hurst, about ten miles from Ashford, Kent, this afternoon, when a four-engined Blériot aeroplane, belonging to the French Air Union, on its way from Paris to London, with thirteen passengers on board, touched the top of a barn at College Farm, took the top off a straw stack, and then crashe to the ground. Two persons were brough out dead and others were seriousl injured.

A graphic description of the acciden was given by Mr. Wilson, who said tha between 2 and 2.30 he and his three me were working in the stack-yard with thre horses, when they noticed an aeroplan coming from the direction of Folkeston flying very low in the direction of Ash ford.

It took a left-hand turn, swung roun banked, and the under-carriage of th machine struck a gable on the barn crushed it in, and then struck a stra stack and knocked the top right off.

The left-hand wing then hit a hay stack near by, and the impact caused th aeroplane to swing right round and strik the ground, with its nose in the directio from which it had come.

OWNERS AND MEN TO MEET TO-DAY.

FIRST STEP TOWARDS COAL AGREEMENT.

ACTIVITY IN DOWNING STREET.

The first step towards peace in the coal industry has been taken by the Executive of the Miners' Federation. Yesterday the Executive approached the owners, without waiting to consult the Government, and to-day the representatives of owners and men will meet.

The Government has been informed, and is prepared to use its good offices towards a settlement. It is understood that its main function will be to keep the parties in contact so long as there is any prospect of a settlement.

The Prime Minister and the members of the Cabinet Coal Committee were active yesterday in Downing street. The Government is well pleased that the miners have approached the owners direct in the first instance.

Reports from the coal fields indicate that the men continue to return to work, and that the numbers employed in the principal mines yesterday showed a satisfactory increase.

THE WAY OPENED.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

The Executive of the Miners' Federation lost no time in giving effect to the resolution of Tuesday's delegate conference, which authorised the opening of negotiations for the settlement of the coal dispute. At nine o'clock yesterday morning the Executive met at their headquarters in Russell square, London, to discuss their plans in the light of the new situation.

Mr. Herbert Smith, President of the Federation, was in the chair, and was supported by Mr. Tom Richards, Vice-President, and there was a full attendance of members, together with Mr. Cook, the Secretary, and Mr. W. P. Richardson, the Treasurer.

When the Executive Committee had concluded their meeting the following official statement was issued by Mr. A. J. Cook:—

"Mr. Herbert Smith presided over a full meeting of the Executive and the other officers present, and they discussed the position arising out of the Conference decision. As a result, a letter was forwarded to the Coalowners' Association, and a meeting has been arranged to take place between the Mining Association Central Committee and the Miners' Federation Executive at 2.30 to-morrow (Thursday). We have also informed the Government that we are meeting the coal-owners to-morrow afternoon."

It is stated to be the intention of the Cabinet, once a joint meeting has been secured, to endeavour to keep the parties together until some solution is reached, or a definite breakdown takes place.

The Prime Minister was furnished by his Secretary with a report on the latest development in the coal dispute, and the members of the Cabinet Coal Committee were summoned to Downing street by telephone. The meeting took place in the afternoon, Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland and Colonel Lane-Fox being present, accompanied by Sir Horace Wilson, Permanent Secretary of the Ministry of Labour, and Mr. E. A. Gowers, Permanent Under-Secretary for Mines.

DEMANDS COMPARED.

WHAT THE OWNERS HAVE OFFERED.

Contrary to the general expectation, says The Times, the first approach decided upon by the Miners' Federation was not to the Government, but to the Mining Association.

The miners require that, whatever the minimum is, it shall be embodied in a national agreement.

Since the stoppage, the owners, it is true, have offered district terms, and it has not been surprising to find that in all the important areas they have agreed in reverting, as the permanent arrangement, to the 1921 minimum, in prescribing an eight-hour day, and in retaining the ratio for the division of the proceeds of the industry between wages and profits of 87.13. The essential features of a national agreement would, therefore, appear to be already existent in the district proposals.

The owners' objection to a national agreement is not so much that it necessarily standardises the wage arrangements of the industry as that the miners' national organisation has become too much, in their opinion, an agency for the prosecution of political aims. The miners will, however, insist with all their powers on a national agreement, and in spite of all it may still be found that the owners have not departed from the spirit and intention of the April undertaking. But even so, there may be sharp controversy in regard to variable district percentages.

NOT REVOLUTION, BUT EVOLUTION.

MR. SMILLIE AND THE COAL DISPUTE.

Speaking at Alnwick last night, Mr. Robert Smillie, M.P., expressed the hope that the negotiations on the coal crisis would end in a satisfactory settlement. He denied that the miners' leaders were responsible for the stoppage. The present situation, he said, was brought about by the owners' action in posting notices on May 1 to work longer hours. In denying the charge that gold was imported from Russia for revolutionary purposes, he said that it was not revolution they wanted, but evolution, to effect a better state of things.

GENERAL STRIKE A FAILURE.

MR. CRAMP'S OPINION.

The issue of the conflict, Mr. Cramp, Industrial Secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, told the Labour Party's Summer School, at Dunmow yesterday, conclusively proved that under the circumstances prevailing during the general strike there is no half-way house between the ballot box and the machine-gun. He went on to express the belief that the chief lesson which emerged from their experience was that a general strike was quite inadequate to deal with any issue which was complicated or involved.

It would appear that they must henceforth regard the general strike as a weapon to negative something, rather than as one which could achieve results on the positive side. In spite of the denials of the Trades Union Congress General Council, the issue was a constitutional one, because, if successful, it did involve a revolutionary change in their methods. The general strike had been proved a failure, and could never be employed successfully in a positive way against a Government.

MEXICAN CRISIS.

BISHOPS' MOVE TO CALL OFF BOYCOTT.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.
NEW YORK, Wednesday.

The Mexican police yesterday continued to arrest alleged plotters and to attempt to establish a connection between a scheme for a widespread revolt and the border invasions. Meanwhile the Hierarchy was concerting its efforts to re-establish contact with the Government, in the hope, according to Monsignor Pascal Diaz, Bishop of Tabasco, that it would result in fresh meditation.

The bishops realise that the boycott is hitting the Catholics as much as the Government, and they seem to be anxious to utilise the early re-convening of the Congress to initiate reconciliation moves, which would avoid the appearance of retreat.

It appears that the Government's hand has been considerably strengthened by the firm refusal of the United States to intervene, as well as by the timely stoppage of General Estrada's schemes. The Government is consequently maintaining an uncompromising attitude.

Official optimism, however, in regard to the whole outlook cannot conceal the fact that there have been considerable movements of troops from the capital in the past few days, partly towards the States of Hidalgo and Guerrero.

AMBASSADOR'S POSITION.

There is much speculation in Washington in regard to the future of Mr. Sheffield, the United States Ambassador, who is now returning on holiday. A rumour was first circulated of the approaching resignation of Mr. Kellogg, the Secretary of State. The emphatic denial of this report from the summer "White House" naturally caused the counter-rumour that Mr. Sheffield would resign.

The Ambassador is known to have advocated a more vigorous policy towards Mexico, particularly in regard to interference with "American rights," as to land and oil concessions.

The obvious victory of counsels of moderation in Administration circles, coupled with the announcements that Mr. Kellogg's health is better than usual, causes much displeasure among Mr. Sheffield's admirers

SPANISH INFLUENCES.

In an interview in the New York World, Mr. H. H. Herring, Secretary of the Congregational Church's Social Relations Committee, which has been visiting Mexico, deprecates the Ambassador's lack of appreciation for "the enthusiasm and idealism which induces the Mexican fight for independence."

It is, he points out, not so much a struggle against the Roman Catholic Church, as an effort of the Mexican Indian finally to throw off Spanish influences—an effort which, he says, is fully deserving of American sympathy.

With an election in the offing, Mr. Coolidge is unlikely to neglect the fact that Protestant Republican voters considerably outnumber Roman Catholics in the United States.

CALIFORNIAN FOREST FIRES.

GIANT REDWOOD TREES THREATENED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Tuesday.

California's world-famous giant redwood trees—attaining a height of from two to three hundred feet—in Sequoia National Forest are threatened by a forest fire originating in the vicinity of the township of Badger. The fire has already swept sixty thousand acres of brushland and small timber, and is now forging ahead towards the redwood canyon.

All available forces in the Federal service and the National Park service are engaged in fighting the advancing flames, while two thousand volunteers are requested immediately.—(Reuter.)

70 YEARS YOUNG.

MAN'S MOST EFFICIENT AGE, SAYS DOCTOR.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
CHICAGO, Wednesday.

Man is most efficient and useful at the age of seventy, declares Dr. Hermann Bundesen, the Chicago City Health Commissioner.

Seventy, he says, is the age of highest mentality, and it is a man's duty to keep his body fit, so that he may be an asset at that time of life.

"Exercise, fresh air and suitable and timely recreation are necessary to keep the body physically efficient," added the doctor, who prescribes a regular physical examination in order to maintain a high standard of health.

Fast living and the waste of physical energies shorten life, he says, adding: "Man is made, or unmade, by his own actions. Health conservation while in youth is more important for a healthy and happy old age than a big bank account"

EUPEN AND MALMEDY.

RETURN TO GERMANY RUMOURS DENIED.

BRUSSELS, Wednesday.

The Belgian Government formally denies the reports appearing in an American newspaper to the effect that Belgium is alleged to owe the sum of 1,500,000,000 francs to Holland, also that an arrangement is at present being negotiated between Belgium and Germany for the return of the districts of Eupen and Malmedy to Germany in return for the redemption of the 6,000,000,000 marks issued by the Germans in Belgium during the war.—(Reuter.)

[Eupen, a town of Rhenish Prussia, on the Vedre, close to the Belgian frontier, and twelve miles by rail south of Aix-la-Chapelle, has flourishing woollen manufactures, besides dye works, machine shops, breweries, etc. Its population is 15,441. Malmedy (pop. 5,078) is on the Warche, 51 miles south of Aix-la-Chapelle. Here, in 1896, the German Government established a fortified camp.]

INDEPENDENCE FOR THE PHILIPPINES.

REPORTED PROMISE BY PRESIDENT COOLIDGE.

U.S. TO WITHDRAW.

HELP IN ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT TO BE GIVEN.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
CEBU (PHILIPPINES), Wednesday.

The remarkable statement that President Coolidge had promised him that the United States would withdraw from the Philippines as soon as the natural resources of the islands were developed was made to-day by Senator Osmena, a prominent Filipino leader, in a speech at a luncheon given in honour of Mr. Carmi Thompson, former Treasurer of the United States and acting personal representative of President Coolidge, who is at present touring the islands investigating the conditions here.

Senator Osmena explained that during his recent visit to the United States he had a private interview with President Coolidge, at which the President said:—

> "The Administration has a sincere interest in the welfare of the Philippines, and we are sending an emissary in the person of Mr. Thompson to see how the Administration may be helpful to you.
> "We are going to withdraw from the Philippines, but we do not intend to leave you with limited resources.
> "We desire first to assist you in promoting your economic development, and in obtaining resources sufficient for your self-support."

In conversation with newspaper representatives, who besieged him after the luncheon, Senator Osmena added that the President had also said to him: "We cannot perform the work of development alone, nor is it desirable. We want the Filipinos to participate."

7,000 ISLANDS.

LIFE ON THE PHILIPPINES.

Extending almost due north and south from Formosa to Boreno and the Moluccas, the Philippine Islands form the largest island group of the Malay Archipelago. Of the 7,000 islands and islets which compose the group, only 466 have areas of one square mile or more, the three most important being Luzon (40,814 square miles), Mindanao (36,906), Samar (5,124). The islands were ceded by Spain to the United States by the peace treaty between these two countries on April 11th, 1899.

The Philippine census of 1918 returned a population of 10,314,310, chiefly of the Malay race, 91 per cent. of whom are Christians, and only 932,953, or 9 per cent., are Moros and pagans. Uimla, the capital, has a population of 285,306, mostly Filipinos, the island also being inhabited by Chinese in large numbers, Japanese, Americans, Spaniards, English, German, Swiss and other nationalities.

A return of the births, deaths and marriages for 1922 gives the figures at 349,138, 189,649 and 63,316, respectively.

There are virtually 8,000,000 adherents of the Roman Catholic Church, the dominant religion of the islands. In 1901 an independent Filipino Church was founded, the dogmas of this new sect being almost identical with those of the Church of Rome. Protestant denominations also have extensive organisations throughout the islands. To a large extent the inhabitants of Mindanao and Sulu are Mohammedans, and there are pagan tribes in some of the remote regions.

The spread of learning through the medium of the English language is the principal plank in the educational programme. Pupils are taught free, and the annual expenditure is approximately £2,360,000. In December, 1922, there was an annual enrolment of 1,097,144 pupils in the 7,634 public schools.

It is of interest to note that of the many special educational establishments, 355 schools specialise in agriculture.

Nor is the higher education neglected; there is the State-supported University and three private Universities, while there are in addition 495 private schools of all grades.

Numerous newspapers and periodicals in English are in circulation; also in Spanish, Chinese and native dialects.

The government of the islands is administered through the Executive, the Legislative and the Judicial Departments. The Governor-General is appointed by the United States on the advice of the Senate. He holds sway over the Secretaries of the following executive departments—Interior, Public Instruction, Finance, Justice, Agriculture and Natural Resources, and Commerce and Communications. The Vice-Governor, who is also Secretary of Public Instruction, is elected in the same manner as his chief, the remaining Secretaries being Filipinos.

There are twenty-four members of the Senate and ninety-three deputies in the House of Representatives, and with the exception of nine representatives and two senators all are elected by popular vote and represent forty-eight provinces of the Archipelago. A Council of State acts as a connecting link between the executive and legislative branches of the Government, and the Council is composed of the Governor-General, President; the President of both Houses of the Legislature, and the Secretaries of the Departments.

The Provincial and Municipal Governments are under the supervision of the Department of the Interior, through the Executive Bureau and the Bureau of Non-Christian Tribes. The Chief Executive of each Province is a Provincial Governor. He with two other members form the Provincial Board which constitutes the legislative branch of the Provincial Government. The Municipal President is on the Chief Executive of each town or municipality. The local Municipal Councils consist of from eight to eighteen Councillors according to the size of the municipality.

The Philippine Constabulary and Municipal Police are responsible for the public order, and the United States maintains an army of 12,000 troops, including five regiments of Filipino soldiers. In the administration of justice there are:—A Supreme Court; twenty-seven judicial districts, each with a judge of first instance, with the exception of seven districts which have two judges each.

The principal products are:—Rough rice, Manila hemp, cocoanut, sugar cane, corn, tobacco and magney, and in the production of copra and cocoanut oil the islands are among the foremost countries of the world. The live stock industry is maintaining a steady increase. There are vast tracts of uncultivated land, and the islands possess about 72,224 square miles of forests. The islands, too, are rich in mineral wealth.

The values of the imports and exports for 1923 were, £16,954,847 and £22,374,306, respectively.

There are eleven banks operating on the islands. The Philippine peso is equivalent to 50 cents of the United States money, and the maintenance of the parity of the peso with the gold is provided for by the Gold Standard Fund Act of June 13, 1922. The coins are coined in the Mint at Manilo.

"MEDICALLY UNFIT" MEN.

WINNERS OF ATHLETIC CONTESTS.

At the meeting of the Lanarkshire Insurance Commissioners at Glasgow yesterday, reference was made to certification under the Health Insurance Act, and one member, quoting two instances of men who had been certified as "unfit for work," said that one was able to go to a sports meeting and had the stamina to win a mile race, while the other was able to go to a boxing tournament and win a ten-stone contest.

IRELAND'S DEAD IN FLANDERS.

PILGRIMAGE TO THE BATTLEFIELDS.

MEMORIAL CROSSES TO BE UNVEILED.

The Irish pilgrimage to the battlefields of France and Flanders, one hundred and forty strong, will leave Kingstown to-morrow night for Holyhead, en route for Wytschaete and Guillemont, where Celtic crosses of Irish granite will be unveiled to the memory of the officers and other ranks of the 16th (Irish) Division, who died in the war.

The pilgrimage will be led by Major-General Sir W. B. Hickie, who commanded the formation on the Western front. At Wytschaete the unveiling ceremony will be performed by General Borremans, Inspector-General of Infantry of the Belgian Army, representing the King of the Belgians; and at the Grand Place, Guillemont, where the second cross has been erected, Marshal Joffre, on behalf of the French Government, will preside at the ceremony.

ARRIVAL IN LONDON.

IRISH GUARDS' PIPERS TO ATTEND.

When the pilgrimage reaches London on Saturday morning it will be joined by a big batch of ex-Service men and their friends, and half-a-dozen pipers and three drummers of the Irish Guards in uniform. The band will take part in all the ceremonies, and will be assisted at the sites of the crosses by brass and reed bands of the French and Belgian Armies. The party will entrain at Victoria Station for Dover, en route for Ostend, where a halt for lunch will be made. After lunch the journey will be continued as far as Ypres, where the monument erected to Munstermen who laid down their lives in the war will be dedicated by the Rev. Father L. J. Stafford, who was chaplain to the 10th (Irish) Division at Gallipoli, and the Rev. R. Bird, D.S.O., a former chaplain to the forces. The memorial was erected two years ago by the members of the British Legion and ex-Service men of Munster.

The party will remain at Ypres for the night, and on Sunday morning, after the celebration of Mass and Divine Service, will leave for Wytschaete by motor cars, a large fleet of which have been chartered for the purpose.

UNVEILING CEREMONY.

The ceremony of unveiling the cross at Wytschaete will be an impressive one, and will be followed by a short address by General Borremans on the splendid services of Irish troops to the Allies in the Great War. After the two minutes' silence has been observed, a squad of trumpeters will sound the "Last Post" and the "Réveille." The band of a Belgian infantry regiment will then play the National Anthems of the Allies. The Rev. Mother of the Hospice at Locre, accompanied by all the Sisters of the Community and the children of the school, are travelling specially to Wytschaete for the ceremony, at the conclusion of which General Borremans, on behalf of the Pilgrimage Committee, will present to the Rev. Mother the Irish War Memorial Records, a set of volumes, beautifully bound in leather, with fly leaves of Irish poplin, contained in a case of polished mahogany.

Immediately after the ceremony the pilgrimage will proceed by road to Amiens, where a halt will be made for the night. The route to be taken will give the party ample opportunity of viewing large sectors of the battlefields, the towns touched on the way being Armentieres, Lens, Arras, Bapaume, Albert and Amiens.

AT GUILLEMONT.

Early on Monday morning the pilgrimage will set out from Amiens, through Albert, to Guillemont, where, in the unavoidable absence of Marshal Foch, another great French officer, Marshal Joffre, will unveil the memorial, and deliver an address on the valour of the Irish troops. A band and a picked guard of honour of the French Army will be present, and, as at Wytschaete, the Maire of the town and other civic dignitaries will be present.

Following this ceremony, the pilgrimage will leave Guillemont for Thiepval, where a beautiful memorial has been erected by the people of Ulster to the gallant dead of the 36th (Ulster) Division. Here a wreath will be reverently laid, after which the party will return to Amiens and to entrain for Ostend, en route for London, which will be reached about midnight.

THE CENOTAPH IN WHITEHALL.

On Tuesday morning the party will assemble at the Horse Guards, and march to the Cenotaph in Whitehall, where a wreath will be placed on the monument. Following the brief ceremony there a visit will be paid to Westminster Abbey, and a floral tribute to the gallant dead will be laid on the tomb of the Unknown Warrior. Westminster Cathedral will also be visited, where many of the pilgrims will assist at Mass at about noon. At the conclusion of the Mass the Dead March will be played on the grand organ. Arrangements have been made for the placing of wreaths at the war memorials in Paris, Rome and Washington, simultaneously with the laying of one at the Cenotaph in Whitehall. At the tomb of the Unknown Warrior at the Arc de Triomphe in Paris, a wreath will be laid by General Sir Edward Bellingham, and at Brussels by Captain S. B. Minch.

Among those who will accompany the pilgrimage are:—Lieutenant-General Sir Bryan Mahon, Major-General Sir W. B. Hickie, and his sisters, Miss Lucila Hickie and Mrs. Dolores Deasy; Sir William Taylor, Sir Robert Tate, Judge Doyle, brother of the Rev. Father W. Doyle, S.J., who lost his life while serving with the 16th (Irish) Division; Captain Henry Harrison and Mr. Lewis Beatty, representing the Irish National War Memorial Committee; Major Lefroy, the Rev. Father Maurice O'Connell, formerly Senior Chaplain to the Division; Captain W. Redmond, D.S.O., T.D.; General Beecham-Doran; Colonel John Brown and Mr. Lees, representing the British Legion, London; the Rev. C. A. W. Hammick, Colonel E. St. George Smith, Dr. James Ashe, Mr. J. J. Cole, T.D., and Alderman Hubbard Clark.

IRISH REGIMENTS TO BE REPRESENTED.

All the Irish regiments will be represented by soldiers still serving with the units or ex-Service men, and three patients of the Blackrock Hospital will travel as representatives of the disabled ex-Service men. The following units and corps will be represented:—The 18th Royal Irish Regiment, the Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers, the Royal Irish Fusiliers, the Royal Dublin Fusiliers, the Royal Munster Fusiliers, the 5th Royal Irish Lancers, the Connaught Rangers, the 8th King's Royal Irish Hussars, the Royal Inniskilling Dragoons, the South Irish Horse, the North Irish Horse, the Royal Field Artillery, the Royal Garrison Artillery, the Royal Naval Division, the Royal Army Service Corps, the Royal Tank Corps, and the Royal Air Force.

The pilgrimage will be joined en route by a detachment of ex-Service men from the Channel Islands, who served with the Division on active Service.

THE SOJOURN TAX IN BELGIUM.

NO REPRESENTATIONS BY BRITAIN OR U.S.

BRUSSELS, Wednesday.

The Derniere Heure says that it is informed at the Prime Minister's office that no official representations regarding the sojourn tax have been made at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs by the British or United States Embassies.

The Derniere Heure adds that officials point out that the effect of the tax has been misunderstood, and that it is a special tax directed against foreigners whose "habitual residence" is in a country with an appreciated exchange.—(Reuter.)

LATE NEWS

FIRST STEP TO PEACE.

BUSINESS-LIKE AND WISE MOVE.

In a leading article The Times observes:—The Executive Committee of the Miners' Federation, having obtained freedom to negotiate, took a step yesterday which was at once business-like and wise. A direct approach was made in the course of the morning to the Mining Association, which is the colliery owners' national organisation, and a joint meeting has been arranged for to-day. There had been a possibility that the miners would first approach the Government and employ indirect means of getting into touch with the owners. The straight course is the better one. The dispute, which has laid the industry idle for sixteen weeks, is primarily the concern of the colliery owners and the miners, and the responsibility for settling it is theirs. If they have the will, they have also the power to make an agreement without assistance.

The community is suffering, and must continue to suffer, but it cannot compel the owners and miners to come to an agreement, proceeds The Times. It has, however, the right to claim that the agreement to be sought and made shall provide an assurance of a lasting settlement in an industry where disputes create such great and damaging reactions upon every department of the activities of the nation. A lasting settlement is what the industry itself requires. The plans of development and reorganisation which are essential for its prosperity can only be undertaken if there is that guarantee of freedom from disturbance and interruption that only a long-term agreement can provide.

If the miners' leaders have the genuine belief which the Royal Commission's report warrants their having in the recuperative powers of the industry, provided an economic settlement is quickly made and reorganisation is scientifically and energetically undertaken, then they must provide their share of the guarantee of peace.

A new hope will arise both in the industry and in the country if those who will meet to resume negotiations to-day are animated by a willingness to contribute as much as they can to a settlement. It is inevitable that sacrifices should be made. After four months of idleness and waste, those sacrifices may have to be greater than, perhaps, they need have been, though a sort of "Indian summer" of prosperity may last for a time while depleted coal stocks are being replenished. The problem to be worked out is how those sacrifices should be shared, how much must be borne now, and whether the load can be lightened by spreading it judiciously over a reasonable period. The proof of an earnestness for peace will be seen in the contribution that each party makes to attain it.

FREE STATE DIVIDENDS.

THE DOUBLE INCOME TAX PROBLEM.

In its City Notes column The Times states:—Comments in these columns yesterday on the agreement concluded between the British and Irish Free State Governments for the solution of the double income tax problem have attracted much attention, and in view of the practical interest which the matter has for a large body of investors it is desirable to amplify the particulars already given.

In our summary of the bases of agreement it was stated that the British Inland Revenue will recover from the Irish Inland Revenue the Irish income tax deducted from dividends payable to persons resident in Great Britain or Northern Ireland, but not in the Irish Free State, and that the British and Irish Governments will adjust the matter of the tax between themselves without troubling the recipient of the dividend. We learn that the particulars—customer's name and address, and details of the dividends—to be furnished by the British Bank are required in order that the customer, where liable, may be directly assessed to British income tax in respect to the dividend. The recipient of the dividend will claim repayment of the Irish income tax from the Irish Inland Revenue, but he may, if he so desires, authorise the Irish Inland Revenue to make the repayment on his behalf direct to the British Inland Revenue to be applied in satisfaction of British tax due from him. The British Inland Revenue will pay over to the claimant any excess of the repayment received by them over the British tax due from him.

The arrangement is, as was indicated, designed to prevent the initial double payment of the two taxes without relief, but the British Inland Revenue will in no sense act as the claimant's agent in the prosecution of his claim to repayment of the Irish tax, and whether or not he avails himself of the arrangement it will be for him to satisfy the Irish Inland Revenue of his title to the repayment.

TURKEY AND FOREIGN CHAMBERS.

A RIDICULOUS POSITION.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Wednesday.

The dispute regarding the existence of foreign Chambers of Commerce in Turkey is entering on a ridiculous and humiliating phase. The police have paid another visit to the British Chamber, demanding why the order to close had not been complied with. The Secretary replied by asking for a written notification that the Chamber must be closed, but this was not forthcoming. It appears that other Chambers accepted verbal notification, but the British Chamber rightly insists on receiving it in writing.

Regarding the Government's alleged desire that the Chambers shall change their names, becoming associations or companies, it is pointed out that the British Chamber is an incorporated body, and approval would have to be obtained from England and certain formalities would have to be undergone before the name could be changed. In any case, the position is that the Chambers are virtually closed, as work cannot be carried out with the threat of closure always hanging over them.

It would be more satisfactory if the authorities definitely revealed their intentions, instead of issuing contradictory instructions and assurances every other day.

FLOODS IN BURMA.

A TOWN UNDER WATER.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.
RANGOON, Wednesday.

Rangoon remains isolated, the railway having been washed away at numerous points, which cannot be repaired till the very extensive floods subside. It is officially stated that the ancient town of Pegu has remained inundated during the past four days, the flood covering the entire town to a depth varying from one to four feet, and the inhabitants going about in boats.

Near Pegu the flood waters are rushing over an important embankment, endangering the life of the neighbouring villages. No mails have been received in Rangoon for several days from towns on the railway, but it is known that vast areas in Lower Burma are under water that is presumably held up by railway embankments, and it is feared that great damage has been done to the crops. It is still raining heavily in parts of Burma.

BELGIUM'S FINANCIAL SITUATION.

BRUSSELS, Wednesday.

The Council of Ministers to-day adopted the text of the bill to be submitted to the King forbidding the importation of white bread.

With regard to public works in the Congo, the Council decided to postpone all works not yet commenced and suspend the execution of all those actually being carried on which are not considered to be strictly indispensable.—(Reuter.)

ENGLAND WINS "THE ASHES."

EXCITING FINISH TO LAST TEST.

AUSTRALIA LOSES BY 289 RUNS AT THE OVAL.

CAPTAIN'S VIEWS.

"BEATEN ON THEIR MERITS," SAYS MR. COLLINS.

England regained "the Ashes" yesterday in the final Test Match—the only one of the series which was played to a finish. Australia were set 415 runs to win, but they collapsed unexpectedly, and were all out for 125, the result of the present series of games being:—

England	Won 1
Australia	Won 0

Drawn 4.

The scene at the Oval immediately after England's victory will be remembered by all who witnessed it. Geary's last ball of the match was delivered in dead silence. Then the "spread-eagling" of Mailey's wicket was the signal for a frantic outburst from all over the enclosure. In the stands men sacrificed their hats, hugged each other, and danced madly; women grew hysterical.

Mailey immediately secured the ball as a souvenir, and Strudwick picked up the last stump to fall. Hobbs was cut off by the crowd, and had to be rescued from his admirers, and carried to the stand.

In a few seconds a crowd of ten thousand formed in front of the pavilion and yelled for the captains.

A CHEERING CROWD.

After Mr. Chapman and Mr. Collins had made their bow, the crowd yelled for Sutcliffe and Hobbs, and when they appeared on the balcony a call was made for Rhodes and the rest of the English team. Mr. Collins then appeared again, and caused roars of laughter by playfully shaking his fist at Hobbs.

Then there was a demand for the Australians. When all was quiet, the English Eleven was photographed with the "Ashes."

One of the most interested spectators of the final scenes was King Feisul of Iraq, who arrived at the Oval during the afternoon.

Other visitors were Prince Arthur of Connaught, the Prime Minister, Sir L. Worthington-Evans, Sir A. Steel-Maitland, Lord Forster and Lord Harris.

£11,000 "GATE."

The number of spectators who paid for admission at the Oval yesterday was 18,058, making a total for the four days of 76,472, which, with members and holders of privilege tickets, brought the total at the match to about 103,000. The exact proceeds could not be calculated, but, as the charge for admission was three shillings, the amount taken at the gates is estimated at £11,470.

HOW ENGLAND WON.

BOWLING TOO GOOD FOR AUSTRALIANS.

Rain interfered considerably with the final stages of the match. The fourth day's play did not start until twenty minutes past twelve, instead of noon, and at a quarter-past one, a steady downpour caused a break of nearly two hours. Happily the rain was never very severe, and the spectators forgot their own discomforts when England's moment of supremacy at length was at hand. After fourteen years, Australia had been outplayed in England, and the enthusiasm of the crowd could not be restrained as the bowlers and fieldsmen forced home the advantage secured by the wonderful batting of Hobbs and Sutcliffe.

Whether Australia had to begin the last innings on a pitch more helpful to the bowlers than was the case on Tuesday when Hobbs and Sutcliffe by their skill put England in a sound position, in spite of the obvious handicap of a slow pitch, that was increased by fieldsmen crowding close to the bat, must remain largely a matter of conjecture. The fact remains that, whereas England's crack batsmen succeeded, Australia's most famous run-getters failed.

RETURN OF RHODES.

Their downfall was due to the pace of England's youngest bowler, Larwood, and the skill of Rhodes, the veteran all-round player, who was first played for England for his bowling, and later for his batting. Rhodes holds with Hobbs the record for an opening Test Match partnership, 323, made at Melbourne over fourteen years ago, and at the age of 48 he proved successful with the ball in each innings of this deciding match. The English bowling, which was supported by Geary, Larwood and Woolley (who took catches in the slips), turned the heavy task confronting Australia into an almost impossible proposition.

The loss of four wickets for 35 runs in fifty minutes, when 415 were wanted for victory, pointed to a complete collapse, but the Australian batsmen seemed without nerves. The veteran Bardsley, and Andrews batted in the sunshine as if nothing like danger threatened, and by fine stroke-play brought out the joys of cricket.

When the game was resumed, England was leading by 363 runs with four wickets in hand (375-6). Geary soon fell, but Rhodes stayed until the total reached 425, batting an hour. Tate hit away freely, and made some powerful drives, and after the prolonged luncheon, when Andrews finished the innings by catching Strudwick at silly point, the Sussex man took out his bat for 33.

Altogether England batted eight hours and a quarter for the 436 runs. The Australian bowling shows interesting figures. Only Macartney failed to get a wicket, but of the five men tried he was the most difficult to score from. If two possible chances were dropped and a few runs given away, Australia in the field maintained the high reputation always held by teams representing the Commonwealth.

If Australia did well to keep down runs, England far exceeded such work by an absolutely deadly attack, before which the flower of the opposition went down in a manner to which nothing in this series of tests could be compared. In eighty minutes half the Australian side fell for a mere 63. Woodfull, the most heart-breaking defender for anyone to bowl at, hit a ball straight into the hands of Geary at second slip, with just a single on the board.

Chapman had brought Rhodes from long leg to the gully, and put Geary into the exact spot to which the catch came.

Macartney played his own glorious game, but when a few characteristic strokes had earned cheers he went for a rather wide rising ball, and Geary, moving to his right, brought off a very smart catch.

The downfall of the steadiest stonewaller and the most disconcerting punishing batsman for 31 runs alone would have caused exultation, and when Larwood, diving in from second slip, caught Ponsford close to the ground off Rhodes, the scene became wildly exciting. The batting failures did not end here. Collins, the captain, who stood in the breach and did most towards securing Australia's first innings lead, turned a ball from Rhodes to first slip, where Woolley held the catch—the Yorkshireman had relieved Tate at the pavilion end. Four wickets for 35.

Then came some beautiful play by Andrews and Bardsley, each of whom hit Rhodes to the boundary—a pull and a cut respectively—but when Larwood had another turn, Andrews pulled a ball round to leg, and Tate standing close in, shot out his right hand and brought off yet another good catch, making half the side out for 63.

After refreshments had been brought out—there was no tea interval, as the innings did not begin until 3.30 p.m.—Bardsley and Gregory, the two left-handers, struggled for nearly twenty minutes. Then both failed in efforts at big hits and fell at 83. Woolley held a "skier" at slip off Rhodes, and Gregory, trying to drive Tate, gave a plain catch to Sutcliffe at mid-off. Another stonewaller and bigger hitter had gone.

Richardson hit Rhodes in front of square leg to the boundary, but the Yorkshireman had an immediate revenge, and eight men were out for 87. Oldfield and Grimmett, the men who actually carried Australia's first inning's total past that of England, again gave trouble. Chapman quickly changed his bowling, and Stevens, after being hit for two 4's, bowled Oldfield.

Still the batsmen punished any loose ball, and Mailey drove Geary to the off-boundary before a yorker from the Leicestershireman finished the match.

In rather less than two hours and a half Australia went down for 125 runs and England had won the match by 289 runs. If not so startling as the collapse in 1912, when Australia were dismissed for 61, the victory was more decisive than when last England gained the supremacy at cricket, for then the margin was 244 runs.

Of the men then on the conquering side, Rhodes, Woolley and Hobbs were in the present team. As on that occasion, four days proved sufficient for the deciding match.

With the downfall of Mailey's wicket the crowd gave a tremendous shout and thousands rushed to the pavilion. For more than half an hour there was a wild scene of enthusiasm.

So far as could be gathered from the players, the pitch did not help bowlers more than when England played that glorious second innings which won the match. In a short day's play all the honours had gone to England, whose last six wickets produced 61 runs, while all Australia fell for 125. Sutcliffe, by scoring 237, and Hobbs, with 137, carried off the batting honours.

Larwood, with six wickets for 116, and Rhodes, with six for 79, were the most deadly bowlers; but there was not a failure on the England side, and the whole team worked for the culminating triumph.

WHAT THEY THINK.

MR. CHAPMAN'S TRIBUTE TO HIS TEAM.

Interviewed after most of the excitement had died down, Mr. A. P. F. Chapman, the captain of the England team, said that he was the proudest and happiest man in England. Modest as to his own share in the success, he paid a great tribute to the men under him. He is especially enthusiastic over the doings of Hobbs and Sutcliffe.

"Their batting in the circumstances was wonderful," he said, "and to-day, when victory first came in sight, the bowling of Rhodes, no less than that of Larwood, was magnificent. Every man in the team pulled his weight, and, if there were some batting failures, ample amends were made by fine work in the field and the general team spirit which existed. I can never hope to lead a better team of triers."

MR. H. L. COLLINS.

Mr. H. L. Collins, the Australian captain, congratulated England on a notable success, thoroughly well deserved. He said that Australia were beaten on their merits by a better side.

MR. SYDNEY SMITH.

Mr. Sydney Smith, the manager of the Australian team, said that first of all he wished to congratulate most heartily England on a splendid and meritorious win. When the team arrived in this country, and ever since, he had been particularly emphatic in saying that if Australia were beaten in the Test matches, there would be no squealing, and he did not intend to squeal now.

Australia had been defeated by a better side, and he was sure that the regaining of the Ashes by England would do an immense amount of good to the game. England's young captain was to be congratulated on the way he handled the side, and all the players in the way they had battled for victory. The match was played in the best sporting spirit, and up to the full traditions of the game. Australia would now look forward with interest to the next visit of an England team in 1928-29, when a great endeavour will be made to turn the tables.

One very pleasing feature from the personal point of view was the interest manifested in this particular match. As mover of the resolution at the Imperial Cricket Conference, that future Test matches in England should be played out to a finish, Mr. Smith said that this match should clearly demonstrate that the cricket public wish to see finalty, instead of drawn games. He sincerely trusted that the match would prove the death-knell of three-day Test matches.

Australia did not begrudge England's victory, he said, and it was pleasing to know that this great game is only common to the great British nation. He felt sure that the visit of the Australians had helped in some little way to cement the bonds of Empire.

The Times:—At last England's chosen eleven has put an end to the depressingly long series of recent defeats and disappointments in the Test matches with Australia. Proof that there is life in the old lion yet was long overdue. Not since 1912, when only three matches instead of five were played, have the honours of the rubber fallen to this country.

The Times adds that there is no chance that the match which ended yesterday will be forgotten in either country. From first to last it was a great match. The general feeling in England, as the news of the last day's play was flashed from the Oval to the ends of the Empire, was that it was almost too good to be true.

The Morning Post:—Our Australian kinsmen will not, we are sure, grudge us the jubilation to which in this country the universal heart is stirred by our glorious victory in yesterday's final and decisive Test match. After all, our pride in the result is the best and sincerest compliment that we could pay to the prowess of Australia's eleven. None would have dared to hope for such a swift and decisive ending to this Homeric struggle, but rejoicing has been properly tempered with admiration for the skill and sportsmanship of the adversary, as is made evident by the spontaneous tribute of the Oval crowd to Mr. Collins. It was as remarkable as the ovation for Mr. P. F. Warner, the Chairman of the Selection Committee, whose judgment has been so amply vindicated by the event; for it is important to record that the collapse of Australia in the second innings was not due to the state of the wicket, which was more difficult on Tuesday than yesterday. The phenomenon was due to psychological influences which are often so potent with the finest teams, and it leaves us with the legitimate feeling that England won because hers was the better side.

The Daily News:—The great Test final is over, and England has won the game and the rubber with sensational suddenness and completeness. A grim final struggle would have been the fitting climax to such a contest, and one which the previous play of the Australians had taught us to expect. It is a little difficult to account for what actually happened. Doubtless, the rain had completed the demoralisation of the much-worn wicket; but was it really much worse than when Hobbs and Sutcliffe faced the Australian bowling on Tuesday morning after a night of furious rain? The conditions under which Tate made so useful a stand yesterday were, perhaps, a little better than those which Woodfull and Macartney had to meet, but not much. The difference in the result is the measure of the excellence of the English bowling. The plain fact is that Rhodes and Larwood on such a wicket were too good for any batsmen.

The Daily Chronicle:—Australia will not grudge England the "Ashes," which we last previously won in 1912. What a game it is, and how singularly do the English-speaking communities weave ties of interest and affection between the different parts of their world-wide Commonwealth! No politician could invent such a bond as this which cricket forms between England and Australia.

LONDONERS CHEER THE NEWS.

EXCITING SCENES IN THE STRAND.

Londoners heard the news of England's victory just after six o'clock.

Huge crowds had assembled in the Strand to watch the bulletins of the match, which were displayed from the upper windows of a building overlooking the Aldwych, and special police had to keep a lane clear for motor buses and other vehicles.

Passengers on 'bus-tops caught the spirit of the moment, and cheered lustily as they caught sight of the figures, and usually staid and sober men capitulated to the epidemic of jubilation.

A dramatic climax was reached when shortly after six o'clock the news of the fall of the last wicket was displayed. Hats and handkerchiefs shot up in the air and were waved for several minutes, while roar upon roar of deafening cheers re-echoed along the Strand and over the bridges.

ORIGIN OF "THE ASHES."

The Sporting Times announces that the historic term "The Ashes" was originated by that paper in its issue of September 2, 1882. In that paper's issue appeared the following notice:—

> In affectionate remembrance of English cricket, which died at the Oval on 29th August, 1882. Deeply lamented by a large circle of sorrowing friends and acquaintances. R.I.P.
> N.B.—The body will be cremated and the ashes taken to Australia.

The notice appeared after the Australians had beaten England for the first time in England at the Oval.

His Majesty's gunboats, Woodlark and Gnat, have been despatched to Changsha to assist in the search for Mr. Moore, the installation manager of the Asiatic Petroleum Company, who was captured by bandits last Friday. The Foreign Affairs Bureau at Canton has telegraphed to Changsha urging that every effort shall be made to ensure the release of Mr. Moore. —(Reuter.)

KUOMINCHUN RETREAT.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

PEKING, Wednesday.

Both foreign and Chinese circles are still searching for some adequate reason for the withdrawal of the Kuominchun from the Nankow Pass. Agents of the Kuominchun, who are in refuge in the Legation quarter, state that their forces were outranged by the Fengtien—Chang Tso-Lin's—artillery, and were also short of ammunition. The view generally taken is that some arrangement has been made with the Fengtien leaders, though this is discounted somewhat by the active show they are making in pursuing the enemy.

Wu Pie-Fu expects the Kuominchun to make a stand near Hsuanha later at Wanchuan, and then at Kalgan, if the "Allies" continue their advance.

Shansi forces report renewed efforts to cut off the retreat of the Kuominchun near Tatung, if Kalgan be abandoned. If this move proves successful the Kuominchun would be forced to march into Mongolia. Mukden cavalry are reported to be within ten miles of Kalgan, and a larger force of cavalry is supposed to be near Dolonor. Some time ago they were reported by the Kuominchun to be routed, but this is not confirmed. There has been no communication for several days with Kalgan. The wireless station there has not been working since the 15th.

Already there is much talk of Cabinet reorganisation. The changes spoken of mainly affect Wu Pei-fu's nominees.—(Per Press Association, copyright.)

BOLSHEVIK GENERAL'S RETURN.

PEKING, Wednesday.

Marshal Wu Pei-fu's Intelligence Department a fortnight ago received a telegram announcing the departure from Moscow for China of the Chinese Bolshevik General, Feng Hu-hsiang. It is believed that he has now arrived at Pingtichian, whence he is directing the Kuominchun's general retreat.—(Reuter.)

MLLE. LENGLEN'S TOUR IN AMERICA.

TENNIS OFFICIALS' OPINIONS.

NEW YORK (By Mail).

In a recent interview on Mlle. Lenglen's projected tour of America as a professional, Mr. J. W. Masereau, President of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, said:—"It is generally understood that the United States Lawn Tennis Association does not approve of exhibition matches, and we have repeatedly refused to grant sanctions for exhibitions between amateurs. It is only reasonable to assume, therefore, that our policy would not be altered for the benefit of a professional player giving exhibitions under a professional promoter.

"That opinion, however, should not be taken as a decision. The matter has not officially come before us, and until it does no action will be taken."

In connection with Mlle. Lenglen's announced desire to play Miss Helen Wills during her tour, the American woman champion stated that she would be pleased to oppose Suzanne again. "It all depends on the action of the tennis officials, however," Miss Wills said. "If they approve the match I will be glad to play her. Otherwise, I do not see how we could arrange a match."

William T. Tilden, the national men's champion, ventured the opinion that Mlle. Lenglen's tour would be a success, whether her tour were sanctioned by the tennis officials or not.

"People will pay to see Lenglen, no matter whom she plays," he said. "Why should she need a sanction? My understanding of the tennis regulations is that clubs do not need sanction to put on professional exhibitions, so long as amateur players are not involved."—(Reuter.)

INDIAN COMMUNAL RIOTS.

A HEAVY CASUALTY LIST.

SIMLA, Wednesday.

Sir Alexander Muddiman, of the Executive Council, replying in the Legislative Assembly yesterday to Mr. Harchandri Vishindas, C.I.E., on the question of communal riots and the playing of music during religious processions, stated that every citizen had a right to use the public highways for religious and other processions in the manner established by custom and tradition, subject to the exercise of similar rights by others and to orders passed in the public interest by the authority. Religious disturbances were no novelty, and it was impossible to say when the riots first began.

Sir Alexander said that the Government did not contemplate introducing special legislation. He referred his hearers to Lord Irwin's speech at the Chelmsford Club dinner, in which the Viceroy declared that the remedy was an improvement in the mutual attitude of the leaders and members of the communities now at variance. Executive action must be left to the local authorities, and must vary with the circumstances. Riots reported to the Central Government during the last three years had resulted in about 260 persons being killed and over 2,800 wounded, but in several cases the reports were not complete.—(Reuter.)

"A MERE BY-ROAD."

PROPOSED CORK-LIMERICK TRUNK ROUTE.

The proposed trunk road between Limerick and Cork, via Croom, Patrickswell and Charleville has not found approval in some quarters.

A document was sent to the Minister for Local Government by a number of people in the Kilmallock and outlying districts stating that from time immemorial the trunk road from Limerick to Cork was through Bruff and Kilmallock, and the signatories could not understand why it was departed from for another and less favourable route, which (according to the statement) has been nothing else up to the present than a by-road, and is not popular with traffic between the two cities. Apart entirely from its inferior condition, it passed through no district of any historic or national importance, while the old trunk road went through a country of great scenic beauty, rich in archæological and historical remains. It took in Loughgur, Bruff, and Kilmallock, and was also the route taken by O'Connell to Munster meetings in the fight for Repeal and Catholic Emancipation. These were some of the reasons they impressed on the Minister to show that the route via Kilmallock was the most suitable and popular, and they hoped that he would see the importance of their views from a tourist's and, consequently, a national standpoint.

The Minister's reply was in the negative.

KITCHENER COFFIN AFFAIR.

MR. POWER AND HIS INQUIRIES.

Mr. Frank Power, interviewed yesterday, stated that he was doing all that he could to clear up the mystery of the coffin, which he affirms contained the remains of Lord Kitchener.

He said:—"I have already had information given me showing that it was possible to make a substitution of the inner shell containing the remains which I found in Norway. I do feel that the authorities put themselves in the wrong by seizing my property without giving me notice, and the case was in their possession practically two days before I knew where it was."

MORE COFFINS THAN ONE.

"My first thought, as I am at present advised by my solicitor, is to ask the Home Office to restore to me my property. There is no doubt that I had a case, with an elm coffin, a copper coffin and an inner shell, with something in it. What have they done with the inner shell? You can say that I was repeatedly advised to take every precaution, and a very eminent man said: 'If they can they will diddle you at the last.' I have received information that at the time I was expecting the coffin in London a coffin, answering to the description of mine, large and heavy, was taken into the Admiralty."

Asked how he got possession of the remains in Norway, and whether the exhumation was carried out after compliance with the usual formalities, Mr. Power said: "I will be perfectly frank. I entered into prolonged negotiations with every authority. After some weeks I found that I had got no further than when I started, so I felt that if I wanted to do anything I must take my own action. In England the maximum penalty for opening a grave without permission is a £10 fine. That is the worst offence with which they can charge me; and if I committed this offence in Norway there would possibly be a similar penalty."

Mr. Power said that the coffin was sent from Norway in the usual way through shipping agents. The contents of the case were declared, and no difficulty was experienced in getting it through the Customs.

"What do you propose to now now?" Mr. Power was asked. He replied: "I intend to go on with my investigations to find the body."

There was a suggestion, Mr. Power said, that the film taken in Norway and London should be held up. "In deference to public opinion, we are prepared to be reasonable," he added.

AIR ACCIDENT.

injured. Only three persons out of the total of thirteen were able to walk. The rescuers had to force open one of the doors of the aeroplane, and they found the people inside imprisoned by their feet.

Dr. McVittie, the nearest doctor, soon arrived on the scene, and gave first aid to the injured. One gentleman and two ladies were driven off to a hospital in the neighbourhood, while the rest were taken to the Royal Victoria Hospital, Folkestone.

ALL NIGHT GUARD.

The bodies of the two dead men were left at the farm.

Mr. Wilson said that he had never seen such a terrible sight as when they opened the door of the aeroplane. Several of the passengers were badly injured, and he understood that one of them was not expected to live.

The unfortunate passengers, he said, showed remarkable pluck.

Two policemen of the Kent County Constabulary are guarding the aeroplane until the experts from the Air Ministry have examined the wreckage.

PILOT OFFICER KILLED.

FORCED LANDING ON GOLF LINKS.

While Pilot Officer Roy Nugent Treharn Gape (21), of the 19th Flight Squadron, stationed at Duxford Aerodrome, near Cambridge, was flying a Gloucester Grebe machine near Gog Majog golf links yesterday morning the machine developed engine trouble, and a forced landing was made near the golf clubhouse.

The machine bounced sideways when it touched the earth, ran into a hedge and burst into flames.

Players on the golf course rushed to the scene, but the flames were too fierce to permit of anyone approaching, and, in addition, some machine gun ammunition caught fire and added considerably to the danger. Mr. Fry, the greenkeeper, telephoned to the police, and when the flames had sufficiently subsided the body of the pilot was recovered. The body was in a crouching position in the cockpit, and death appeared to have been instantaneous. Only the metal parts of the aeroplane remained, all the rest having been burnt to cinders.

That the deceased met his death while flying in the course of duty through the crashing of the aeroplane was the verdict at the inquest yesterday evening at Duxford Aerodrome.

The evidence of the greenkeeper and a caddie was that the machine went round twice over the links, and the airman appeared to try to land between the clubhouse and the first tee, but he touched the road, the machine jumping on to the hedge, somersaulting and getting alight, with petrol lying about it and machine gun cartridges exploding. It was impossible to render assistance owing to the fierce flames and the flying bullets.

The medical evidence was that death was instantaneous, caused by fracture of the base of the skull in the crash. The burns were post-mortem.

THE ISLE OF WIGHT ACCIDENT.

A verdict of accidental death was returned at the inquest yesterday evening on Lieutenant John Leslie Llewellyn Rees, Royal Marines, attached to the Royal Air Force at Gosport base, who was killed on a training flight in the Isle of Wight on Tuesday.

His machine struck the ridge of a high hill at Hulverstone, which was entirely obscured in fog at the time. No one saw the crash, and he lay for three hours in the wrecked machine on the hilltop before he was discovered by another Gosport airman. The hilltop would have been cleared with twenty feet more height.

THE LATE FLYING OFFICER T. H. J. WRIGHT.

Flying Officer T. H. J. Wright, who was reported in yesterday's papers as killed at Camberley in message-dropping practice, was a son of the Rev. J. Wright, Vicar of Addiscombe, Croydon, and formerly Rector of Dunganstown, County Wicklow. He was a Captain in the 1st Seaforth Highlanders, and was attached to the Royal Air Force. Flying Officer Wright joined the regiment in 1915, after leaving Sandhurst, and saw eighteen months' active service in France in the Balloon Section. He was a very promising officer. His funeral will take place tomorrow, with military honours.

MAGAZINE-BANNING IN AMERICA

WASHINGTON, Wednesday.

Inquiries have been made in official circles as to their view of the New York Customs House ruling, barring the entry of a London magazine, containing an advertisement of a brand of spirituous liquor. Opinions in these circles is that Congress, when it passed the Volstead law, probably intended to admit regular magazines and other periodicals from abroad on the same basis as newspapers, but inadvertently failed to specify them.

They are inclined, therefore, in the absence of any general regulation, to limit the exclusion at present to publications like the pamphlet in question issued, as they remark, with a view to soliciting American trade.—(Reuter.)

MR. CHURCHILL'S HOPE.

LASTING SETTLEMENT OF COAL DISPUTE.

THE NATION'S HEAVY TASK.

MR. CHURCHILL, last night at Swansea, reviewed the coal situation, and said that he had every belief that they would reach "a lasting and honourable settlement." "Even now," he added, "if a settlement is reached, it is not too late," and he saw no reason why the lifetime of the present Parliament should not see a strong revival in British industry.

At the outset Mr. Churchill dealt with the political position in the country, and stated that the Socialist and Communist forces were being used deliberately to try to undermine the prosperity of the nation. The task of the Government was to endeavour to produce prosperity.

It would be hard enough to secure a general improvement, even if all tried to help as much as they possibly could; "but to achieve prosperity in the teeth of a deliberate campaign to break it down, to achieve an increase in the wealth of the nation in spite of the efforts of the reckless and sinister forces which seek the furtherance of their political aim by the general impoverishment of the country—that is a task in which, indeed, we shall need all your loyal and active help."

THE GENERAL STRIKE.

"AN AUDACIOUS MISDEED."

Dealing with the coal stoppage, Mr. Churchill said that it had been accompanied at the outset by an audacious misdeed against society. (Cheers.) A general strike with the avowed intention of coercing Parliament and starving the nation into obeying the dictates of a section of the community, however powerful, was nothing less than a criminal conspiracy against the State. That, at any rate, had been signally defeated, and those who were responsible for letting it loose had been taught that the nation was stronger than they—(cheers)—and that the more severely it was attacked the more vigorously would it defend itself.

"The consequences of the general strike and of the coal stoppage had been deeply injurious to all classes, but the class that had suffered most had been the trade unionists. Their funds had been dissipated, their members had been thrown out of work. The Unemployment Insurance fund, which but for these troubles would soon have been in an extremely good position, was being plunged heavily into debt, and for a long time to come all the insured workmen and employers throughout the country would have to pay the present high rates of insurance, which otherwise would have been reduced.

"The credit of the working classes in the industrial areas, the resources of the small shops which minister to their needs—all had been seriously impoverished. The reserves of many local authorities were grievously embarrassed. Foreign markets, in which we had been exposed to keen competition, had been captured by the foreigner, who, however, he did not think would retain them permanently once we got together again. But they were gone for the time being. Gone also were many valuable orders out of which good wages could have been paid and good profits made.

A MELANCHOLY BUSINESS.

"It has been a melancholy business," Mr. Churchill said. "The finances of the State have been damaged. The revenue has suffered seriously, and heavy expenses have been incurred. The possibility of reducing taxation has been postponed. Indeed, my whole effort will be directed to avoiding increasing taxation over our overpressed industries, or upon the necessaries of popular consumption. Even if all the coalfields go to work to-morrow, it will only be by the very greatest exertions and contrivance that additional taxation can be avoided. Funds that we should like to have used in cultural and economic development have been consumed in a hateful internal warfare, and our hard-pressed island community has added to all its burdens the heaviest of burdens of preying on itself."

The Government, Mr. Churchill claimed, had laboured to the best of their ability to avert the stoppage, and afterwards to end it. It would have been unjust to other industries to continue the subsidy. Moreover, it would have been absurd, because our foreign competitors—Germany in particular—had said plainly that if we continued to subsidise our miners they would subsidise theirs, and competition would be just as keen.

AN ENCOURAGING SIGN.

"I am very glad," he said, "to see by this morning's newspapers that the Miners' Executive have been authorised at last to open negotiations with the employers. Whether behind this there is any decision to face the real facts, and do what is necessary to save the coal industry, or whether it is only a belated attempt to prevent a breakaway into district settlements, we cannot yet tell. But the fact that the request for a conference has been made by the miners direct to the Mine-owners' Association is, at any rate, an encouraging sign. Everything that we can do in the way of good offices and to bring the two sides together we have done, and we will do.

"As to the reorganisation of the coal industry, we have already passed Acts of Parliament carrying out, or affording the means of carrying out, every recommendation of the Royal Commission which has any bearing upon its immediate prosperity. As to the scientific development, and, in particular, the production of oil for electricity from coal, the whole power of the State is being used, and will be used, even at very heavy expense.

"Finally, we have offered, in the case of pits which are worn out, or worked out—which have to be closed, because they are no longer fit to work—we have offered to contribute towards helping the mining population around those pits to move to some other centre and get some other work. I set aside three million pounds for this purpose in the Budget of the year. Part of that three million pounds has been spent, and is being spent, week after week on buying foreign coal to keep the life of the country going. But the balance is still available for that purpose, and will, when the time comes, be used to the best advantage. That is what we have done, and are doing, and that is all we have any right to do. Whatever happens there can be no more subsidy. On that we are determined."

MR. COOK'S POLICY EXAMINED.

If Mr. Cook's policy of "not a penny off the pay; not a minute on the day" were actually carried into effect, Mr. Churchill maintained that between one-third and one-half of the whole of the coal pits would have to be closed either permanently or for a very long period of years. That would mean that three or four hundred thousand miners and their families would find themselves deprived suddenly, and at a stroke, of their whole means of livelihood. When that was put to Mr. Cook and Mr. Herbert Smith at a recent conference, one said: "Let them emigrate," and the other: "Let them go on the dole." That was a policy which, in its ruthlessness and cruelty, was worthy of the Dark Ages.

As to the mining royalties, continued Mr. Churchill, the Royal Commission proposed that they should be purchased by the State at a fair market value. There was nothing wrong in principle about that. The royalty owners had quite as much right to their property as any man in the country had to his house, his shop, or his allotment.

TRADE UNION PROBLEM.

The experiences they had gone through this year and the loss and suffering inflicted upon the whole country, and particularly upon the trade unionists in the great basic industries, had undoubtedly raised questions about the functions of trade unionism and their bearing on the general welfare, which must go forward to an issue. All knew how indispensable trade unions were to the proper safeguarding of the rights and interests of the workers in any particular industry, and both Conservative and Liberal legislation had, during the last fifty years, conferred upon them exceptional privileges to enable them to conduct strikes, and for the purpose of collective bargaining.

The question which the nation would now have to consider was whether these privileges had not been grossly abused—whether the trade unions, instead of being, as they should be, the social bulwarks and guarantees for the well-being of their members, were not being used as a tool of faction against society, inflicting great injury upon the country, and in particular upon those very trade union members whom it was the duty of trade unionism primarily to protect. "The question is raised," said Mr. Churchill, "whether, for instance, a handful of wire-pullers, in virtue of some resolution passed on a card vote, without any guarantees that the opinion of their constituents has been properly obtained, should have power to lay an interdict on all the industries of the country, and to challenge the sovereign right of Parliament and the State itself.

"Behind this again lie questions of the influences which actuate these wirepullers or whether they themselves are not manipulated and wirepulled from outside this island altogether, and are pursuing aims which are in no way related to the welfare of the British people.

"These are very grave questions, and we are strongly of opinion that Parliament must give them full and early attention.

NO DUAL ALLEGIANCE.

"We cannot afford to encourage dual allegiance in this small island. We must have one nation and work for our common safety and livelihood. The Government," he proceeded, "fully approved the legitimate development of trade unionism in the Civil Service—the power of collective bargaining, the Whitley Council system—and had accepted, subject to the final authority of Parliament, the principle of compulsory arbitration, but they could not allow trade unionism within the Civil Service to have a political character. It must confine itself to the proper functions of trade unionism—namely, looking after the professional interests of their own members.

"In the United States there had grown up a vast abuse of public patronage for political ends, and great efforts were being made in America to correct this evil. They had no intention of seeing what was called in America 'the spoils system' introduced in this country. Under that system each Government would endeavour to stock the Civil Service with its nominees and partisans. They were determined that the patronage of the State should go in the future, as in the past, only by merit and open competition.

AN HONOURABLE SETTLEMENT.

"I have every hope and belief that we shall reach a lasting and honourable settlement," said Mr. Churchill, "and we shall come through our troubles and be the stronger for having surmounted them. Nothing has been more remarkable than the manner in which the trade of the country and its employment have stood up to the cruel strain inflicted upon them. In the twelfth week of the coal stoppage there were a million fewer unemployed than in the corresponding week of the coal stoppage of 1921. There are fewer unemployed now than there were when the general strike ended fourteen weeks ago. The exports for July, if you exclude coal exports and make allowance for changes in price, actually show an increase of 2.1 per cent. on those of a year ago, when no strike was in progress. If you had told me three months ago that this could happen, I would not have believed it.

"There is no doubt whatever that the nation is strong enough to survive these great misfortunes, and that it intends to see them through in a manful and far-seeing spirit. Even now if a settlement is reached it is not too late. There is no reason why the lifetime of this Parliament should not see a strong revival in British trade and industry—should not see the hideous unemployment figure—making allowances for altered circumstances—fall to the pre-war level. There is no reason why the taxes should not be reduced. We know for certain now that six or seven hundred thousand houses will be built. We know for certain that every wife of an insured man throughout the land has a provision made for her in the event of his death. We know that the empire is being steadily consolidated and developed, and we have every hope that after these troubles are over, and wisdom has come with tribulation, a better and a brighter day will dawn."

SOME INTERRUPTIONS.

Although the meeting was a "ticket" one, and police were present in force, there were some interruptions. Mr. Churchill's reference to the coal dispute as a strike was challenged with cries of "lock-out." His reference to the opening of negotiations with the employers was interrupted by cries from miners at the back of the hall of "We have been compelled by starvation." It was not until three men were ejected by the police that silence was restored, and Mr. Churchill was able to conclude his speech.

BLOW TO RUSSIAN DIPLOMACY.

FRANCE'S TREATY WITH RUMANIA.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

BUCHAREST, Wednesday.

Russian diplomacy suffered the greatest defeat of the year when France signed last week a treaty with Rumania, recognising for the second time Rumania's rights to Bessarabia, and guaranteeing the integrity of King Ferdinand's frontiers on the River Dneister. In the last ten days I have encountered this opinion in four Balkan capitals and find it repeated jubilantly in Bucharest.

Intense personal feelings entered the fight which Moscow has directed at Paris for the past year to delay and prevent the signing of the pact guaranteeing the status quo on the present Russian-Rumanian frontier.

SOVIET'S TACTICS.

Rakovsky, the Soviet Ambassador in Paris, has been under sentence of death in Roumania for treason since March, 1921, when he was condemned by a military courtmartial. The defeat of the Soviet's diplomatic tactics is believed in Bucharest to be responsible for the resignation of the Commissary for Foreign Affairs, M. Chichrin, and it is reported here that the first act of his successor, Max Litvinoff, was to despatch long wireless instructions to Paris ordering Rakovsky to register a strong protest to the Quai D'Orsay on the ground that the Franco-Roumanian pact infringed diplomatic relations between France and the Soviet.

The Roumanian Government interprets the protest as a manœuvre intended to impede and embarrass the efforts of the Roumanian Prime Minister, General Averescu, who is now in Rome negotiating with Premier Mussolini for the Italian recognition of Roumania's annexation of Bessarabia. Treaties to this effect have already been negotiated, but are still unratified.

The Soviet protest to Paris carries the implication that Moscow will consider the Italian recognition of the Bessarabian annexation as an unfriendly act towards Russia. General Averescu's object in Rome also includes the making of arrangements for the coming visit of the Roumanian King and Queen to conclude a concordat between the Vatican and Bucharest, which has been under negotiation for some years. The economic significance of the Prime Minister's visit rests on the Roumanian desire for the investment of Italian capital in Roumanian natural resources.

Bucharest newspapers are highly applauding the present Government for the success of its foreign policy in consummating treaties with Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Yugo-Slavia and France for the recognition of the present frontiers. The renewal last March of the Polish-Roumanian defensive alliance had the effect of unifying the solid wall facing Russia from the Black Sea almost to the Baltic. The completion of this barrier is expected by the inclusion of a similar pact with the Baltic States.

THE FRENCH HAYRICK MURDER.

PARIS, Wednesday.

The police have received a letter purporting to have been written by a taxi driver, saying that he murdered Mlle Beulaguet, whose body was discovered on a burning hayrick near Claye-Souilly last Friday night.

The writer of the letter declared that he offered Mlle. Beulaguet a lift and afterwards strangled her. This letter is only one of innumerable anonymous letters which are being received by the police, as is usual when mysterious crimes have been committed.

It is possible that this letter is a "blind" sent by the real author of the crime.—(Reuter.)

SOUTH AFRICA AND INDEPENDENCE.

HERTZOG POLICY WOULD SHATTER EMPIRE.

PLAIN STATEMENT BY GENERAL SMUTS.

JOHANNESBURG, Wednesday.

General Smuts addressed a crowded meeting at the Town Hall yesterday evening. This was his first speech at a public political gathering at Johannesburg since the strike of 1922. He was frequently interrupted by a small, but rowdy, section, which kept up a running fire of shouts and hoots. Red flags were waved, and there were many free fights. Some of those who were most prominent in the disturbances were ejected by a special force of stewards.

In dealing with the Flag and Secession questions, General Smuts declared that owing to the different voices with which the Ministers spoke no one knew where they stood in these matters. On the great questions in which the country was interested they had heard nothing. While all the Ministers were going round, there was one—the Prime Minister—who had been keeping quiet. The country was most anxious to hear his views on the Imperial Conference—was anxious to know what policy he was going to advocate at the Conference.

General Hertzog, in his speech at Stellenbosch, had demanded a declaration of South Africa's independence to the world, maintaining that if all the parties to the British Empire did not agree to such a declaration being made they should not stand in the way of others who wanted the declaration made. They wanted to know whether General Hertzog was going to ask for this declaration. It was a matter of the greatest importance to the country, for a declaration such as General Hertzog had adumbrated would break up the British Empire. They wanted to know General Hertzog's policy. The policy which he had so far pursued was not in the interests of South Africa, but one which would bring discredit upon South Africa. The silence of the Prime Minister under the circumstances was nothing but contempt for the feelings of the people of the country.

The interruption became so serious that a prominent Labour leader made an appeal for order. This, however, was ineffective, and the disturbances were so great that the chairman of the meeting advised General Smuts to make his speech later, when a hearing would be ensured.

A vote of thanks was carried amid deafening cheers, and there was a further series of free fights while the hall was emptying.—(Reuter.)

FRANC AT 170.

SHARP RECOVERY YESTERDAY.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Wednesday.

M. Poincaré, the Prime Minister, who had snatched a few days' rest over the weekend, returned to Paris last night to grapple afresh with the financial situation. He achieved a great deal in the first fortnight after he took over the Government, his most important triumph being the revival of public confidence.

He now has to face the task of stabilising the franc, his power to hold the confidence of the country will depend on his success in this direction.

The rate of the franc has shown signs of sagging again. Ten days ago it was at 160 to the pound, but during the past week it nearly touched 180. To-day it suddenly recovered to 170, which suggests action by the Bank of France.

The business of regulating the rate of the franc rests with the Bank of France, which has been given special privileges for the purpose; but the control which the Bank can exercise will be vain unless the Government's expenditure is kept strictly within the limits of revenue and the cost of living is prevented from rising.

AMERICA AND GENEVA.

THE LIMITATION OF NAVAL CONSTRUCTION.

PLATTSBURGH, NEW YORK, Wednesday.

Interesting historical details of the last naval encounter between British and American forces, together with some reflections upon the present status of the international problem, were the two chief subjects of a long discourse delivered here to-day by Mr. Kellogg, Secretary of State, on the occasion of the dedication of a monument to Commander Thomas MacDonough, who commanded the United States naval forces at the famous battles of Lake Champlain and Plattsburgh in 1814, when the American forces, after a sanguinary encounter, defeated the British, thus successfully preventing the encircling movement of the British land forces, which were endeavouring to cut off the New England States. Losses were heavy on both sides, and to this day fifteen British officers, including Captain Dowhie, the Commander, lie buried in Plattsburg Cemetery.

Turning to the question of disarmament, Mr. Kellogg outlined once again the arguments which have already been put forward on numerous occasions by the United States spokesmen. The United States, he said, were entering the Geneva Conference solely for the purpose of easing the crushing burden of armaments. The American representative at Geneva had already made a number of suggestions with a view to the solution of the problem by international agreement.

Armaments were of two kinds, and it appeared that land armaments would be best regulated by regional agreements, thus removing the fear of immediate invasion. When it came to limiting naval construction, however, regional agreements were not desirable. What was wanted was results, and these seemed best achieved by taking some specific question out of the general mass, and agreeing upon it in a practical manner.

He denied the reports that the Geneva Conference had "scrapped" the Washington agreement, or that the United States would withdraw from Geneva.—(Reuter.)

RUSSIAN SORCERERS.

SOVIET'S FIGHT AGAINST SUPERSTITION.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

RIGA, Wednesday.

The Soviet authorities are waging a hard fight against the numerous superstitions, sorcerers, "evil eyes," witches, and so-called religious rites, which still hold sway and terrify the outlying villages in remote parts of the Soviet Union. In the far northern part of Siberia half of the Pagan tribes still practise self-mutilation by the soothsayers, who finally fall in trances, and, "speaking with strange tongues," forecast such events as the harvest or local industrial prospects.

Only a few miles from Samarkand, on the main line of the railway from Turkestan, is the tomb of the prophet Daniel, whom the local inhabitants believe to be growing in stature as he lies buried. Each year attendant priests move the stones that mark the prophet's grave three or four feet further in the direction of Samarkand. When he reaches the city, says the legend, the prophet will rise to a full ten mile height, and proclaim the victory of the "true believers" over the Russian invaders.

Shortly before the world war the Tsar's Military Governor found the prophet growing suspiciously fast—twenty or thirty yards a year according to the marking of the stones—and he warned the priests that they would be shot unless the prophet slowed down considerably.

Only a short while ago a girl was stoned to death on the banks of the Oxus, because she had abandoned the black veil of the Turkish women and joined the Communist Party.

MERCHANT'S TOUR OF BALTIC TIMBER COUNTRIES.

A flying business tour of the Baltic timber countries to conclude important purchase contracts was undertaken by Mr. W. F Dick, a member of a leading London firm of plywood importers, who has just returned, having completed in twenty-eight hours a round of visits which normally would have occupied at least eight days.

He visited eight cities in Holland, Germany, Denmark, Sweden, Finland and Esthonia, and transacted all his business without leaving the aerodromes. Having made his appointments ahead by letter he had his business friends awaiting him at each place at which he landed. His outward fare cost £25, as compared with £21 over-land, but he saved seven days' board and lodging.

German merchants, Mr. Dick states, are the greatest air travellers in Eastern Europe, and think nothing of starting out at 9 a.m., visiting a customer 400 miles away and returning to the office some seven hours later in order to sign letters. He found scarcely any other Englishman than himself similarly engaged.

While conducting the orchestra at the Blackpool Opera House last night Mr. John Henry Greenhalgh suddenly collapsed. He was removed to the band room, where he died almost immediately.

A SUICIDE PACT.

INQUEST VERDICT IN MANCHESTER CASE.

Remarkable letters were read at the inquest, held at Manchester yesterday on the sixteen year old girl, Kathleen Primrose Wheeldon, who was found dead in a wood at Blackley under circumstances suggesting poison, and in connection with whose death a Manchester tram driver, William Arthur Hallows, aged 33, is under remand, charged with murder. Hallows himself gave information of the affair to the police, and was apparently suffering from the effects of poison at the time.

The dead girl, in a letter to her mother, said: "I am sorry to have caused you so much trouble and anxiety, but I can't help it. As I told you before, I love him, and I don't think you would ever have parted us. Please do not think too badly of Bill and I." Another letter, addressed to a man, said: "This is the end of things for me, and the fellow who is going with me is the man I love."

Police Constable Phillips identified three letters in Hallows's writing. One, signed "Your heartbroken friends, W. A. Hallows, K. Wheeldon," addressed to a man friend, said: "Myself and Kathleen have decided to end it all, as it has all been found out."

The jury found that there had been a suicide pact, and the Coroner said that this amounted to a verdict of "wilful murder" against Hallows.

At the City Police Court Hallows was further remanded for a week, charged with murder.

MOTHER AND THREE CHILDREN DEAD.

CORONER'S VERDICT OF MURDER AND SUICIDE.

An inquest on the bodies of Mrs. Mary Magdalin Halse (37) and her three children, Tony (13), Peggy (12), and Patty (5), who were found dead by hanging at their home at Patmore Heath, Hertfordshire, on Tuesday, was held at Patmore Heath yesterday.

Mr. Francis William Halse, Newton Abbot, husband of the dead woman, said that he was separated from his wife in 1919 by deed of mutual arrangement, under which he made her an allowance. He had not seen her since 1919, and had no knowledge of the third child. In June this year he asked her to send the children to him for a holiday, and she agreed. The date was fixed for August 19th.

The Coroner said that judging by the insurance policy found in the house, the youngest child was born in 1921. It was manifest that when the two older children got to their father they would talk of their sister, and that pointed to the reason for the tragedy.

A verdict of murder and suicide while of unsound mind was returned.

Summer Milk and Bird's Custard make fine food for growing children.
Doctors say, and Mothers know, that it grows them strong and sturdy. Whether you dwell in town or country, you can transform, in a moment, Summer milk into delicious cream-like Bird's Custard. And, with the fresh fruits from British orchards, or the tinned or dried fruits from overseas, Bird's Custard goes like clotted cream.

MANNEQUIN PARADE ON A RACECOURSE.

INNOVATION AT MALLOW.

Although the weather at Mallow yesterday was rather cold and showery, the picturesque racecourse was looking its best. Part of the paddock resembled an Eastern garden, with great hydrangeas, placed about in boxes, and delicately coloured water lilies peeping out of the stream which is spanned by a rustic bridge, just opposite the saddling enclosure, the whole scene resting against a background of wood and mountain in the distance.

The chief feature of yesterday's meeting, apart from the racing itself, was the mannequin parade. It seemed to excite a great deal of interest among the ladies, and men could be seen also gazing from afar at the new season's creations which were displayed.

The Army Band rendered a delightful programme of music, under the direction of Lieutenant Arthur Duff, and this, too, had a little coterie all its own of people who evidently preferred to hear selections from Gounod rather than "back" horses.

Most of the ladies present came in smart tailored suits or two-piece costumes.

Lord and Lady Castletown watched the races from their motor car in the paddock, and others seen on the club stand included Sir Ernest Goff, Mr. and Mrs. G. Sharp-Bolster, Miss Muriel Sharp-Bolster, Mr. Ian Stuart, M.F.H.; Mr. and Miss Gardiner Wallace, Miss Annesley, Miss Olive Carroll Leahy, Colonel Brasier Creagh, Lieutenant-Colonel The MacGillicuddy, Lieutenant-Colonel and Mrs. John Hennessy, Mr. and Mrs. Fildes and Miss Fildes, Mrs. O'Brien, Miss Spicer, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Nolan, Mrs. Joseph Widger and Miss Wellesley, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Longfield, Colonel Longfield, Captain Phipps, Mr. and Mrs. Clancy, Mr. and Mrs. Dwyer, Mrs. Hanlon, Mr. John Ryan (Scarteen), Mr. Stephen Gwynn, Mr. A. H. Ledlie, Mrs. MacCabe, Dr. Vaughan.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE.

FAVOURITES FAIL.

ALL GREEN WINS ON PROTEST.

PASHA BEATEN BY A HEAD.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

STOCKTON, Wednesday Night.

It was another bad day here for favourites, the rigour of the afternoon being mitigated only by the fact that after the 10 to 1 chance, Lomondside, had finished first in the principal race of the afternoon, the Stewards' Plate, he was disqualified and the race awarded to the favourite, All Green, whom Sir Hugo Cunliffe-Owen acquired only a few weeks ago cut of Pope's stable, for whom he had won this event last season. After Impress had established a long lead Lomondside and All Green were always dominating the others.

It did look, however, that when Lomondside came to challenge at the distance he gave All Green a severe bump, and when he beat the favourite three-parts of a length it was not surprising that H. Leach lodged an objection to the King's jockey, Alford, for bumping and boring. It was very soon upheld, and the race awarded to All Green, with Creolian, who had made a slow beginning and finished four lengths off, placed second, and the well-backed King of Clubs third. Helter Skelter, who was second favourite, was not prominent at any time.

There was only one other favourite to win throughout the afternoon. This was Gay Gamp, who beat Ospray easily by a length and a half in the Zetland Plate. The rest of the afternoon was spent in watching the failure of favourites and the successes, in some cases, of rank outsiders, unbacked for a shilling. The Glasgerion horse Red Crest, who won the opening selling plate from Wearing a Crown, and gave Beary his first winning ride since his suspension, had supporters, but he was not so well backed as William's Mount, who finished third.

Mr. Joel's cast-off, Pasha, once well backed for a Cambridgeshire and then for a Lincolnshire, did seem, in the colours of his new owner, Mr. Barling, a likely winner of a moderate-class selling plate, and odds were laid on him, but he was beaten a head by Flavius. There is this to be said in explanation of his defeat, and that is that he met with some interference close home, and that this may have enabled the 10 to 1 chance to get up on the post and beat him.

SUNNE'S BRIDE'S WIN.

Another 10 to 1 chance in Sunne's Bride, owned by Lord Londonderry, was successful in the Lambton T.-Y.-O. Stakes. Here Hard Lines was favourite, but he was beaten some distance from home, and Chunky was the only one who made a race with the Wynward Park representative. The filly had no difficulty in beating him by two lengths, Presto being again a failure.

Mr. Persse and his patron, Mr. J. P. Arkwright, had reason to be dissatisfied all round with the day. After their contretemps with Lomondside, their filly, Helene, was made favourite for the Hardwicke Plate. She was first away, and at the distance she still held a good lead, but then she began to weaken ominously, and Lovely Naples, owned and trained by De Mestre, went to the front, and in spite of the fact that Welsh Main was putting in good work at the finish, won by a length and a half. Beasley did not persevere on Helene, and she was beaten out of a place.

Backers supported six horses in the last race, but they would not look at Hasty Love. This was the one, however, who came to beat the favourite, Jenico, by a length, with the second favourite, Diagram, a short head away, third. This completed an afternoon which had been much spoilt by rain.

To-morrow the programme here is none too interesting. The Durham County Produce Plate will see only a very small field, out of which I choose ROSEOLA, to beat St. Jerome. Allets runs for the Middlesborough Welter, but she has only been seen out once this season. Iceberg, Evening Rose, Celadon and Pandarus have chances, but I shall choose OPEN PROSPECT, who did not have the best of luck at Kempton last week. NOTTINGHAM PET looks about the best of those engaged in the Wilton Welter Handicap.

Bath also serves up a thin programme, and, as Monastery Garden does not run for the Grenville Maiden Plate, a chance can be given to SWEETIE. ABBOT'S REMORSE, on her Windsor form with White Spot and Pinault, may win the Grosvenor Handicap. Next to her I like Knickerbocker best.

MALLOW.

EXCITING FINISHES.

WEST INDIES WINS SUMMER CUP.

Several showers fell at Mallow yesterday, but they were light and of little consequence. There was a large crowd to witness the opening stage of the meeting and enjoy a very pleasant afternoon amidst the beautiful surroundings. Although not so important as the Tailteann Gold Cup, the Mallow Summer Cup was an interesting event, and provided a good race, and several other close finishes helped to make the sport of an attractive character. The mannequin parade and the No. 1 Army band were other items which added to the general enjoyment of the afternoon's proceedings, and to-day there will be provided another feature in the nature of an aeroplane landing by Steve Donoghue, who will ride Gifted, the favourite for the Gold Cup, later in the afternoon. Gifted was well backed on the course yesterday, as were Maureen M., Mernault, Tara Prince, Wild Argosy, and Ardsallagh, and a fine contest is in store.

Striped Silk must have now established a record for the number of successes achieved this season. She was exploited again in the Kanturk Plate. She won in the customary easy style, this being her eighth consecutive victory. Buzzing Bee disappointed by her showing in the Fermoy Plate, but it transpired that she went amiss just before the race. The Little Boss was in front all the way, and though Buzzing Bee lessened the gap appreciably in the last furlong, John Doyle's mount held on to the end to win by a head. There was no bid for the winner when submitted to auction.

Brackbawn had an easy task to win the Buttevant Steeplechase. He had his three opponents well beaten a long way from home, but Slieve Grien, who finished second, is a promising type of young 'chaser, who should capture a race before long.

West Indies was afforded an opportunity in the Mallow Summer Cup of atoning for her defeat at Phœnix Park, and odds were laid on her chance. She ran her race in snatches, but fortunately for her backers put in her best work in the last furlong, and, overtaking Friarstown in the last few strides, got up to score by half a length.

Easter Hero, who was fancied for the Galway Plate, but missed that engagement, was confidently expected to win the Rakes of Mallow Steeplechase. For a long way he flattered, but when tackled by Tony Lad after the last fence was easily disposed of by the latter. Backers of Grosvenor's Reward for the Trial Stakes were left in suspense until the judge's decision appeared in the frame. The 100 to 1 chance, Thomas Atkins, the mount of T. Sheehan, junior, made the running from the start, and was only overhauled in the last few strides by the favourite, who won by a short head. Details:—

TAILTEANN GOLD CUP.

TO-DAY'S BIG RACE.

To-day will see the decision of the Tailteann Gold Cup, which, as befits the best-endowed handicap run for in Ireland, has aroused considerable interest, and it should furnish a race in keeping with its importance. So far as can be gleaned, the field will be made up of the following:—

Gifted hails from a successful stable, and although he has not earned a bracket this season he has acquitted himself sufficiently well to give him a chance here. Maureen M. is such a consistently good performer that, despite her big impost, she is not a little fancied, and Nantenan, Mernault, Linette, Wild Argosy, Ardsallagh, King's Falloch, and Mallow Bridge also have claims to consideration, whilst Millbank is reported to have done an excellent preparation. However, for the winner I shall rely on

TO-DAY'S SELECTIONS.

There will probably be but a small field today for that valuable prize, the Durham County Produce Plate. Hopes are entertained that St. Jerome will carry Lord Lascelles's colours successfully, though he has run three times this season without catching the judge's eye. Roseola had not much to beat when successful at Kempton Park last week, but she could do no more than win. Zenobia should easily account for Crystal Set, and the issue appears to rest between St. Jerome and Zenobia, with a slight preference for the former. It is expected that all those left in the Wilton Welter Plate will be saddled. Maynooth appears to have plenty of weight. On his victory over a mile and a half at Catterick Bridge there is much to be said in favour of Dropitin. Italian Poet is fancied, as are also Charmione and Nottingham Pet, but the choice is Polish Saint, who may have most to fear from Dropitin. Selections:—

Middlesbro Plate—Evening Rose.
Wilton Welter—Polish Saint.
Billingham Selling—Gamvros.
County Produce Plate—St. Jerome.
Private Sweepstakes—Ambo.
Thornaby Plate—Fire Queen.
Elton Plate—Pleasant Thoughts.

TO-DAY'S SELECTIONS.

The principal interest to-day at Bath will centre in the Grosvenor Handicap, the whole of the entries for which are on the scene of action. Pride of place in the handicap is held by Ceteb, who has not run in public for a couple of months, but if Moreton has got him to his liking he is certain to take a deal of beating. Aim High was left in this race in preference to the Dodington Handicap, but he appears to have been weighted well up to his best form. King's Oven should run prominently, but recent running points to the chance of Lewendon. Selections:—

All-Aged Selling—Perle D'Or.
Stand Selling—Red Ronald.
Grenville Plate—Missing Gem.
Grosvenor Handicap—Lewendon.
Dodington Handicap—Thistabel.
Monument Plate—Make and Break.

CRICKET.

PHŒNIX WIN ON TIME.

LOW SCORING AT RATHMINES.

Phœnix and Civil Service played a club match on the Phœnix ground yesterday on a good batting wicket, the game resulting in an exciting finish and a win for Phœnix by five wickets just on time. Phœnix fielded a strong side, but the visitors were rather weakly represented. The home side won the toss, but sent Civil Service in. The play was tame at the start, and four wickets were down for 26. G. S. Nowlan and W. Fitzgerald then made a fine stand for the fifth wicket, which fell at 104, having put on 78 runs, when Nowlan was dismissed for a steady 21, and Fitzgerald, who followed immediately, had ten 4's in his hard-hit 56. The innings closed at 149. T. H. H. Dixon took seven wickets for 30 runs. Left with 150 to get to win in an hour, Phœnix set about their task resolutely, J. W. F. Crawfurd taking 22 off one over from Nowlan (a 6 and four 4's), 50 going up after a quarter of an hour. At 55 de Burgh was bowled by Bales, and at 60, scored in twenty minutes, the same bowler took the wicket of Crawfurd, who had a 6, five 4's and a 3 in his lively 35. With T. G. McVeagh and D. R. Pigot together, 80 came after half an hour's batting, and the century after forty minutes. It was then a race for runs against time, but 20 runs were wanted when E. L. Kidd joined Pigot, with ten minutes to go. Kidd lifted Nowlan overhead for 6, took a 3 and two singles off the next three balls, and then Pigot made the winning hit by sending Nowlan into the pavilion for 4 two minutes before time. Boucher took two wickets for 24 and Bales two for 38. Pigot was not out with a hard-hit 32 (6 and five 4's), and Kidd got 18.

Scoring ruled low yesterday at Rathmines, where an XI. of Leinster, playing the Dublin Markets XI., won by 25 runs. Batting first, the Markets XI., against the bowling of R. D. Lambert, in a little over an hour were dismissed for 51. Lambert had the good analysis of three wickets for 22 runs. Leinster made a bad start, losing four wickets for 6 runs, but E. A. Ingram and G. Browne came to the rescue, and the visitors' total was passed for the loss of seven wickets. Ingram batted splendidly, and when the innings closed for 76 he was unbeaten with 30. Harrington bowled best for the losers, taking four wickets for 19 runs.

FINE INNINGS BY SEYMOUR.

SURREY'S TIMELY. RECOVERY.

At Lord's yesterday Seymour played a great innings on a pitch, which, following rain, gave the Middlesex bowlers some assistance, being mainly instrumental in Kent affecting a smart recovery after the opening batsmen had left for 22 runs. Rain delayed the start a quarter of an hour, and prevented play between 1 and 3 o'clock, so that when immediately on resuming Lee took a low catch extremely well at cover, off a hard drive by Hardinge, Kent were in a bad way. Enterprising cricket by Seymour and J. L. Bryan, who were helped by the poor length bowling of the home county, weakened by the continued absence of Hearne and Durston, carried Kent through a trying period, 78 runs being added by resourceful batting. J. L. Bryan put plenty of power behind his on-side strokes, while Seymour, who remained until the total reached 173, showed marked skill in placing the ball to leg. At the wicket two hours and a quarter without a mistake of any kind, Seymour played with splendid judgment, pushing the score along quickly when the bowlers appeared likely to get on top, and later batting steadily to consolidate the position. G. J. Bryan hit lustily to add 39 with Seymour, whose dismissal was brought about by another beautiful low catch by Lee in the slips, while during the last seventy minutes Knott and Collins put on a valuable 53, so that Kent, by steady methods, built up the useful total of 226 for five wickets.

Several heavy showers delayed the commencement of the match between Notts and Worcestershire at Trent Bridge until half-past three o'clock, and restricted play to barely three hours. Winning the toss, the visitors, who introduced W. L. Shorting for H. L. Higgins, secured first innings on a good hard wicket, which had been covered in its entirety, and making an excellent recovery after losing their opening pair of batsmen for 14, they accomplished a capital performance in scoring 193 for the loss of seven wickets.

In making a wonderful recovery at Edgbaston, after a most disastrous start, Surrey owed everything to Jardine. Going in third wicket down, when the total was only 14, the old Oxonian was last out. The earlier batsmen were evidently beaten by the fast wicket. It was Jardine and Fender who made the first stand, adding 40 in thirty minutes, but when the captain left half the side was out for 66. At this point Wyatt had taken four wickets at a cost of 30 runs. Then came a grand partnership between Jardine and Peach, which yielded 110 in seventy minutes. Peach played crisply, although overshadowed by his partner, and Lockton helped to put on 41 for the eighth wicket. Next came the brightest period in the game, when Jardine and Brooks added 107 in just under an hour. At the wicket three hours and twenty-five minutes, Jardine gave only one chance, when 115. Warwickshire had twenty-five minutes batting, and losing Wyatt's wicket, finished up 308 in arrears.

The cricket at Brighton did not prove very interesting to watch, the Lancashire batsmen generally following a policy of care. For all that the end of the day found the visitors none too well placed with three men out for 114. Driving rain interrupted the game within ten minutes of the start, and nothing more could be done until twenty minutes past three o'clock, play going on until seven o'clock. Lancashire thus had three and a half hours' batting.

The Swansea wicket, with its sandy foundation, maintained its reputation of being helpful to bowlers, when twenty-seven wickets fell for 281 runs in the match between Glamorgan and Gloster. Glamorgan finished up with the advantage, for at the close Gloster, with three wickets intact, were only 41 runs on. Heavy rain preceded play, and with the subsequent sunshine the pitch always played difficult. Still, when they won the toss Gloster decided to bat, and in an hour and forty-five minutes were dismissed for 89. Mercer, who was bowling off breaks, was responsible for the collapse, and his analysis of 8 for 39 represented his best performance in first-class cricket. The only batsmen to face the attack with any confidence were Hedges and Sinfield, who made half the score between them. Glamorgan did little better at the wicket, their last six wickets falling for 28 runs, and the bowlers maintained such a mastery that when Gloucestershire went in a second time they again lost seven wickets for 72 runs. Clay this time did the damage, his four wickets so far being secured at a cost of less than three runs apiece.

Rain fell so heavily at Harrogate that when the start should have been made in the return match between Yorkshire and Hampshire pools of water were on the pitch. Indeed, conditions were so bad that as early as a quarter past 12 o'clock it was decided to give up all hope of cricket for the day.

Heavy rain on a ground already soaked rendered the start in the Derbyshire v. Northamptonshire match at Chesterfield impossible, a decision at half-past twelve o'clock being arrived at to give up all idea of cricket for the day.

LAWN TENNIS.

GREYSTONES OPEN TOURNAMENT.

For the third day in succession broken weather interfered with the Greystones Open Tournament. Heavy rain during the night made for slow courts, and a couple of heavy showers while play was in progress did not improve matters. A number of matches had to be left unfinished, and these will be continued to-day at 10.30 a.m.

In consequence of the numerous stoppages the programme is not as well advanced as it should be in mid-week, and competitors are requested to assist the management by observing strict punctuality. Details:—

BOXING.

THE DEMPSEY-TUNNEY FIGHT.

There is every prospect of litigation in connection with the fight between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney next month for the world's heavyweight championship, if the decision to hold it in New York is proceeded with, as Mr. Tex Rickard declares it will be. The Licence Committee of the New York State Commission has accepted the boxers, but the duties of the Committee are limited to the examination of such matters as the physical fitness of the contestants. It is expected that this opinion will be the basis of the court proceedings to compel the authorities to sanction the fight.

INTERNATIONAL CONTEST ARRANGED.

A twenty-rounds contest for the European Flyweight Championship and a purse of £1,500 has been arranged between Elkey Clark (Glasgow) and Francois Morachinni (France), to take place at the Royal Albert Hall, London, on October 7th.

MOTOR CYCLING.

SIX DAYS' TRIAL.

BRITAIN LEADS.

After a day of very mixed weather, beginning in a downpour of rain, at Buxton, and a deluge on the Moor, more than one half of the road work in connection with the International Trial, concluded at Buxton last evening. There have been several additional retirements owing to the enormous strain to which the machines have been subjected, but so far as the International Trophy is concerned, England dominates, with two teams still complete.

The team of British ladies, Miss Cottle, Mrs. MacLean and Miss Foley, lead in the International Vase competition, in which foreign riders may compete on machines manufactured in other than the home countries. Between them they have lost only nine marks, while the male British team is second and Germany third.

GOLF.

ONE THOUSAND GUINEAS TOURNAMENT.

GREENS UNDER WATER.

The proceedings in the concluding half of the qualifying competition, on the Moortown Club's course, Leeds, yesterday, to select thirty-two for the match play stages of the Yorkshire Evening News 1,000 Guineas Tournament, contained many remarkable happenings. One was the failure of George Duncan. He had been fairly favourably placed with a round of 73, but yesterday his golf was not characterised by steadiness, and the result was that he took 79, which put him well out of all reckoning. In the early part of the day's play there was considerable delay, owing to many of the greens being partially under water, and so bad was the state of affairs that new holes had to be cut in many instances. The first happening of note was the feat of Havers in equalling Compston's record of 69 made on Tuesday, and shortly afterwards H. Kidd, the Wiltshire professional, equalled Havers' performance. In the meantime Abe Mitchell was an interested spectator of events, and in the afternoon O. Sanderson (West Bradford) broke the standing record by returning a score of 68. He was out in 34, and it is noteworthy that he only exceeded four strokes on three occasions during the eighteen holes.

Havers and Sanderson tied for first place in the qualifying competition with totals of 141, and Compston, who led the field on the first day, took 73, and tied with C. Whitcombe at 142 for the next position. Among those who passed into the match play stages were the former open champions, Alec Herd and Ted Ray, while among the failures were Len Holland, last year's first prize winner, and Harry Vardon.

The totals of those who qualified were:—

141—A. G. Havers (Coombe Hill), A. Sanderson (West Bradford).
142—C. A. Whitcombe (Crews Hill), A. Compston (Unattached).
144—Arthur Mitchell (Bexhill).
145—A. R. Wheildon (Moseley), T. B. Jolly (Moortown), H. Kidd (Wiltshire), H. Cotton (Langley Park).
146—George Gadd (Roehampton), E. P. F. Weston (Western Park), G. M. Turner (Guildford).
147—L. Herrington (Abbeydale), Alex Herd (Moor Park), M. Daragon (Tooting Bec).
149—B. S. Weastell (Colwyn Bay), F. Robson (Cooden Beach), H. Wooliscroft (Buxton), W. H. Davis (Prenton), E. Ray (Oxhey), J. Bradbeer (Porters Park).

The following tied for the last five places with 150, and they re-played over eighteen holes:—A. Isherwood (Warrington), J. Scarth (Bolton), H. Crapper (Harrogate), W. Large (Fulwood Park), MOSES O'NEILL (Wrekin), T. Green (Copt Heath), H. C. Jolly (Foxgrove), J. W. Gaudin (Alwoodley).

As a result of the replay over eighteen holes, the following occupied the remaining five places:—O'Neill 71, Crapper 73, Green 75, Gaudin 75, and Scarth 76. Jolly took 77, Large 78 and Isherwood 78.

The draw for the first round of the match stages is:—E. R. Whitcombe v. Havers; Cotton v. George Gadd; Daragon v. Herd; Barber v. Harrington; Robson v. Weston; Mitchell v. H. Twine; C. Whitcombe v. Smith; Davies v. Scarth; Wheildon v. Bradbeer; Kidd v. G. Turner; Green v. Sanderon; T. B. Jolly v. Ray; Compston v. Weastell; Bee v. Williamson; Gaudin v. Crapper; O'Neill v. Wooliscroft.

YACHTING.

THE WATER WAGS.

Last evening the Ballot Race was sailed and was won very easily by Coquette. But instead of Mr. G. B. Jones being at the tiller, as usual, her helmsman was Mr. A. E. Snow, and herein lies the particular interest in a race of the kind in which the class boats are balloted for, with the proviso always that no owner nor regular helmsman can steer his own boat. It so happened on this occasion that one of the best helmsmen drew one of the very best boats.

The wind was quite good from the West, the port course was sailed and the start made at 6.45 p.m. All went away very smartly on a free reach, Barbara leading Coquette, Mollie, Tomboy, Mary Kate, Phyllis, Pansy through the line. At the first mark, the jetty buoy, Coquette was in front, with Pansy and Phyllis next, then Mary Kate and Tomboy, and a reach fetched the outside hauling buoy. A turn to windward to the Coal Harbour buoy followed. They spread out a lot on it, and all found the puffs flying out of the Coal Harbour trying enough. The first round saw Coquette holding a good lead, with Mollie next and Pansy third. A tail was showing on the race at this stage. Some luffing between Mollie and Phyllis had let Pansy up; more luffing between Barbara and Tomboy cost both of them heavily at the outside hauling buoy, and particularly the last-named. Coquette was out on her own on the final; Phyllis and Pansy had a duel for second place, and Mollie and Barbara for fourth. Finish—

LAUNCH OF NEW MOTOR CRUISER.

The Lady Claire, a motor cruiser, 30 feet over all by 8 feet 2 inches in beam, and fitted with a 20-24 h.p. Ailsa Craig motor, which has been built by Mr. M. Mahony, of Patrick street, Kingstown, to the order of Mr. J. E. Mills, was launched yesterday and placed on moorings in harbour. Her high topsides give her a rather striking appearance to the eye, but at the same time provide an impression of power and sea-worthiness. A very roomy craft, with good head-room, she has a large cockpit, a spacious engine room forward of that, and, more forward still, a handsomely-fitted saloon, with forecastle and lavatory accommodation in the bow.

HEAVY WEATHER FOR THE OCEAN YACHT RACE.

It is clear that the competitors which started the other day from Cowes in a race round the Fastnet and back then to Plymouth, a course of 600 miles, will have a moving tale to tell of their experiences off the South Coast of Ireland.

Our Queenstown Correspondent wires us last evening that Mr. H. P. J. Donegan's Gull, the only Irish competitor, has been forced to retire and to put into Cork Harbour for shelter that morning, having had a trying experience in the heavy South-Westerly gale which broke over the coast on Tuesday night. The Gull came in under trysail, her racing canvas having been torn to shreds in the gale, the high wind increasing in velocity during the night, the labouring and pounding of the yacht in the heavy seas causing her to spring a leak on the port side.

At the moment of telegraphing, the whereabouts of the other yachts is not known, and it is believed that some of them will have been forced along the Cork coast owing to the fierceness of the storm.

PIGS FOR SURREY.

BIGGEST SHIPMENT YET OF LARGE WHITE ULSTER.

The biggest single consignment of the Large White Ulster pig breed which has so far left Ireland was shipped from Derry yesterday afternoon to Heysham, en route for Surrey for local breeders.

The Large White Ulster Pig Society, which has its headquarters at Balmoral, has gained great distinction at home and across the water for the excellence of the stock.

Yesterday's consignment consisted of fifty pedigree pigs drawn from the best herds in Derry, Tyrone and Donegal, including fine specimens from Baronscourt, the property of the Ulster Governor, and from Kildery, County Donegal, the property of Colonel G. V. Hart, this year's President of the Large White Ulster Pig Society. Each pig was housed in a separate crate, and the work of loading was watched with great interest by a large crowd at the docks.

Mr. W. J. W. Osborne, J.P., a prominent County Derry breeder, informed a Press representative that the breed has been shown with great success on the other side of the Channel, notably in the Highlands and the South of England, where a branch of the Large White Pig Society has been formed. Wherever the breed has been sold there were always repeat orders. "There is a great future for the pedigree pig breed in Ulster," added Mr. Osborne.

NORTH TIPPERARY SHOW.

OVER 1,000 ENTRIES AT NENAGH.

EXHIBITS OF A HIGH STANDARD.

From Our Own Reporter.

The North Tipperary Agricultural Society held their fifty-second Show at Nenagh yesterday. The weather was fairly good, and the occasional showers which fell during the day did not interfere with the success of the occasion. The Nenagh Show, which started with 84 entries in 1874, has steadily progressed, and yesterday there was the "record" number of 1,060 entries in 158 classes, including live-stock, poultry and horticulture. In addition the Dog Show, which was a new feature, attracted nearly 600 entries. The general quality of the exhibits was up to a high standard. The judges remarked on the improvement of all classes of live-stock. The young horses were very promising, and in the five-year-old hunters some very fine animals were shown. There was a large increase in the cob and pony classes, which showed fifty entries.

There was also a large increase in the cattle section. Some very fine specimens of bulls were shown, including Mr. J. H. Wallace's Hereford bull Thornvale Endeavour, reserve champion at the Dublin Spring Show this year. Another fine exhibit was the shorthorn bull Paddy Clansman, shown by Mr. P. Flannery. The yearling heifers were a good lot both in numbers and quality. The Association paid special attention this year to the classes for registered dairy stock, and some very fine specimens of registered dairy cows were exhibited. The store cattle section also showed an increase in number and quality.

Brood mares to produce hunters were an extraordinarily good class. Among the young hunters it was difficult to decide the prize winners, and the two hunters placed first and second were excellent animals. The one weak class were the two-year-old colts or geldings. There were only four entries, and the quality was poor. The sheep were of a very good average, particularly the Lincolns exhibited by Miss Norris and Mr. William Gleeson. Pigs also were good all round.

The horticultural section was one of the best supported features of the Show. There was a big number of entries, and the exhibits were neatly staged and reflected credit on those concerned. The beet class was of great interest. Well supported, the exhibits drew from the judges, Messrs. T. A. Rudd and W. Coady, the opinion that the standard had improved at least 50 per cent. on last year.

Among those who acted as judges were Colonel Grattan Bellew, Captain T. Kennan, Messrs. M. Mitchell, J. Cullinane, Joseph O'Connor, N. T. Grene, James Raffan, E. Purcell, J. Doherty. Mr. A. E. Brandon acted as veterinary surgeon, and the hon. secretaries, Messrs. James O'Meara and James P. Cross, were assisted by a capable body of stewards, who contributed to the smooth working of the programme.

THE DOG SHOW.

The dog show, held under the licence of the Irish Kennel Club, suffered somewhat through the showery weather, but despite the interruptions the judges accomplished a hard day's work in a most satisfactory manner. The rings were spacious, and there was plenty of room for the dogs to show to full advantage without, as in most terrier classes at the majority of shows, getting into contact with one another. These rings were a decided improvement, but in some respects the arrangements left a great deal to be desired.

The following acted as judges:—Major Gunn (Bulldogs, Cairns, Fox Terriers, Greyhounds, Irish Red Setters, Pointers and Retrievers), Mr. J. Holland (Airedales, Collies, Cocker Spaniels and Pekingese), Mr. J. Jackson (Irish Red Terriers and Sealyhams), Mr. Corbett (Irish Blue Terriers).

SUMMARY OF AWARDS.

Irish Red Terriers were fairly good. Mr. J. J. McCormack, Roscrea, took the first three prizes in Puppy Dog with Culprit, Skipper and Hustler. Miss J. Short, Dublin, was, however, principal winner, being first in Novice, Graduate, Limit and Open Dog with Bloomfield Star. Puppy Bitch went to Mr. Kenny's Mespil Doreen, Novice to Mr. Hazlett's Botanic Trix, while the remaining classes, Graduate, Limit and Open were appropriated by the Hon. Lady de Courcy Wheeler's Annesboro' Ariadne. Collies were only moderate. Mr. R. Crawford's Ballynameta Bubbles was first in Graduate and Open Dog or Bitch, and Mr. M. Grace's Beauty topped the Local Class, while Mr. J. Plunkett's Baggot Queen was the best of the Puppies.

The quality of Airedales was strong. Dr. C. Drennan's Prior's Tom won the Puppy Class. Judicious Sceptic, owned by Mr. R. Butler, was placed first in Novice and Graduate. The Limit Class went to Mr. J. J. Malone's Marchioness of Annamore, while the Open Class and Green Star (4 points) was won by Mr. A. J. Connolly's Clunagh Go By. Both classes in Bulldogs, the Graduate and Open Dog or Bitch, were won by Mrs. J. Forde's Tramore Colleen.

Cairns were also small, Miss H. Patten winning the Novice Dog or Bitch with Tabitha of Muskerry and the Open with Phœbe of Muskerry. Mr. W. J. Lindsey was the chief winner in Cockers, his Parkmore Bluette being first in Novice Dog or Bitch, while his Parkmore Raven won both the Limit and Junior Classes. Mr. F. S. Browne's Sweet Sally won the Graduate Class and Mr. E. Lindsey the Open and Green Star with Rosemount Gem, the Brace going to Mr. W. J. Lindsey. Miss Cuniam's Cowper Chum won the Puppy Class. Fox Terriers drew a good entry. Mr. J. O'Hara's Scanlan of Mountain View won both Puppy and Maiden Dog or Bitch, the same owner's Trixie Again of Mountain View winning the Novice Bitch Class. Mr. H. Allen was the most consistent winner, being first in Graduate, Limit and Open Dog, with Drumcullen Reminder, and first in Graduate, Limit and Open Bitch with Drumcullen Undecided. Mr. J. Smyth's Keighley's Pride took first prize in both the Novice and Graduate Classes in Smooths, the Limit and Open being annexed by Mr. A. H. Oliphant's Tara Revue.

Greyhounds were exceptionally good, the competition being keen in the Open Classes. First place in Dogs went to Mr. P. J. Sammon's Dr. Frank, and in Bitches to Mr. M. Hayes' Homeless. There was only one entry in Junior Dogs, Mr. M. O'Connell's Champagne Jim being awarded the prize. Mr. J. McLoughney's bitch winning the Junior Bitch Class.

Kerry Blues were excellent, both in quantity and quality. Puppy Dog and Open Bitch were annexed by Bushmount Madcap and Rags of Bushmount respectively, both owned by Dr. G. P. Pierce. Mr. W. Collins's Quaker Boy was successful in Maiden Dog. Mr. P. Healy's Dan Magrew in Novice Dog, Mr. Hayes's Leinster Leader in Graduate Dog, and Mr. P. D. McCreary's Tarzan's Chip in both Limit and Open Dog. Puppy Bitch was topped by Mr. V. P. McMullen's Rebellious Betty, and Maiden Bitch by Mr. M. O'Connell's Loughton's Fancy. Mr. J. J. Madden's Roscrea Lass was first in both Novice Bitch and Local Dog or Bitch, while Graduate and Limit Bitch went to Colonel J. McLoughlin's Galway's Pride.

Irish Red Setters were also much in evidence. Mr. G. Bennett's Tomasin won the Puppy Class, while his Maire ni Grugach won the Graduate Bitch. Novice Dog was won by Sergeant G. McGuinness's Fogra, while the Graduate, Limit and Open Classes went to Mr. J. W. Heaslip's Muckross Chief. Novice Bitch was won by Mr. A. W. O'Connor's Sheevra, Limit, Open and Local Bitches going to Mr. Marshall with Irish Venus, the same owner winning the Brace.

Miss K. E. Morgan's Nik of Alderbourne won the Open Dog or Bitch and Green Star in Pekingese, the Puppy Graduate and Limit Dog or Bitch going to Mrs. M. J. Forde with Tramore, Tramore Tien Wing and Tramore Tsan Pam respectively. Mr. W. A. Robinson's Nellie of Summer Grove won both Novice and Open Dog or bitch, the same owner also appropriating the Brace in Pointers, while Mr. A. E. Moeran's Portumna Countess was first in the Open Dog or Bitch for Retrievers.

Mr. C. Q. Godfree was the most successful exhibitor in Sealyhams, winning the Novice, Graduate and Limit Dog with Barney of Kellistown, the Open Dog with Carnew Beefeater, and also the Brace. Miss R. Phelan's Seventh Queen won the Novice Bitch Class; Graduate, Limit and Open going to Mr. F. Fitzpatrick's Radnock Roulette.

CASHEL of the KINGS
— on the king of spirits!

THE massive Rock of Cashel, in the southern half of Tipperary, has given Ireland a proverb as well as a tradition. The rock is crowned by a group of buildings of great architectural and historical interest. Generally speaking the buildings date from the early twelfth century, the Round Tower being much earlier and the Cathedral later. Cormac's Chapel, built by the saintly King of Munster, was consecrated in 1134. It is in the Norman style comprising nave, chancel, and towers. The pointed windows, choir, transepts, and tower are very beautiful.

The famed Cross of Cashel, with a sculptured effigy of St. Patrick, will be seen in the burial ground outside. The Cathedral was once burned by the Earl of Kildare, and again during the Civil War was the scene of a terrible tragedy when Lord Inchequin, known locally as "Morrough of the Burnings" cruelly slew a number of women and children who had sought sanctuary there.

Cashel is distant from Dublin some 108 miles, and from Cork 157 miles. The roads are, on the whole, good.

K.A.A

SEQUEL TO CASHING OF A CHEQUE.

TRAVELLER CHARGED WITH FALSE PRETENCES.

Mr. William Nix, a Dublin commercial traveller, was charged before District Justice Kenny, at Roscommon, with, as alleged, obtaining £30 under false pretences.

The Justice adjourned the case for a month, the accused man, in the meantime, to refund the amount of the deficit, with £5 State expenses.

Mr. H. J. Oldham, chief accountant in Messrs. T. and C. Martin, timber merchants, North Wall, Dublin, which firm the accused man represented, said that the firm would not insist on their expenses, £2 10s.

Inspector Ward said that the accused man made the following statement:—"I was away for the week-end, and signed the firm's name to the cheque. I often did that before, and how this cheque came back I don't know."

Superintendent O'Gara explained that the firm was communicated with, and replied that Mr. Nix had no authority to cash cheques made payable to them.

The Justice said that it was an unfortunate case.

At the request of Mr. McSherry, Superintendent O'Gara reduced the amount to £10, so as to bring the case within the Court's jurisdiction.

Mr. McSherry said that the money would be paid, and the Justice gave his decision as stated.

PRAGUE INTERNATIONAL FAIR.

The Prague International Fair will be held from August 29th to September 5th. Great Britain, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Switzerland, Cyprus and other countries will be represented by individual exhibits, and the total number of exhibitors will be about 2,500. French firms at the last samples fair secured, according to a statement by the French Department of Overseas Trade, orders to a value of over 2,000,000 francs.

Brazil, which for the first time may be seen at any European fair, will make a comprehensive show of all its products, organised by the Federal Ministry of ommerce, Industry and Agriculture. A special mission, composed of officials and business men, is en route for Prague in order to investigate export possibilities for Brazilian goods in Central Europe and to confer with Czecho-Slovak authorities and business organisations.

Included in the Fair will be some special exhibitions—viz., Radio Fair, Shoe Industry Show, Ideal Home Exhibition, Sports Goods Fair, Mining Exhibition and Furniture Fair.

Visitors to the Fair are granted advantages as usual—33 per cent. reduction on Czecho-Slovak railways, suspension of visas, lodging bureau and interpreters. Many visitors to Leipzig Fair, which is held coincidentally, are expected to extend their trip to Prague.

A verdict of "suicide while temporarily insane" was returned yesterday at the inquest on George Seddon (15), a pit boy, who was found hanged with a black necktie, fastened round a brass clothes rail over the fireplace, at his home at Ashton-in-Makerfield, Wigan. The boy's father said that he thought the coal dispute had upset his son, who had worked in a colliery since leaving school at the age of 14.

CYCLIST KILLED NEAR LURGAN.

The bicycle skidding when she turned a sharp curve in the road near her home at Turmoyra, near Lurgan, on Tuesday evening, a young woman named Jennie Kane was thrown heavily, and sustained injuries to her spine and back, from which she died during the night. An inquest was not considered necessary.

ROYAL HOSPITAL FOR INCURABLES.

A meeting of the Board of Governors of the Royal Hospital for Incurables was held at the hospital on Tuesday, 17th inst., at 9.30 o'clock, William Perrin, Esq. (Chairman), presiding. 194 Governors were present at this meeting.

The poceedings of the last meeting of the Board were read, confirmed, and signed. Apologies were received from a number of Governors unable to be present.

Miss O'Brien, Miss L. Bradshaw, Wm. Montgomery, Esq., and P. J. Brady, Esq., having kindly consented to act, were appointed Visiting Governors for the month.

Payments gratefully acknowledged and 5 new Life Governors were unanimously elected as such, viz.:—D. Conway, Esq. Qualifying as Life Governors:—Michael Christie, Esq., and P. J. Dardis, Esq., £52 (per James Gorevan, Esq.); Miss A. F. Morton, £21; Miss Helen M. Odlum, £21 (per Mrs. Dudley Westropp); Mrs. John P. Butler, £21 (per Chairman).

The Chairman made special allusion to the heavy and he earnestly appealed for further financial help to aid in reducing this growing liability, and pointed out that the opening of three extra beds at this election would increase the expenditure considerably. £21 qualifies the kind donor as a Life Governor, who, as such, have complete control of the management of the Institution. The hospital, which is capable of accommodating 249 patients (if funds were forthcoming to maintain this large number of beds), has claims on all classes of the community, as it admits poor incurable, and necessitous patients, without religious distinction, from all parts of Ireland, and supplies them with food, lodging, clothing, medical and surgical assistance, medicines, and all manner of necessaries, without fee or reward from the sufferer. It costs the hospital at present about £500 per annum for bank interest on overdraft. If the debt were cleared this sum of money would be available for the wants of the suffering inmates.

The election of patients was then proceeded with. Sixteen names appeared on the printed list, and 13 candidates were in attendance. The three absentees were medically certified by Dr. Preston Ball as unable to be present. The following having obtained the highest number of votes, were declared duly elected patients, four for immediate admission, and two to remain out on a weekly allowance from the funds pending further vacancies in the wards:—James Griffin, paralysis of the legs; Patrick Caulfield, chronic rheumatic arthritis; Joseph Ward, consumption; William P. O'Callaghan, consumption and heart disease; Michael Tyrrell, consumption; Christopher Hill, heart disease.

The Board adjourned to Tuesday, 21st September, 1926, when an election for female patients will take place.

The Board tender their grateful thanks for the following kind contributions received since last meeting:—£10—S. Strangman, Esq. £5 5/- each—Messrs. Tedcastle, McCormick and Co., Ltd.; Lord Ardee. £5 each—Mrs. Margaret M. Byrne, Miss Cecily Veronica Byrne. £2 2/—Messrs. John L. Scallan and Co., Ltd. £1 1/—E. Connolly, Esq., B.L.; Miss Eva M. O'Conor. £1 each—Mrs. R. E. Hafner, Miss B. MacNicol. 10/—Mrs. Thomas Stanford. Smaller sums, 10/-.

Further contributions are urgently needed, and earnestly solicited, to reduce the hospital's heavy indebtedness to their bankers (£7,825 1/11), and will be gratefully received by:—William Perrin, Esq. (Chairman), 27 Palmerston Gardens, Dublin; Sir Walter H. Boyd, Bart., K.C. (Vice-Chairman), 13 Upper Mount street; Alfred G. Hollinshead, Esq., J.P. (Hon. Treasurer), The Haven, Palmerston Gardens, Dublin, or by the Registrar at the hospital.

It is now stated that the salvage operations on the wreck of the liner Egypt will be resumed as soon as the weather permits.
